DEMANDS GROW FOR TAX CHANGE TO AID BUSINESS

Harrison Forced to Desert Sales Levy.

Governors Revolt

Six New England governors lash Roosevelt policies as peril to U. S. and demand tax relief for American industry. Details on Page 10.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—With steadily increasing demands in both the senate and house for immediate repeal of the corporation undistributed profits tax, as a means of stimulating business recovery, Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, today was forced to back away from his position that the alternative might be a general sales tax.

Under prodding by the wily Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], Harrison told the senate that he never meant to convey the impression, in his statement yesterday after conferring with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. that sales taxes would be necessary if the undistributed profits tax should be repealed.

Favors Budget Balancing.

Harrison today said it might become necessary to broaden the income tax base and lower the personal exemptions, but that personally he favored an immediate balancing of the budget by immediately cutting down expenditures.

"If, in the revision of the tax laws, we should lose some revenue, I do not believe, with the spending program that is now going on, that we would help business," Harrison told the senate. "I think the goal should be to try to balance the budget at the first opportunity. I believe the wise way to do it is to curtail some of the emergency expenditures."

Harrison's statement yesterday, intimating that sales taxes, which all members of congress mortally fear, would be necessary if the undistributed profits tax should be abolished, was generally accepted as propaganda inspired by the administration to forestall a threatened stampede for immediate repeal.

Claim Votes for Repeal.

This effect, if such was intended, was not discernible today. Senate foes of the undistributed profits tax conducted private polls and found that at least 70 senators favored immediate action to encourage business and industry by repealing or drastically modifying the penalty tax.

Administration leaders admitted privately that a repeal resolution would carry by a substantial majority. However, the house ways and means committee, where all revenue bills must originate, has so far followed the wishes of the administration by resisting action at the special session.

In addition to the fight on its hands to prevent outright repeal of the undistributed profits tax, the administration faces widespread Democratic opposition to the proposed imposition of processing taxes to finance the crop control and benefit scheme, with which the agriculture committees of both houses of congress are still struggling.

Byrnes Raps Processing Levy.

Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], chairman of the senate agriculture committee, has said he would never favor a return to processing taxes, and today his colleague, Senator James F. Byrnes, wrote a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace denouncing this proposal.

Calling the processing tax, which Wallace proposed for cotton and wheat, a sales tax, Senator Byrnes wrote:

"When the processing tax is levied upon cotton it must increase the price of cotton goods. When you increase the price of cotton goods you lessen consumption. When you lessen consumption you lessen demands for raw cotton and depress the price of cotton. The more you depress the price of raw cotton the greater the subsidy you will have to pay to the farmers, and the increased subsidy will offset the revenue you raise.

"When you tax wheat and cotton you tax bread and breeches. You tax necessities, and you lay the tax

Brazil Dictator Shuts Federal Courts

GIVES MILITARY TRIBUNAL NEW POWER BY EDICT

Tightens Grip Over Twenty States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 18.—President Getulio Vargas, who proclaimed a new constitution on Nov. 10, tightened his dictatorship over Brazil today by decreeing the abolition of the federal courts in the twenty states, the Acre territory, and the Rio de Janeiro federal district. Dozens of judges were put on the retired list.

The decree makes the supreme military tribunal the highest court in military cases—and since Brazil is under a "state of war," offenses considered as inimical to Vargas' authoritarian rule may come under the tribunal's authority.

Ousts Spokesmen of People.

Vargas in setting up his dictatorship dissolved the federal senate and chamber of deputies and all state legislatures and established a strict censorship. This he did with the support of the army. He assumed powers to rule by decree until a plebiscite is held on his new constitution. No date for the plebiscite has been set.

Thus Vargas gained the most power over South America's largest country, a nation of 47,000,000 population, since the Braganza emperors of the last century.

The first republic was founded in 1889 and Brazil was governed under constitutional forms from that time until 1930, when Vargas seized power in a military uprising. He ruled from 1930 until last week with semi-dictatorial powers, while at the same time maintaining outward forms of democracy.

Like European Dictatorships.

The dictator's new decree powers create a form of government comparable with the absolute dictatorships of Europe. The corporate state planned under the new constitution will be modeled after the authoritarian governments of Portugal, Italy, and Germany.

There will be a chamber of deputies, chosen on a population basis, and a federal council. Each of the twenty states is to name a member to the council and Vargas will name ten additional members. The cabinet also will have new authoritarian powers.

One of the features of the new constitution will be a consultative council on national economy. The body is to be elected half by workers' syndicates and half by employers' groups.

Strikes Called Anti-Social.

Another provision declares strikes and lockouts are anti-social and incompatible with the interests of production.

The corporative state also plans aid for large families and facilitates recognition of children born out of wedlock.

Vargas said his coup d'état was prompted by the "threat of armed revolt by regional gangsters masked as party leaders." He said his assumption of dictatorial powers was "not Fascism, but democracy molded to Brazilian necessities." The Vargas leaders in seventeen states supported his coup. He appointed military governors for the other three.

A decree canceled the January elections which had been scheduled under the old constitution [put in effect in 1934]. It was announced that Armando de Salles Oliveira, the presidential candidate opposing the Vargas régime, had been placed "under vigilance for his own safety."

Suspends Debt Payments.

One of Vargas' first actions under his decree powers was to suspend payments on foreign investments in Brazil, with certain exceptions. United States investors hold about $360,000,000 worth of Brazilian securities.

Another Vargas action was to reduce the export tax on coffee. The costly seven year effort to control prices of coffee, the largest crop of the world's largest coffee producer, was declared ended. Vargas abolished "official quota" exchange restrictions.

Thus coffee was poured on the

ITALY RAISES TAX ON GASOLINE 40 PCT.; IT'S 66c A GALLON

ROME, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Italian government, furthering its program to raise money for self-sufficiency development of the empire, today clapped a 40 per cent increase on the gasoline tax. The levy raised the price of gasoline in Rome by 25 per cent, the new figure being 66 cents a gallon.

The increase was ordered as Italy observed the second anniversary of the league of nations' application of economic penalties against her during the Ethiopian war by rededicating herself to Premier Mussolini's ideal of self-sufficiency.

Fascist industrialists were summoned to a great massmeeting to hear government leaders urge renewed efforts to attain national economic independence. Concrete evidence of progress in developing domestic substitutes for foreign fabrics was presented at an exposition of Italian textiles.

POLICEMAN SHOT BY BROTHER COP IN BURGLAR CHASE

Detective Wilbur Davis, 32 years old, of the Summerdale station, was shot, perhaps fatally, early today by a brother policeman when he was mistaken for a burglar during a pursuit of four suspects. One was caught.

Davis was in the station when a call came in of thieves at Walter Ryan's grocery at 4906 North Seeley avenue. He hurried there alone and in time to rout the four men. Meantime, Policemen Frank Ptack and Leonard Kruesler of the Summerdale station had also reached the scene in response to a radio alarm.

As they alighted from their squad car Davis was chasing the suspects through an areaway and firing at them. Ptack and Kruesler believed his shots were aimed at them. Thinking he was one of the burglars, Ptack fired two shots at him, striking him in the back. Ptack and Kruesler went on to capture one of the fugitives. His name is being withheld.

Davis' identity was quickly learned and he was taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital. The bullet was found to have entered his right lung. He lives at 4457 North Lamon avenue. Ptack, a highly rated policeman, killed a burglar in the rear of 5859 Kenmore avenue a year ago.

Bowler's $10 Strike Sticks; Thumb Fun!

At one end of the bowling alley stood the ten maple pins, their white surfaces reflecting the brilliant overhead light. At the other end of the alley, squinting down the long, polished surface, was John Hickey. Mr. Hickey was armed with a 16 pound ball in which he carefully inserted the thumb and third and fourth fingers of his right hand.

"This time," said Hickey to his friends at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse at 641 Scoville avenue, Oak Park, "this time I'll get a strike."

He Gets His Strike.

Hickey wound up. He drew the ball far back as he took three or four steps forward to the edge of the alley. He swung the sphere with terrific force.

Unfortunately Mr. Hickey had neglected to take stock of his thumb. This bowling thumb was noticeably swollen from its habitual clutch on the ball. Now, when it is remembered that a bowling ball is held by thumb and fingers inserted in the two holes bored in the ball, it will also come to the mind of the reader that when the ball is propelled down the alley the bowler must release his grip on the ball.

A Mighty, Mighty Swing.

Mr. Hickey swung the ball high behind him as he took the several steps calculated to add earnestness to his swing. His arm came down in a half circle of astonishing velocity. Mr. Hickey's swollen thumb was wedged fast in the ball. And the ball, instead of winging on to the ten pins, continued to describe a wide arc and fetched Mr. Hickey a terrific whack over the left eye.

With a gash over his eye, Hickey fell to the floor. His fellow players finally extracted his thumb and took him to the West Suburban hospital. There Mr. Hickey created more excitement.

A physician used five stitches to close the wound and then presented a bill for $10.

Such a Thing to Say.

"Ten dollars!" shouted Hickey. "Robbery!" He glared around the emergency room. "Why, I'll knock you down like a——"

"——Bunch of tenpins?" asked an intern helpfully. That, they say, started a real uproar. Through the deserted streets in the early morning hour four Oak Park police squads and two from the Austin district in Chicago sped to the hospital in response to a summons from a frightened nurse.

The police quickly ended the one-man riot and calmed Hickey. He collected $10 from his friends who had accompanied him to the hospital, and departed with his stitches intact for his home at 825 Clarence avenue in Oak Park.

And that's all, except to mention that at last reports those gleaming tenpins at the far end of the alley were still standing.

WIND SURPRISES TWO COPS; LOCKS DOOR ON THEM AND PRISONER!

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Patrolman John O'Brien couldn't handle an inebriated prisoner in a patrol wagon today and called upon Driver Ray Johnson for help. Johnson left the wheel, hopped through the rear door, and helped quell the pugnacious prisoner. Just then a gust of wind blew the door shut and the outside lock snapped.

For 90 minutes O'Brien and Johnson yelled for help—without help from their prisoner, than whom they were no better off.

Finally a pedestrian stopped and, although skeptical of O'Brien's plea to "open the door, we're policemen," agreed to telephone headquarters. He did—and a squad car came to the rescue.

Army of U. S. A. Repulses a Force of Women Stenos

Col. William W. Edwards, head of army recruiting in the Chicago area, let it be known yesterday there are vacancies in the clerical services of the army. He was besieged almost immediately by a force of women stenographers who marched upon his office on the second floor of the United States courthouse. Col. Edwards had forgotten to add that the jobs were open to men only, who must be qualified for regular army service.

The Bedores, who live at 8012 South Ashland avenue, have been married twelve years.

Jury Barred as Court Hears His Confession

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The strange tale of the roadside murder of red haired Maybelle Kelly, as it came from the lips of her pastor last July 15, was retold in court here today.

The jury was barred while the tale was unfolded. The Rev. Colonel Ellsworth Newton, who wrote it last July 15 in a confession he now seeks to repudiate, was merely a fidgeting listener. It came in the testimony of Walter G. Stillwell, prosecuting attorney of Marion county, Missouri, who was present in the Pike county jail here when the Baptist minister wrote and signed his confession.

Seek to Present Confession.

The prosecutor's assertions, before a courtroom packed with well dressed townsfolk and lean, lank farmers, avid heads craned forward, were part of long arguments by both sides to which Judge A. Clay Williams listened late today to determine admissibility of the confession.

The state hopes to have the twelve page confession read to the jury. If true, it leaves untouched only a few details of what took place on the night of July 12, in which Mrs. Kelly was killed and thrown into the Mississippi river.

The defense is equally determined to have it excluded. For in it the minister, now pleading innocence of the crime, tells verbosely of "becoming excited" and striking Mrs. Kelly "with a hammer or something" again and again.

Denies Use of Force.

Defense attorneys contend the confession was obtained under duress. Prosecutor Stillwell denied this today. The Rev. Mr. Newton, who at 51 is no Lothario, sat comfortably in the living room of the jail as he wrote, Stillwell said. He asked for a lamp and got it. He also turned the radio to his favorite program. He was not handcuffed, as the defense contends, Stillwell said.

"I have never talked," Mr. Stillwell said, "to a man more calm than the Rev. Newton was."

"Was there intimidation?" State's Attorney Merrill Johnston, who is prosecuting the murder charge, asked him.

Reporters and Photogs There.

"None at all," he replied. "There were even reporters there. They asked him in my presence if he signed it of his own accord. He said yes. Pictures were taken there.

"They asked him, then, why did he do it [the murder]. His reply was, 'The statement covers all.'"

The thin, angular minister, wearing again today the small belted black suit, gray shirt and spotted blue tie he has worn since the trial began, listened carefully to the Missouri prosecutor's testimony, his drawn face intent as he beat a tattoo on the table with long, white fingers.

BRITAIN ELATED AS U. S. GIVES IN ON TRADE PACTS

View Next Move as Political Tieup.

Far-Reaching Step

Washington, D. C.—Leaders believe the negotiations between Great Britain and the United States on a trade pact are full of political as well as economic dynamite. News is received that Canada is also seeking a new trade agreement.

Story on page 2.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A basis has been reached for the negotiation of an Anglo-American trade pact, linking the United States with the British empire in a close economic alliance, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons this afternoon. In making the announcement, which was simultaneous with one made in Washington, Chamberlain added that formal negotiations for a new trade treaty would begin soon.

The British prime minister implied that concessions had been made by Washington. He spoke of changes in the American attitude toward the treaty in the course of exploratory talks. Although Chamberlain did not define what these changes were, presumably he referred to the British insistence that Washington must consider the British empire as a whole and take into account the empire policy which dictated the Ottawa preferential tarif rates to the British dominions.

Offset to Fascist Group.

It was for this reason, no doubt, that the prospective trade agreement was being set forth in the British capital tonight as a virtual alliance of the United States with the British Empire in the same manner as the anti-red pact links Japan, Germany, and Italy—an alliance which it is said to offset.

Prime Minister Chamberlain made his brief announcement in reply to a question from Maj. C. R. Attlee, leader of the Laborite opposition.

"I am very happy," he said, "to be able to inform the house that informal and exploratory discussions with a view to reaching an agreed basis for negotiations of an Anglo-United States trade agreement have reached the point at which the governments of the United Kingdom and the United States feel able to announce that the negotiations of such an agreement are contemplated.

"As the president of the board of trade indicated recently, that announcement marks a definite and well recognized step in the United States' procedure of negotiation. I feel sure the house will welcome warmly this further step toward an agreement between the two countries."

Deplore "Entangling" Label.

Even though the pact would be only an economic alliance, it is sure to put the United States further into world entanglements if it is to be looked upon as an alliance at all, in the view of American observers here who deplore the tendency to consider it in that light. It was stated here that during the course of the discussions the London government has kept the dominion governments fully informed and that cognate trade agreements will be reached between the United States and the dominions, completing the linking up of all the English speaking peoples.

In addition to making the trade pact contingent on favorable treatment under the United States neutrality law, it was understood also that the Tory elements here insisted that the pact between the United States and the United Kingdom must envisage the British commonwealth as a unit—that is, the pact would not be distinctly between the British Isles and the United States.

Tories Insist "No Concessions."

Lord Horne and L. C. M. S. Amery, two Tory speakers, welcomed the trade pact in addresses today, but made pointed reservations that it must reinforce and not weaken the empire links by giving any special concessions to the United States.

Empire snags, it was pointed out tonight, may crop up in negotiations that are to follow, for privileged interests here are expected to oppose any action that would in any way interfere with development of the imperial tarif system.

Hope was expressed that the Scandinavian countries, Holland and Belgium—the so-called Oslo group—may be brought into the new economic alliance. Britons were pointing out what a powerful club over nations like Germany, Italy, and Japan—nations which have a system of closed economy—the new pact will be.

POLITICAL 'TNT'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The agreement of the United States and Great Britain to enter into negotiations looking toward a trade alliance, announced simultaneously today in the capitals of the two nations, is looked upon here as a step charged with far reaching political as well as economic significance.

The Washington announcement of Secretary of State Cordell Hull was followed almost immediately by word that a new reciprocal trade pact would be sought with Canada. This caused some surprise, as the present Canadian-American trade understanding, in effect since Jan. 1, 1936, has another year to run.

The administration long has sought to enter into a commercial pact with Great Britain as the keystone of the Roosevelt good neighbor reciprocal trade treaty policy.

Dictatorships Force British Hand.

Great Britain held somewhat aloof from the suggestion of a commercial alliance with this country and pressed its own program of agreements with units of the empire. These empire pacts were extended recently in conformance with the "buy British" policy.

The British decision to enter into negotiations with the United States was seen here as motivated by an attempt to offset the growing menace of dictator alliances. Britain is seeking to join with the United States and France to put up a commercial front against Fascism, Naziism, and communism, observers declare.

Britain, it is felt, would like to see the compact extended into a political alliance, with proffers of aid in the event of war, but observers are certain that the temper of the American people, set against entangling alliances, makes such a possibility most remote.

Parley to Start Soon.

The negotiations, which are expected to begin before the end of the year, were prompted by a year of explorations by representatives of the two governments. Final determination of the British to negotiate, it is believed, came with the adoption of American neutrality legislation, clamping embargoes on shipment of implements of war and credits to belligerents.

Britain has been worried over maintaining an open avenue of supplies in the event of war. To this end British statesmen advocated a trade pact as an opening wedge toward bringing about a revision of the act more favorable to the empire.

The working out of a treaty is expected to have a powerful influence on world peace. The banding of the United States, France, and the British empire into a commercial alliance will give the three leading democratic nations a firm grip on world economic control.

Final Stone in Commercial Arch.

A trade treaty between the United States and France already exists. In addition the three nations are bound together under the tripartite monetary agreement. The knitting of the commercial tie would round out the commercial alliance.

The major subject for discussions at the impending negotiations will concern granting of the same preferential treatment to some American products that is accorded to the goods of dominions and colonies under the empire agreements. It is believed that no treaty will be negotiated unless Britain yields on this point.

To date no foreign nation has broken through the solid line of preferences established under the Ottawa agreement of 1932. From the outset of the reciprocal trade pact policy Secretary of State Hull has sought to arrive at a treaty with Great Britain. He is convinced that the binding of the two countries commercially will tend to remove world trade barriers and promote peace.

Advice on Provisions Sought.

In his announcement the secretary invited submission of suggestions as to products that should be considered in the negotiations from interested parties, a procedure established under the treaty program. Later he will list the goods on which the United States considers granting concessions. Representatives of industries will be given an opportunity to approve or protest at public hearings.

England, Ireland, and Scotland constitute the largest foreign market of the United States. In turn this country buys more of their goods than any political entity except Canada. The balance of trade has been heavily in favor of this country.

Last year American exports to Great Britain totaled 440 million dollars, 18 per cent of the nation's foreign trade. In 1929 exports reached a peak of 848 million dollars. Imports last year totaled more than 200 million dollars. In 1929 they were almost 330 million dollars.

This source said the alleged conspirators intended to dynamite the executive's special train the next time he left the capital on one of his frequent visits to the interior.

There was no immediate official confirmation, however, of the report that an attempt on the president's life was involved.

world markets on an unlimited basis and prices dropped in all world markets. Vargas closed Brazilian coffee exchanges in order to work out the program.

Legion Chief Gets Key Post.

The key post in the dictatorial cabinet, the ministry of justice and interior, was given to Francisco Campos, who was Vargas' chief collaborator in drawing up the corporative state plan.

Campos was organizer of the "October Legion," a khaki shirt movement devoted to "safeguarding principles of the revolution of 1930."

The "October Legion" is made up of men who aided Vargas when he was first a candidate for president in 1930. They joined in the uprising of Oct. 3 which put Vargas into office. The first serious challenge to his rule was the Sao Paulo revolt of 1932. That was suppressed and most of its leaders exiled.

Quells Red Uprising.

The second threat to his rule—after he had been elected and inaugurated under the constitution of 1934—came in November of 1935, following an unsuccessful communist uprising. Vargas declared a "state of war" and suspended constitutional guarantees in many areas. The restrictions lasted until June 17 of this year.

The "state of war" was put into effect again on Oct. 2 "to combat the spread of communism," but was alleged to have been aimed at Gen. José Antonio Flores da Cunha, governor of the state of Rio Grand do Sul, who, it was charged, had built a personal army of 30,000 men.

Flores da Cunha and his followers and other foes of Vargas fled abroad. This left little opposition within the country to Vargas' assumption of decree powers.

Fascist Party Dissolved.

The political section of the Fascist "Integralist" movement was ordered dissolved. The Integralist leader, Peinio Salgado, said the new constitution made political parties unnecessary. He was allowed to remain in Brazil and retain the civics, morals, and physical education sections of his movement.

Vargas is 54 years old and 5 feet 4 inches tall, but of stocky build. He was a brilliant scholar and was admitted to the bar at the age of 24. He already had served a term in the army. He was elected prosecutor and was twice a member of the chamber of deputies. He became finance minister in 1926 and governor of his home state, Rio Grand do Sul, in 1927.

PERMITS NEW YORK KILLER TO ENTER PLEA TO MANSLAUGHTER

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The state got another of District Attorney William C. Dodge's "bargains" today when a man indicted for first degree murder was permitted to plead guilty to first degree manslaughter.

The plea was accepted by Judge Cornelius Collins in general sessions on a recommendation by Dodge, whose reason for agreeing to the plea was that the defendant had been tried once and the jury had disagreed.

In the case of Nick Montana, who was permitted by Dodge to plead guilty this week to a misdemeanor covering a felony indictment, there was a second trial after a jury had once disagreed.

The defendant in the murder case is Giuseppi Parloti, 60 years old, an alien illegally in this country.

Johns Hopkins University Gets Bequest of Million

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—More than $1,000,000, according to informal estimates, was bequeathed to the Johns Hopkins university in the will of Louis J. Boury, Brooklyn grain merchant, it was revealed today. The executors filed a certified copy of the document in the Orphans' court. Mr. Boury died on Sept. 7.

GIRL PREPARES TO MARRY KING OF EGYPT JAN. 20

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 18.—Miss Farida Zulfikar, who will become queen of Egypt after Jan. 20, is preparing for her marriage on that date to King Farouk I. She is 17 years old and the daughter of Youssef Bey Zulfikar, councilor of the Alexandria mixed court of appeals. The king will be 18 years old on Feb. 11 by western calculations. By the Moslem calendar he was 18 on July 29 when he took the oath of office.

Farouk and Miss Zulfikar have known each other since childhood. Their romance is said to have started early this year when he, his mother, Queen Nazli, his four sisters, and Miss Zulfikar enjoyed a vacation in Switzerland. The betrothal was made public Aug. 23.

Farouk is the first king of a free Egypt since the 16th century when Turkish hordes conquered the Mameluke rulers of the country. He succeeded his father, Fuad I., who died April 28, 1936. After Fuad's death Great Britain and Egypt signed a treaty ending British military occupation which had lasted 55 years. Egypt now is an independent monarchy.

POLICE OF QUEBEC SEIZE COPIES OF 5 U. S. MAGAZINES

QUEBEC, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Police seized about 700 copies of five American magazines today in raids on the offices of a distributing agency and several Quebec news stands. The magazines, authorities said, were "Pic," "Foto," "Photograph," "Look," and "Coronet."

The raids were the result of an order last night by Quebec's administrative committee. It was issued after Alderman Philemon Garneau stormed into the committee room with a copy of a magazine he said he considered "bad for the morals of our younger generation."

Police said they found many of the magazine dealers had "voluntarily returned all magazine issues we considered as containing indecent pictures."

BRITISH CHURCH WARNED IT FACES LOSS OF POWER

Row Arises in Assembly Over Divorce Problem.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A move to seek parliamentary legislation banning use of the Church of England ceremony in remarriage of divorced persons whose former spouses are alive stirred a battle in the annual church assembly today. It brought a warning that the church faces a possible split with the state and the loss of privileges and powers enjoyed since ancient times.

Lord Hugh Cecil brought the issue to a head by introducing in the assembly a proposal to form a committee to draft a bill for presentation to parliament which would forbid use of the marriage ceremony from the book of common prayer in the type of remarriage mentioned.

Windsor Marriage Cited.

At present any clergyman can marry such divorced persons if he wishes, even if higher church authorities do not approve. Observers were quick to recall that the ceremony performed by the Rev. R. Anderson Jardine for the duke and duchess of Windsor was such a case. Few clergymen defy their superiors in this manner, but those who do cannot be disciplined. Such ceremonies are legal.

Fighting the proposed move for parliamentary action, Dr. Norman P. Williams of Oxford warned the assembly that the Church of England is not certain of its security as the established state church. Dr. Williams, an eminent divinity professor, warned that the proposed move would be dangerous and might be the cause of cutting the church loose entirely from the state. Parliament, he said, almost certainly would refuse to pass the proposed legislation and might disestablish the church.

Could Mean Property Loss.

If the church were cut loose, he declared, it would mean that it would lose its various privileges not enjoyed by other sects—including the exclusive right to run the coronation service—and could mean the loss of much of its ancient property.

In this connection, Anglican observers recalled that one step tending toward disestablishment of the church was taken Tuesday when the assembly voted a request to parliament to abolish a praemunire penalty of imprisonment or property forfeiture established under King Henry VIII. [reign ended 1547]. This penalty applied to the dean and chapter of a cathedral if it refused to "elect" as bishop a candidate named by the crown—the prime minister.

Seek Full Freedom.

[Praemunire, in English law, is a form of writ for prosecuting certain offenses made punishable by forfeiture and imprisonment. It also means the offense or penalty involved. The writ was introduced by statute to repress papal encroachments, but later acts extended it to other offenses. Prosecution by writ of praemunire long has been obsolete. Many statutes are called "statute of praemunire," but the chief one, dating to 1392, forbade the attempt to enforce papal bulls and provisions.]

It is regarded as very unlikely that any attempt would be made to carry out the penalty of imprisonment or forfeiture of all property, but the church wants it formally abolished as a step toward full freedom in the choice of bishops.

The church is skating on thin ice, and knows it, observers declare. That was why Williams advised that it let the divorce situation stand as it is.

Discussing the questions raised by the proposed move, Williams said:

"There are worse things than disestablishment, but I confess I would wish to maintain the ancient connection between the church and the state, which was so splendidly manifested during the coronation.

"Let us be careful not to invite a rejection by parliament and take any step that would for the church end with gloom and shadow. Let sleeping dogs lie."

Remarking few clergymen would use the marriage service in the face of church disapproval, he advised churchmen to remember Aesop's fable of the dog carrying a bone across a river—when he tried to grab the reflection as well he not only failed, but lost the bone.

Decision Is Delayed.

The warning apparently gave the bishops something to think about and the matter was adjourned overnight.

Before that, however, the Rt. Rev. A. F. Winnington-Ingram, bishop of London, joined in opposition to the motion. He said that church discipline was strong enough without getting parliament involved in a dispute.

For some time there has been much worry in church circles over the move to abolish praemunire. It is feared to be, as one churchman said, "the thin edge of a wedge of disestablishment."

HUNT ASSAILANT AFTER BEATING OF GIRL IN CAR

Hyde Park police last night were searching for a colored man who early in the day struck Miss Esther Wimmer, 20 years old, and attempted to steal her automobile. Miss Wimmer, who works in a restaurant near 57th street and Stony Island avenue, was warming up the engine of her car preparatory to driving home when the colored man stepped in. When she refused to leave the wheel he struck her across the face, pulled her roughly aside, and started to drive away. She leaped from the car after it had gone a block, and it later was found abandoned nearby. Miss Wimmer is the daughter of Herman Wimmer, a teacher in the Lindblom high school, and lives at 5046 Woodlawn avenue.

This Is Lesson No. 4329: How to Win (?) a Soft Bet

A stranger whom he met in a restaurant yesterday bet Fritz Glomm 50 to 1 that he couldn't raise $400 cash. Glomm, a janitor, who lives at 633 Stratford place, thought he had a good bet and gave the stranger and another man $275 to hold while he went with a third man who offered to furnish the $125 needed to make up the $400. When Glomm hurried back to the restaurant the first two strangers had disappeared.

SOCIAL REGISTER IN N. Y. DELETES WALLY'S NAME

Society Delivers Snub to Windsor's Duchess.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—New York society today officially snubbed the duchess of Windsor. She's out of the Social Register for 1938, and so is the duke.

The only mention of the names of former King Edward VIII. of Great Britain and his duchess appears in very small type on page 892 of the volume, under "Marriages of 1937," thus:

"Windsor . . . Warfield."

The former Mrs. Simpson's name was part of the body of the sacred Register in the summer of 1937, when she was mentioned in the usual nice, large, light-face type, under "Windsor," in this wise:

"Windsor, H. R. H., Duke of . . . Married at Monts, France.

"Warfield, Mrs. Wallis [Spencer-Simpson-Wallis Warfield], June 3."

Has Her Ups and Downs.

The duchess has had her ups and downs as far as the Register is concerned. In 1936 she was in as Mrs. Simpson. In late 1936 and early 1937 she was in and out as Mrs. Simpson and as Wallis [Wally] Warfield. Then last summer she was in as the bride of the duke of Windsor. Now she seems out for good.

A howl went up on Park avenue when the summer issue rolled off the press. Society matrons and maidens, forgetting the "Mrs. Simpson" entry, were terribly upset to find the former Wallis Warfield's name under "Windsor."

What was she doing in the New York Social Register, anyway? they asked. She wasn't New York society, they said, adding that she wasn't even Baltimore society, because the Baltimore Social Register had never mentioned her name.

Duke's Friends Arrive.

Simultaneously with the revelation of the register's snub to the duchess, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rogers, at whose villa near Cannes, France, Mrs. Wallis Simpson lived while awaiting a divorce which would permit her to marry the duke of Windsor, arrived here on the Italian liner Conte di Savoia.

Mr. Rogers had this to say about the Windsors:

"The duke of Windsor has no Fascist leanings—not in the slightest!"

"The duchess has no Fascist sympathy—not a bit!"

"The married life of the duke and duchess is excellent. They couldn't be happier!"

"The duke believed he could come over to the United States as a private individual, interested in what he's always been interested in. Housing is a genuine interest of his. The talk of visiting America to 'go slumming' was considerable rot."

NAZI EDITOR ENDS LIFE IN VIENNA AS POLICE RAID HOME

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Richard Schuech, described by police as editor of the illegal, secretly circulated Nazi newspaper Austrian Observer, jumped to his death tonight from a fourth story window as political police raided his home. It was reported he was a German citizen.

Police earlier raided a hidden printing office of the newspaper in an apartment house near Schoenbrunn palace. They arrested twelve workers and confiscated a printing plant.

The newspaper long has been an irritation to Austrian police, who described it as one of the factors contributing to unsettled German-Austrian relations.

SIMPSON WEDS MRS. RAFFRAY IN QUIET CEREMONY

5 Day Law Waived for Wally's Ex-Mate.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray and Ernest A. Simpson, divorced husband of the duchess of Windsor, slipped out of New York today and were married here by Justice of the Peace Ned E. Ostmark, who never before had married a couple.

The Connecticut five day marriage law was waived by Probate Judge Bradford Boardman, who is vested with this power by statute.

The ceremony was performed at the Brooklawn Country club. Simpson's parents, the bride's sister, and a few close friends were present. A luncheon followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philo C. Calhoun.

Bride Gives 41 as Age.

Simpson and his bride went to the town hall at nearby Fairfield for their marriage license. Issued by Town Clerk Sam Glover, it gave the bride's age as 41 and said the marriage was her second.

Mrs. Raffray said she was born in Baltimore, the daughter of Henry Child Kirk and Ethel Edith Huntermuller. She listed London as her present address. Her family for three generations has owned the Kirk Silver company, manufacturing jewelers.

Simpson said he is 40 and gave his occupation as a ship broker. The son of Ernest L. Simpson and Charlotte Gaines, he said his marriage to Mrs. Raffray is his third. He, too, listed London as his present address.

Broker Divorced in Reno.

Simpson had announced on Nov. 10, the day after Mrs. Raffray obtained a Reno divorce from Jacques A. Raffray, a New York broker, that he hoped the marriage would take place "very soon, indeed," and added that he would be pleased if the ceremony was performed in Connecticut.

The couple expected to return to New York on Monday, where Simpson has made his residence since his arrival last month from London.

ILL AND FUNDS GONE, HE KILLS WIFE AND SELF

Toledo, O., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Harry Haudenschild, 50 years old, founder of the Air-Way Electric Appliance corporation and president of the Air Scale company, today shot and killed his wife, Luella, 48, and then killed himself in a death pact.

In notes left to business associates Haudenschild said he was broken in health and spirits and that he and his wife had agreed to end it all. The manufacturer, who lost heavily in the depression, also suffered severe financial losses in the recent stock market decline and a mortgage on his home had been foreclosed. An eviction order was in the hands of the sherif.

Coroner William M. Shapiro returned a verdict of murder and suicide. The bodies, he said, were found in a bedroom of the Haudenschild home.

LEHMAN ORDERS DEWEY FOE SHOW FITNESS FOR JOB

Tammany Leader Ready to Fight Ouster.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Albert Marinelli, reputed "king maker of Tammany Hall," whose elective term as clerk of New York county has less than six weeks to run, was directed by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today to answer charges questioning his fitness for office.

Lehman gave the Tammany leader of the Second assembly district until noon next Wednesday to reply to District Attorney-Elect Thomas E. Dewey's campaign accusations that he is the "political ally of thieves, pickpockets, thugs, dope peddlers, and big shot racketeers."

The governor acted within thirty-six hours after the text of a request for an investigation of Marinelli's conduct had been forwarded to Atlantic City, where Lehman is vacationing. The inquiry was urged by representatives of seven civic and religious organizations, designating themselves the "joint committee on the county clerk."

Marinelli Ready to Comply.

Upon receiving Gov. Lehman's message Marinelli issued this brief statement:

"I shall comply with the governor's request and submit an answer to him before noon on Wednesday, Nov. 27, 1937."

Marinelli, credited with forcing the election of Representative Christy Sullivan as leader of Tammany Hall, is the second New York City official to be summoned by Gov. Lehman to answer virtual removal charges.

Last year Lehman heard removal charges against District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn based on his handling of the notorious Drukman murder case and his alleged association with Leo P. Byk, ex-slot machine czar, and Frank A. Erickson, bookmaker.

Hearing Clears Geoghan.

While the governor previously had superseded Geoghan with Special Prosecutor Hiram C. Todd in the Drukman case, the governor later found there was no evidence to warrant Geoghan's dismissal.

Dewey charged that Marinelli had caused persons with criminal records to be designated county committeemen and election committeemen.

"I have the police records for thirty-two of them," he said. "Twenty have been convicted at least once. The other dozen thus far have succeeded in beating the rap."

Marinelli's elective term expires Dec. 31, after which the Appellate division will appoint county clerks for New York and Bronx counties under a constitutional amendment adopted in 1935.

Train Runs on Milk

Dried milk bricks which were loaded on Dixie Limited of Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad for start of Florida trip yesterday.

When the Dixie limited of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad left Chicago yesterday it used milk for fuel. Two tons of dried milk bricks provided sufficient energy to take the train 26 miles. The boilers were then reloaded with coal for the rest of the trip to Florida. This illustration of the use of milk as fuel for machines—as well as human beings—was part of Chicago's observance of national milk week. Twenty children from the St. Mary's orphan home watched Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, shovel in the first load of milk bricks.

GIRLS AT SCHOOL GOT RHYTHM, BUT BOYS HAVE MORE

Oxford, O., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Betty Coed has rhythm, but take it from Dr. E. F. Patten, professor of psychology at Miami university, her big brother, Joe College, has almost twice as much.

Dr. Patten announced today the results of tests given to students to determine their musical possibilities.

The tests showed, he said, that while the women's score was a bare 39—or 11 points below an average struck on the basis of 10,000 similar studies throughout the United States—men students achieved a rating of 67.

THIRD OF RAWSON 3 MILLION ESTATE TO GO FOR TAXES

Former Banker's Stock Holdings Listed.

Frederick H. Rawson, retired banker and philanthropist, who died last Feb. 5, left a $3,668,512 estate. Of the principal more than one-third, $1,243,542, must go to pay inheritance taxes, mostly to the federal government.

This was disclosed yesterday when a state inheritance tax return was filed with Michael J. Flynn, county clerk. Previously there had been no estimate on the extent of Mr. Rawson's holdings.

Mr. Rawson died in his Pasadena, Cal., home, where he had lived since 1933, after retiring as chairman of the First National Bank of Chicago, of which he was an official for many years. He formerly was receiver for the Chicago Railways company and served as a director of two railroads. He made many substantial philanthropic bequests, including $600,000 to the Rush post-graduate school of the University of Chicago for a laboratory of medicine and surgery.

Widow and Sons Share Trust.

When Mr. Rawson's will was admitted to probate last March it was disclosed he had arranged to leave his entire estate in a trust created on Jan. 30, 1930. The beneficiaries of this trust are his widow, Mrs. Edith K. Rawson, 1550 North State parkway, and two sons, Kenneth L. and Frederick H. Jr.

The petition filed yesterday showed that the estate is subject to a federal tax of $982,774 and a state tax of $260,768, computed after the federal tax had been deducted. Because inheritance taxes accrue upon the date of death the value of $3,668,512 is that of last Feb. 5.

An inventory lists $61,039 cash, $512,000 in United States government bonds, $570,000 in other bonds, real estate worth $120,000, and the balance in several hundred stocks.

Holdings Reflect Sound Judgment.

Since Mr. Rawson's death most of the stocks have declined in value following the downward trend of the market. The list of his stock holdings, however, reflects the conservative investment judgment for which he was noted.

Following are the principal stock items, with the valuation as of Feb. 5 for taxation purposes and their worth according to yesterday's quotations:

After graduation from Yale university in 1895 Mr. Rawson joined the Union Trust company of Chicago, which was founded by his father. Mr. Rawson became president in 1905, chairman of the board in 1925, and co-chairman of the First National bank in 1929, when the two institutions were consolidated.

WARNS OF WAR DANGERS IN U. S. FOREIGN POLICY

Rep. Dirksen Fires Blast at Neutrality Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A warning that the administration in its current juggling with international affairs was following the same move that led to the nation's entry into the world war in 1917 was solemnly delivered to the house today by Representative Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.].

The Illinois congressman singled out the neutrality act, giving President Roosevelt the power to decide when two countries are at war and automatically halting shipments to belligerents, as the jumping off place for plunging the United States into another war. The act, he shouted, is a "legislative monstrosity."

Recalling President Roosevelt's recent remarks about protecting countries with democratic governments, Dirksen declared that this country's main concern should be "minding our own business."

Points to Other Countries.

"To what democracies should we address ourselves?" asked Dirksen. "In Spain where blood runs red and brother lays a hand on brother? Or in the republic of France, in Germany, or Russia?

"There may not be enough democracy to suit us in Europe, but I for one am in favor of confining our attention to the democracy lying between the Atlantic and Pacific on the one hand and the Dominion line and Gulf of Mexico on the other."

Amid an outburst of applause, Dirksen reminded the house that just twenty years ago the United States had "started out to make the world safe for democracy" when it went into the world war.

At this point Representative Jennings Randolph [D., W. Va.] jumped to his feet.

"Is the gentleman from Illinois in favor of letting the people decide when they should go to war?" Randolph asked.

"If you mean the Ludlow petition, I signed it," said Dirksen.

Proposal for Referendum.

The petition referred to was introduced by Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.] to force a vote on his bill providing a referendum of the entire nation before declaring war.

Dirksen pointed out to the house that when the neutrality act was before the house last winter only twelve voted against it [Dirksen's vote was one of these], and that this little group now is proving its wisdom. He then recalled the oft-repeated majority argument that unforeseen complications had arisen in the hostilities between Japan and China.

So far in the far eastern conflict President Roosevelt has not officially recognized a state of war, thus permitting the shipment of goods to both countries.

Divorce Hearing Set

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Merry Fahrney in court yesterday.

Judge John Prystalski yesterday set Nov. 26 for a hearing on the motion of Baron Arturo Berlingieri of Italy and Los Angeles, Cal., to dismiss the divorce suit filed by his wife, the former Merry Fahrney, Oak Park patent medicine heiress, charging cruelty.

Her attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich, and Edward A. Halligan, representing the baron, agreed to take a deposition in Los Angeles on his allegation that neither he nor his wife is a resident of Illinois. During the brief hearing the baroness displayed a three inch silver-tipped cigaret holder. The baron is her third husband. They were married secretly July 31 after a European courtship.

HALIFAX LEAVES TO SEE HITLER IN MOUNTAIN HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—Viscount Halifax, lord president of the council in the British cabinet, left Berlin by train tonight for Munish. He was accompanied by Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister. Tomorrow they will drive to Reichsfuehrer Adolph Hitler's mountain retreat at Berchtesgaden, where the three men will meet in conference. Before his departure Halifax went sightseeing. He visited the international hunting exhibition in Berlin again and paid tribute to Germany's war dead at the memorial in Unter den Linden. He also drove to Potsdam.

PAVING ON OUTER DRIVE FOUND O.K., DUNHAM REPORTS

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago Park district, said yesterday that impartial engineers have completed an examination of the asphalt paving of the Outer Drive improvement, and found it up to approved specifications. The tests were made on the request of Mr. Dunham, by the Robert W. Hunt company, after the City Club of Chicago issued a statement charging that cracks had already appeared in the paving. The club said the paving showed evidence of bungling and incompetence.

JAPANESE SMASH THROUGH TIPS OF 'HINDENBURG LINE'

Advance to Within Three Miles of Soochow.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 19 [Friday].—(AP)—Japanese fought forward through mud and rain today to within three miles of Soochow, keystone of the Chinese "Hindenburg" line between Shanghai and Nanking.

The Japanese also delivered heavy blows at the north and south ends of the Chinese defenses. The Central advance came after a Chinese counter-offensive held up Japanese forces temporarily near Cheni, sixteen miles east of Soochow.

Heavy assaults brought the Japanese to the gates of Changshu and Kashing, northern and southern strong points, respectively, of the Chinese defenses 50 miles west of Shanghai.

Shock Troops Break Line.

A Japanese spokesman said Japanese shock troops had smashed through Chinese lines on Fushan creek north of Changshu and then turned southward to attack the city itself. Previously Japanese had been reported at the eastern walls of Changshu, 25 miles north of Soochow.

Japanese reports from the southern end of the 110-mile battlefront said one gate of Kashing already had fallen and fighting was in progress around that city of northern Chekiang province. Chinese, however, said there was still heavy fighting at Seven Star bridge, four miles northeast of Kashing.

A Japanese army spokesman said the Chinese lines from Soochow north to the Yangtze were held by 120,000 seasoned troops under the Kwangsi leader, Gen. Pai Tsung-hsi, rated one of China's most brilliant strategists. About 100,000 more Chinese soldiers retreating from the east were being fitted into Gen. Pai's lines, which were strongly fortified and arranged to take full advantage of the maze of lakes and canals.

Prepare to Cross Lake.

Chinese were reported still holding Wukiang, 10 miles south of Soochow, Their position was endangered by Japanese preparations to send an expedition across Taihu, largest lake of the region, to attack the rear of the Chinese columns.

Japanese forces converging on Tsinan, capital of Shantung province in North China, launched an offensive to force a crossing of the Yellow river, five miles north of the city, which was shaken by the roar of heavy artillery. All Chinese forces had been driven back to the south bank of the river. Thirty Americans remained in Tsinan, although Consul John M. Allison left for Nanking.

Japanese planes resumed bombing of the Canton-Hankow railway near Canton in the far south.

DENY PARIS RECEIVED JAP 'ULTIMATUM' TO STOP HELPING CHINESE

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The French foreign office and the Japanese embassy today formally denied that France had received an "ultimatum" from Japan to cease transporting war materials to China over the French owned railroad from Indo-China to Yunnan.

Nevertheless, Senator Henry Berenger, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, who said yesterday in a speech that Japan had "warned" France, still insisted his statement held good, as he had not used the word "ultimatum."

The foreign office spokesman said he could not deny that possibly there had been a "verbal warning" until he conferred with Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos.

Berenger had declared it was no "diplomatic secret" that the Japanese ambassador had threatened occupation of Indo-Chinese ports and the Chinese island of Hainan off the coast of France's Asiatic colony if war materials were permitted to pass from Indo-China to the assistance of the Chinese government.

MUNITIONS LADEN ITALIAN VESSEL BLOWS UP, SINKS

BREST, France, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Italian freighter Boccaccio sank in the English channel twenty miles from here today an hour after violent explosions aboard. The 3,027 ton vessel, carrying munitions, was en route from Hamburg to insurgent Spain and thence to Italy. One crew member was lost. The others took to lifeboats and were rescued by the Dutch motor freighter Tajandoen.

CIVIL WAR PLOT BY 'K.K.K.' ARMY FEARED IN PARIS

Police Find Huge Stores of Arms in Raids.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 18.—The "Cagoulards," French version of the Ku Klux Klan, took on new and serious proportions today when a police raid disclosed another large cache of arms and munitions in an antique shop. Yesterday the police confiscated enough explosives to blow up a whole section of the city.

In today's raid the police found 45 machine guns of German make, 135 rifles, and 20,000 cartridges in the back room of an antique shop on the left bank of the Seine. The proprietor of the shop and his sister were arrested.

So far the police have made thirty-eight raids and arrested eight persons in what they call a "plot against the security of the state" by the secret "hooded ones." Seven hundred persons have been ordered questioned and 450 raids on homes are scheduled to take place.

Civil War Plot Seen.

The police believe they have put their hands on the headquarters of a revolutionary army. It is equipped with switchboard and telephone lines. Police are tracing these lines and intend to paralyze what they believe to be a conspiracy for civil war.

Semi-official circles were worried over whether these apparent preparation for civil war have a foreign origin and support. The discoveries have been kept quiet, perhaps for that reason or perhaps for fear the hunt may lead to embarrassingly high quarters.

Yesterday three truckloads of arms and a hidden fortified room equipped with radio and telephones were discovered. All of this grim preparation was uncovered in an innocent family lodging house in Auteuil, a suburb of Paris. Three were arrested.

Find 500 Machine Guns.

The discovery of the subterranean arsenal and fortress was made near the Bois de Boulogne. The police found 500 machine guns, many submachine guns, several anti-aircraft guns, 100,000 cartridges, and six cases of hand grenades. The armament was of British, Italian, and German make and was carefully packed and greased.

The police in examining the cellar found a cord beneath a loose brick. A pull on the cord opened a secret door leading to a tiny room to be used as a post of command. The walls of the basement were 18 inches thick. The fortress contained a telephone switchboard, wireless sending station and microphone—and incidentally a quantity of cheddite, enough to blow up a whole district.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

DELINQUENT TAX BUYERS BACK IN COUNTY MARKET

Property Owners Warned to Pay Their Bills.

Buying of delinquent taxes, a practice which died out in Cook county during the depression, has been revived on a considerable scale in the sale of 1935 delinquent taxes, County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer said yesterday.

As a result, Lindheimer warned taxpayers, those who neglect to pay their bills again run the risk of having liens placed on their property which cost a minimum of 24 per cent a year for redemption. He urged that Chicago taxpayers, whose properties are yet to be offered for sale, pay their 1935 bills before the auctioneer reaches their property.

Few Sales in Recent Years.

For a number of years almost all delinquent properties were forfeited to the county, the procedure followed when no taxbuyers appear. On the 1933 tax sales, covering hundreds of thousands of real estate items, buyers appeared for only 13 items, paying taxes totaling $557. The sales last year of 1934 taxes produced much the same result, 17 items and payments of $534.

This year, however, 682 items have been sold in the country towns alone, and the taxes paid by the taxbuyers have aggregated $120,759. Further large sales are anticipated when the selling reaches Chicago properties.

In return for paying delinquent taxes on a piece of property, the taxbuyer is given a lien on all or part of the property. The owner of the property has the legal right to redeem this lien at any time within two years. To do so, however, he must pay 12 per cent interest for each six months the lien has run, double the rate charged by the county on forfeited property.

Liens Convertible into Tax Deeds.

At the end of two years, the taxbuyer can convert his lien into a tax deed, which is a cloud on the title of the property and in practice usually an effective bar to its sale. The buyer may charge the property owner any price he pleases for the redemption of this tax deed.

A New York organization, the Atlantic Municipal corporation, of which Kenneth Smyth is the Chicago manager, has been the principal buyer at the current tax sales. The amount of delinquent 1935 taxes paid by tax buyers in various country towns to date follows:

Calumet	$ 25,831.32
Cicero	15,951.34
Evanston	8,404.83
Leyden	1,148.38
Lyons	4,419.01
Maine	9,726.62
New Trier	21,737.68
Niles	1,728.19
Northfield	10.84
Norwood	7,854.34
Oak Park	16,742.65
Proviso	1,150.89
River Forest	2,446.90
Riverside	3,606.28
Total	$120,759.27

In his announcement Treasurer Lindheimer emphasized that once the tax sale is held he is powerless to assist the taxpayer in redeeming his property. The latter's only protection is to pay the taxes before sale.

80 FINED $9,902.

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Eighty defendants charged with maintaining and operating gambling devices were assessed fines and costs aggregating $9,902.08 in County court today by Judge John W. Heberling.

AN ALIMONY PAYING EX-HUSBAND GETS A HAPPY SURPRISE

Mrs. Audrey Fuller, 35 years old, won $30 a week alimony when she divorced Charles C. Fuller, 25 East Delaware place, last June 20. Yesterday Mrs. Fuller and her attorney, Norman Becker, appeared before Judge Philip J. Finnegan with a surprise for every one. She announced she had just returned from her honeymoon after being married on Oct. 29 to Philip Ekblom, 1033 Loyola avenue. Therefore the new Mrs. Ekblom wanted to have the alimony order voided, which was done. Attorney Charles Rathbun, representing Fuller, said his client would be delighted.

FOG AND DRIZZLE HOLD UP SPANISH REBEL OFFENSIVE

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Weather fought for the Spanish government on the Aragon front today, but formidable rebel forces continued to move into positin for the threatened major drive into eastern Spain.

Fog and a steady drizzle delayed execution of Rebel Gen. Francisco Franco's plans for an offensive toward the sea and gave the government time to build up its defenses. Government forces added to rebel difficulties by harassing raids and artillery bombardments of rebel lines, especially in northern Aragon.

Reports reaching the border said rebel Navarrese brigades—units which took a leading rôle in the recent conquest of the Bay of Biscay coastal area—were in villages between Burgos and Villadolid, ready to move to the eastern front.

THREATEN TO ADD 108 TO SAGGING COUNTY PAY ROLL

New Jobs Called Chance for Patronage.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The county's 1938 budget, already $697,177 out of balance on the basis of preliminary estimates, was threatened with a further deficit yesterday when officials heading eight of the thirteen county fee offices asked to put 108 persons more on the pay roll.

None of them offered to reduce his force. No increases were asked, however, for the departments of William D. Meyering, adult probation officer; Mitchell C. Robin, Probate court clerk; Michael J. Flynn, clerk of the County court; Victor L. Schlaeger, clerk of the Superior court, and Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach. None of the offices which asked increases is under civil service. All the new jobs therefore become material for political patronage.

Apply to Committee.

The requests were made to the Circuit court help committee, consisting of Judges Joseph Burke, Cornelius J. Harrington, and Stanley H. Klarkowski. Under the state constitution the judges of the Circuit court fix the number of employés for fee offices, for which the county board is obligated to appropriate.

Along with the petitions of the officeholders, the help committee received a letter from Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, reminding them that the county budget is out of balance, and that aside from the actual deficit which the county faces it will be able to continue its present scale of expenditures only because a surplus carried over from this year.

Mr. Sutherland declared that tax penalties, which have kept the county out of the red, may be expected to fall off sharply in the future, and that if the county is to make a legal budget it must pare expenditures below the 1937 level.

For this reason he urged the help committee not only to deny all requests for additional help but to consider what departments may reduce their employés with the least impairment of public service.

The officeholders who asked added employés, with their present forces and the increases asked, are:

	1937 employés.	Increase asked.
John Toman, sherif	670	30
Horace G. Lindheimer, treasurer	625	16
Edward J. Kaindl, recorder	292	9
Judge Frank H. Bicek [Juvenile probation officers]	157	42
John E. Conroy, clerk Circuit court	86	3
Thomas J. Bowler, clerk of Criminal court	49	7
Jury commissioners	10	1
Frank J. Walsh, coroner	45	1

Sherif Toman asked for fifteen more county highway policemen, a woman bailif to handle woman defendants and witnesses at the Criminal courts building, five more janitors, four more janitresses, and an increase in his allowance for part time deputy sherifs. The last item, if granted, will equal the pay of five full time employés.

Treasurer Lindheimer, at the last minute, cut his request from thirty additional employés to sixteen. He wants thirty-six more full time workers, but is willing to cut his extra help by twenty man-years to make up part of the difference.

Basis of Treasurer's Plea.

Under the present ten month tax collection cycle, he said, he will have to handle three semi-annual collection periods. New statutes also increase the duties of his office, he added. Recorder Kaindl, who last year asked but was refused forty-three new employés to prepare for a Cook county real estate boom which has not materialized, brought members of the Chicago Real Estate board to testify to the benefits which would accrue to real estate men and the public if the recorder were given five more employés to speed up his abstract department.

Judge Bicek, who sits in the Juvenile court, said that the court has long been undermanned and that the extra help will save many dependent children from becoming delinquents. The most pressing need, he said, is for an additional psychiatric unit of the Juvenile Research institute, to speed examinations of children and cut down congestion in the juvenile home.

MISS EVELYN HOFFMAN.

Miss Evelyn Hoffman, 19 years old, was held by the West North avenue police yesterday after she admitted stealing $300 worth of clothing from the rooms of other women in the Pierce apartment hotel, 2020 Pierce avenue. The young woman was arrested when she was noticed leaving the hotel in a riding habit. Policemen John Knowles and Edward Sexton, sent to the hotel after residents there had complained of thefts, considered this attire unusual, and halted the girl, who confessed.

New Council Committee Begins Hunt for City Funds

The new council subcommittee on revenue yesterday elected Ald. Roger J. Kiley [37th] chairman and began a consultation with subcommittees of the license committee to eliminate duplication. The revenue committee has been instructed to find a way to raise $1,860,000 needed to restore pre-depression salaries to city employés next year.

COUNTY BUILDING LIFE MAKES CATS FAT AND SASSY

Judges Joseph Burke, Cornelius J. Harrington, and Stanley Klarkowski, sitting as a Circuit court committee to fix the number of employés in the county fee offices, heard yesterday that the cats on the pay roll in the county building have been cheating on the taxpayers. They're lazy and won't work.

The matter came up when Clerk John Conroy complained against the increasing rat population in his basement office vaults. Assistant Sherif William Milota looked surprised. "That shouldn't be," he asserted. "We've got cats in the basement to take care of that problem. Why, they're even on the pay roll."

The judges asked him to investigate. He did, returning later with a report that there were five cats, including three Toms, in the basement. "What were they doing?" asked the judges. "Sleeping," replied Milota apologetically. "And when they wake up they amuse themselves by chasing sparks from an electric generator instead of chasing rats." He promised to cut their milk ration so they would take more interest in hunting.

B*TTLE TO GIVE JURY MINISTER'S SLAYING STORY

Confession of Guilt Told by Missouri Prosecutor.

of the trial as he arose to peer toward a claw hammer held in the hand of Ray Englehart. This hammer, Mr. Englehart was telling the jury, was covered with blood, with strands of hair twisted in its rusty prongs, when he found it in a ditch near the scene of the murder.

Stillwell told Judge Williams he came to Pittsfield to see Newton on July 15, after Myra Hanan, the pastor's adopted daughter, had made a confession.

"I went in and started reading it to him, stopping between paragraphs to ask him if it were true. He said: 'Read it all, please. I'll tell you when you're through.'

Wants to Add Statement.

"I asked him if it was all true. He said, 'Not in its entirety. I have a statement to make which will clarify the matter.'

"Then he told me his version. I interrupted him on one occasion. I said to him, 'Rev. Newton, if I were you I wouldn't put that in.' He agreed with me. Then he dictated it."

While Judge Williams listened gravely, his silver head turned often toward the heavy snow falling outside the windows, Attorney Stillwell repeated the story the Rev. Mr. Newton had told him:

"He said her shawl had been in his car for two or three days, waiting for this time [11 p. m., July 12] to come."

It was a wet, rainy night, and after a while, confused by many detours, he got out of the car, Stillwell said Newton told him. Mrs. Kelly followed and became hysterical. She told him she wanted him to go with her and he said he must be back in Paris, Mo., by dawn.

Says They Both Fell.

"He said she began crying and he tried to assist her bodily back into the car. In some manner she braced herself and pushed him back, causing them both to fall. He got up and spoke to her and there was no response. He saw blood on her head.

"He took a flask of whisky from the car and tried to stimulate her with it, but she did not drink it. He took a drink. He again tried to put her in the car. She again fell. Cars were coming and he became nervous, hysterical, and remembered a hammer or something in the car. He got it. He said he struck her and heard her gurgle.

Threw Her Into River.

"Realizing she was dead, he drove to the Mark Twain bridge, threw the body into the river, and turned toward home. On the way he had a punctured tire, drained his pint of whisky as he repaired it, and then drove to the parsonage."

"Did he mention the money?" Prosecutor Johnston asked.

"Yes, he said she had put it in his dashboard for safekeeping. He said she owed him $20 and gave him two new $10 bills."

"What portion of the statement did you suggest he delete?"

"He said he remembered an undergarment of Mrs. Kelly's, when he was almost home, so he tossed it out of the car. I suggested he leave that out, and he did."

Judge Williams then ordered a recess. The jury still was barred from the court room.

Others Corroborate Account.

Stillwell was followed to the stand by Sherif Wendell Johnson of Pike county, Miss Sylvia Pexa, a stenographer, and two local newspaper men. All corroborated his testimony of the pastor's confession.

The admissibility of the document was still undetermined when court adjourned at 6 p. m. The state has six additional witnesses, also present in the jail on July 15, who will testify tomorrow.

Mrs. Grace Newton, the minister's wife, was subpenaed as a state's witness, but is seriously ill at her home in Paris with an attack of appendicitis.

Victim's Husband First.

Dennis Kelly, the mild-spoken Paris [Mo.] postman to whom his wife left only 24 pages of vitriol the night of July 12 when she sped away to her death, was the day's first witness.

Mr. Kelly, a thin man with a sensitive face, horn rimmed glasses and ears like sails, spoke firmly and without emotion. Francis, the younger of the two Kelly sons, a pale, blond boy whose blue eyes shone tearfully behind spectacles, craned forward as his father told of seeing his wife for the last time at 10 o'clock, apparently prepared for bed.

"Do you know Colonel Newton?" Prosecutor Johnston asked him.

"Yes," he said firmly, glancing at the defendant rocking back and forth in his chair. "I hold him in high regard. He's a good man."

Never Been to Home.

Q.—Have you ever been to his home? A.—No.

Q.—Has he been in yours? A.—Not when I was there.

Q.—When did you miss your wife? A.—At 6 a. m. the morning of July 13.

Q.—Tell the jury what happened then. A.—The alarm went off at 6, and Mrs. Kelly was in the habit of turning it off when it clicked. I heard it go off, and thought she must be sleeping pretty soundly. So after five minutes I got up and went into her bedroom. I noticed she was gone and thought perhaps she had gone to a neighbor's to borrow an egg or something. Then I happened to notice a note at the head of her bed and a check for $30 made out to Francis [the 14 year old son].

Jury Hears the Note.

Over the objection of the defense, the note, a rambling letter written in pencil on tablet paper, was read to the jury. The courtroom crowd perked up. The jury abandoned its rhythmic gum chewing and paid rapt attention.

"Twenty years in hell is enough," Prosecutor Johnston began to read, "and I have reached the limit of human endurance. Our life together is a sin and a mockery. For the children's sake we must quit.

"This has ceased to be a home and never was. You have given me no part in the raising of our boys and have poisoned their minds against me.

"You have made life unbearable with your views and ungovernable temper. You will not live on my terms. I cannot live on yours. You have beaten me and bruised me, blacked my eyes and kicked in my ribs, pulled my hair out by the roots and abused me and reviled me. You have called me a liar, a thief, and a cheat.

"Denied Solace of Church."

"I have been denied the solace and comfort of my church and religion. You have wrecked my nerves and my health. I am not mentally or physically able to stand more."

Here followed directions about a division of property and bills she was leaving behind. She asked Kelly to take the delphinium, Japanese roses, and Marguerites to the cemetery and said she was "going west with friends."

The accused minister rocked casually back and forth during the long letter, noting the reactions of the jury and occasionally making a note upon a little white pad.

Earlier in the state's case Dr. Harry G. Payne of Paris testified that Mrs. Kelly was "in poor health, highly nervous, and had been going through the menopause for a year and a half." Her only trouble, he said, lay in an "unbalanced nervous system" and in the fact that she was "slightly dissatisfied."

Postman Kelly was dismissed without cross-examination. Russell Wilkes, sherif of Monroe, Mo., a blond young man with only enough hair for a Cupid's knot at the top, followed him to the stand.

Knew Them for Years.

He had known "Colonel" for twelve years, he said, and Kelly for fifteen. He first approached the Rev. Mr. Newton at noon on July 13 to inquire about Mrs. Kelly, he said.

Q.—Why did you go there? A.—Well, she was his neighbor and a member of his church; his strong supporter. I knew further that she advised with him about various things.

Q.—How long were you there? A.—Not more than five minutes.

He told the minister, he said, that Maybelle was missing, and had he heard her say she was leaving town. And the minister said yes, he knew she had planned to go but that he had dissuaded her on three previous occasions.

Called After Finding of Body.

Later in the day, after a trip to Hannibal, Mo., and after the battered body of Mrs. Kelly had been discovered afloat in the Mississippi, he visited the parsonage again, the sherif said. The minister was not home, so about midnight he called and asked the preacher to come to his office in the courthouse.

Q.—What did he say about Mrs. Kelly? A.—He said he wasn't surprised at her leaving.

Q.—What else was said? A.—I asked if he knew who she left with, and he said he was sure she didn't leave with any one from around the parish.

Q.—Had he seen her on July 12? A.—Yes, he said she told him she had sold some property for $2,000 and asked how she should take the money. He said he advised her not to take travelers' checks, as she could be traced when they were cashed.

Told of Stains' Discovery.

Q.—Then what? A.—The boys had been examining his car downstairs and I told him they had found blood and hair on the mat. He said, "If there is any blood in my car I don't know how it got there."

Later that night, Sherif Wilkes said, he saw Myra Hanan and Noel Newton at the parsonage, at which time Miss Hanan turned over $1,930 the Rev. Mr. Newton had entrusted to her safe keeping. About 3 a. m. they took him to the spot where they had burned Mrs. Kelly's luggage, found in the back of the minister's car.

Q.—What did you do then? A.—About daylight I returned to the Newton home.

Q.—What, if anything, did you see there? A.—I saw the floor of the garage all dug up. It was a fresh pit about 7 feet long and 4 feet wide and 30 inches deep at the back of the garage.

Pit Dug Day of Killing.

This pit, Sherif Wilkes added, was freshly dug. The minister, they found out later, had spent the entire afternoon of July 12 preparing it, Wilkes said.

The dirt still was piled behind it. Its eventual use, the state contends, was to be a grave for Mrs. Kelly. The waters of the Mississippi, however, proved more convenient, the authorities believe.

"Wasn't there gravel piled near it?" Defense Attorney Johnson asked on cross-examination.

"Yes," the sherif replied, "some."

The defense indicated that the minister had dug the pit preparatory to surfacing the garage floor with gravel.

WIFE AIDS HUSBAND CALLED MURDERER OF HER FIRST MATE

St. George, Utah, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A wife, 32 years old, came to the aid today of the man who is said to have killed her first husband, then married her to atone.

While there was digging at an abandoned well for the body of Spencer Malan, dead nearly three years, Mrs. Eva Bosshardt rushed to the cell of her husband and sobbed:

"I'll stand by you, Charley. I'll stand by you through it all."

Sherif Antone B. Prince has said Bosshardt admitted killing Malan in self-defense, and marrying the widow because he felt "responsible to her" and her son, 11 years old.

Mrs. Bosshardt denied she had known of the killing, on Malan's ranch near Enterprise, Utah, in March, 1935. Malan vanished after attending a dance with his wife; her brother, George Schaefer, and Bosshardt. Bosshardt and Schaefer were charged with first degree murder today. Schaefer is accused of helping to dispose of the body.

Pick Jury to Try Parolee for Murder of Policeman

Selection of a jury was begun in the Criminal court yesterday to try Samuel Turriano, 22 years old, a paroled convict, charged with the murder of Policeman Elmer Ostling. Ostling and his partner, John Skopec, were shot and killed in the Warren avenue district on July 22, 1933. The Skopec killing is not being tried. James Pogue, an escaped convict, has pleaded guilty to the Ostling murder, and is expected to testify against Turriano.

Doris Duke's Husband May Be Named to Senate

Newark, N. J., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Governor Elect A. Harry Moore today said James H. R. Cromwell, husband of Doris Duke, was one of at least five persons being considered as his successor in the United States senate. Moore, who will make the appointment shortly after he assumes office in Trenton next Jan. 18, termed Cromwell "one of the runners." Cromwell, in New York, said he would welcome the appointment if it were offered him.

MAYOR'S TRANSIT PROGRAM LAUDED AS MEETING NEED

Practical Aspects Cited by Engineering Organ.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Mayor Kelly's traction plan is the first practical proposal for a coördinated surface and rapid transit system presented for consideration of the city despite the fact that transit planning here in the past has cost five million dollars.

This observation is made editorially by the Engineering News-Record, a leading engineering publication known as an authority in its field. The magazine finds that the plan is an engineers' rather than a bankers' solution of the problem.

"It was devised by engineers in the employ of the city and not by private interests, although the latter coöperated in the present work," the magazine states. "Heretofore, all surveys and reports have started from the financial and separate ownership standpoint. Conservation of investment was the first consideration.

"Logical Plan Produced."

"This plan starts out with a view to developing a physical plan to serve the transit needs of the city regardless of ownership. With this basis a logical plan has been produced. The legal and financial talent is called upon to make the engineers' concept a reality."

Asserting that it is not surprising to find existing elevated railways turned into superhighways under the plan, the magazine continues:

"In drafting the present plan for coördination of Chicago transit facilities, an analysis was made of the transit requirements for the whole city. Subsequently, the existing surface and elevated lines were studied to determine how best they could be fitted into a coördinated system of surface cars, buses, elevated lines, and subways which will also take into consideration the problem of getting individual automobiles and trucks in and out of the center of the city.

Plan for Financing Lauded.

"But aside from the breadth of the engineering approach to the problem the most heartening feature of the present proposal is that financing the work appears to be within reach even with the combining and rearrangement of privately owned facilities that are proposed.

"This is due in part to the fact that some of the companies have operated for years without franchise under direction of the courts. Thus the city and courts hold the whip hand and are of a mind to get action, particularly to force the merging of separate companies into a corporate entity.

"Those are good omens for an early start on a solution of Chicago' transit problem. Whether the ultimate plan resembles the present one is unimportant; the important thing is that the present proposal finds its origin in fundamentals on which any transit plan must be based if it is to be satisfactory."

TRUCK OWNERS BLAST WPA PLAN TO MAKE 300 DRIVERS JOBLESS

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Seven truck owners and contractors, who feel they are in the class of small business men for whom the President expressed concern in his last fireside chat, held an indignation meeting today. They object to the government proposal to buy 100 dump trucks for $5,000 each to be used on the North Beach airport, a WPA project. Telegrams were sent to Washington asking that the proposal be deferred.

It was the consensus of those present that it was a mistake to buy trucks to provide jobs for 300 WPA workers when it was likely to make the same number of workers idle—workers now employed by trucking companies.

PHONE TAPPED? 'UNCONCERNED,' SAYS SEC. ICKES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A report that Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes had asked the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company to investigate the purported discovery of a voice recording device tapped into the secretary's private telephone line led to a statement today by Mr. Ickes that "if any telephone wires are or have been tapped, it is of slight concern to me. Any one may listen to any conversation that I hold on public business at any time."

Unconfirmed rumors were that a telephone repairman, called to investigate poor service, discovered a dictagraph linked to Mr. Icke's phone line. He is said to have reported his discovery to a government official in charge of the interior department telephone system.

PLAN TO EXPAND AIRPORT STRIKES NEW LAND SNAG

Tracts Owned by 70 Others Needed by City.

The city's airport problems will not be solved merely by the acquisition of a strip of land between Laramie and Cicero avenues along the line of 54th street for which agents now are negotiating.

This was disclosed yesterday by Ald. Roger J. Kiley [37th], chairman of the council's special airport subcommittee, who said that in addition to this strip the city also must buy or condemn strips of land from about seventy other owners of property in the neighborhood of the existing airfield at Cicero avenue and 63d street if the airport expansion plan is to be carried out.

Tracks Would Be Replaced.

The plan calls for removal of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad tracks from the northern boundary of the present field—the boundary being the line of 59th street between Cicero and Central avenues. The tracks are to be replaced along the line of 54th street and the airport landing area extended north to 55th street.

The strips of land from the tract under negotiation and from the other land parcels will form the new right of way for the C. & W. I. The new right of way will branch north from 59th street west of Central avenue. It will follow Central avenue to 54th street and then turn east to the main north and south rail line a block east of Cicero avenue.

Negotiations Under Way.

Negotiations for the land between Laramie and Cicero avenues at 54th street are being carried on between Ernest H. Lyons, appraiser, representing Raymond E. Herman, the owner, and John R. O'Connor, agent for the city. Lyons yesterday asked for one week in which to make his preliminary study before beginning price conferences.

The city has done nothing so far about the seventy other property owners, Ald. Kiley said last evening.

"There's no point in trying to buy or condemn their land until we get the Herman matter settled," he said. "He is the owner of the largest parcel. We've got to settle with him before we know whether the present expansion plan will work."

Price to Be Only Issue.

The alderman said that while ordinarily condemnation proceedings are lengthy it would not be necessary to get a final decision from the courts in condemning land of the other seventy owners before the city could replace the C. & W. I. tracks.

"The city without question has a right to condemn the land," he said. "The only question at issue would be the price. Appeals from any finding of the lower courts could be covered by bond which would allow the city to go ahead with its construction program. Any price differential between the lower and higher court's findings could be taken out of the bond."

FLYING BOAT TO CARRY 100 OVER OCEAN PLANNED

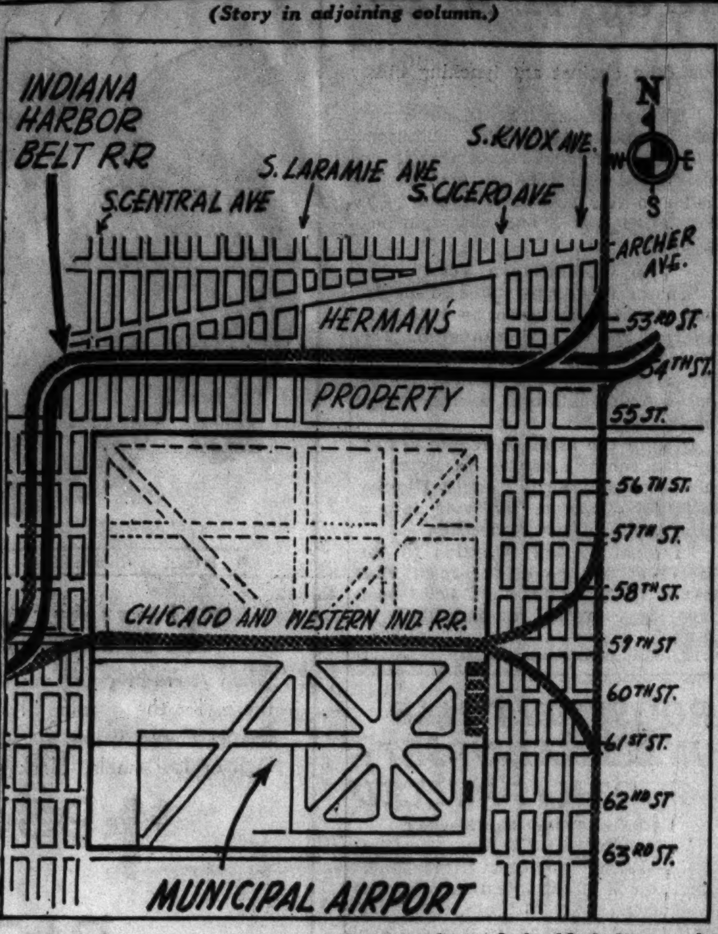
New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A flying boat with accommodations for about 100 passengers will be the next step in trans-Atlantic passenger service, it was revealed today in a report by the aeronautical chamber of commerce of America in New York.

The chamber, made up primarily of airplane manufacturers, prepared the report for the maritime commission, which favored the use of flying boats as against airships and steam ships in recommendations to congress.

"The next step in the development of the flying boat will be the 150,000 pound ship," the report said. "It will have sleeping accommodations for 100 passengers, possibly more, and will be capable of cruising speeds approaching 200 miles an hour in Atlantic service."

AIRPORT ENLARGEMENT HITS NEW SNAG

(Story in adjoining column.)



Shaded lines represent present railroad tracks, and the black line marks the right-of-way proposed for the Chicago and Western Indiana, whose tracks now bisect the city airport. When Raymond E. Herman consented to appointment of an appraiser for his tract in negotiations for the right-of-way, it was thought that the last obstacle in the path of airport enlargement had been removed. Now it has been discovered that there are about 70 other property owners whose land must be purchased for the proposed C. and W. I. right-of-way.

Dr. A. C. Garvy of Loyola Gets State Medical Post

Dr. A. Cosmas Garvy, clinical professor of surgery at Loyola university medical school since 1911, has been appointed medical director of the state industrial commission by Gov. Horner, according to an announcement at the school yesterday. Dr. Garvy will continue teaching at Loyola.

PILOT HANGS UP UNIFORM AFTER 2,400,000 MILES

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Jack Knight, who has flown more miles and hours than any other pilot in the world, yesterday completed his last trip in command of a commercial airliner. Landing one of United Air Lines' Douglas DC-3 planes at Chicago airport yesterday morning after his regular trip from Cheyenne, he made out his last reports and hung up his uniform.

Jack Knight.

"After twenty years of piloting — flying everything from Jennies up to the latest Douglas ships—I'm ready for a ground job," he said after company officials announced he had retired voluntarily.

18,000 Hours of Flying.

Knight's log books record some 18,000 hours of flight beginning in 1917 when he joined the army air corps and received his flight training at Ellington Field, Texas. During this time in the air he has covered 2,400,000 miles, most of it over the middlewest and the eastern slopes of the Rockies. In the future he will fly only for pleasure or as a passenger on ground business, he said.

Knight is known not for spectacular deeds as a pilot but for the surety and regularity with which first he carried the air mail back in the pioneer days of aviation and later flew giant planes filled with passengers.

The closest he ever came to the spectacular was the night of Feb. 22-23, 1921, when he was scheduled to fly a plane load of mail from North Platte, Neb., to Omaha as part of a trial run from coast to coast under supervision of the postoffice department. The trip was to prove to congress the feasibility of night air mail flights.

Bonfires Only Signals.

The only guiding signals from the ground were infrequent bonfires lighted by farmers along the route. Jack completed his portion of the trip, landing safely in Omaha, and found that the pilot who was supposed to take the mail on to Chicago was not at his post, so Jack took off again and flew the Omaha-Chicago section of the route too.

THE TRIBUNE of Feb. 24, 1921, recorded the events of the night, mentioning briefly Knight's part. Two days later a short item in THE TRIBUNE noted that congress had passed an air mail appropriation as a result of the demonstration flight.

Jack is retiring to a ground job with United in the trafic sales end of aviation. For several years he's been doing such work in addition to flying.

WHAT IS THE PRICE OF WHEAT?

By CALEB

BEFORE me is an interesting long letter written on November 20, 1845, from Alsted, New Hampshire, to Thompson Chandler, Esq., Macomb, McDonough County, Illinois. The letter folds to provide its own envelope. And although no stamp is affixed, the postmaster's 10-cent notation on the letter indicates that was the cost of sending it. Toward the end of the interesting letter is the question, "What is the price of wheat and pork with you this fall?"

And in strange contrast I noted not long ago that the King George's Jubilee Trustees printed special copies of the official coronation program in advance last spring for Tristan da Cunha in the South Atlantic—the loneliest island in the Empire—so citizens there could follow the ceremonies step by step. And they did, minute by minute, as they occurred thousands of miles away.

In 1845 in this country and elsewhere in the world, people had to exert some effort to find things out. They had to reach out for what they wanted to learn. Even students in school were expected to work in order to learn.

Nowadays the average citizen of any country can simply sit and be assailed from all directions with far more information (if not knowledge) than he can ever hope to assimilate.

As a consequence, it is possible that we tend increasingly to be fed on mental pap. Our intellectual teeth decay from disuse. The fact that we hear now of great and broad international and national problems instead of little local ones does not mean we are smarter or more intelligent. For little comes to us which has not been already shaped and predigested by those who let loose upon us the information we receive.

As a consequence, the public generally receives many ready-made ideas and opinions and prejudices. It is my impression that in the old days, although a man in one part of the country could not even know the price of wheat in another part of the country without weeks of waiting for slow mail, still he probably had occasion to do more weighing with his mind than most of us do today.

In the event that modern, integrated inventions and facilities cause us sheep-like to accept ready-made the propagandized mental fodder pitched up to us, we are softened and made less effective citizens than our forefathers. We can escape this end by trying to read or hear two sides of important subjects—and forming conclusions of our own based on thought.

DEMANDS GROW FOR TAX CHANGE TO AID BUSINESS

Harrison Forced to Back Away on Sales Levy.

upon the poor instead of upon those best able to bear the burden."

Borah Poses Question.

Senator Borah smoked out Chairman Harrison by a reference to the horrors of the sales tax when Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.], advocated immediate repeal of the business penalty tax.

"If we are to take up the question of a sales tax or the lowering of the exemption of income taxes to take care of losses which we would incur by reason of the repeal of the undivided profits tax, would the senator still be in favor of repealing the undivided profits tax?" asked Senator Borah.

"I would be willing to go to one or the other rather than make myself a party to the present system of putting a penalty upon the corporation for accumulating a surplus to pay its debts or expand its business to provide employment," replied Senator Bailey. "I think that is thoroughly unsound and unwise and has had a great deal to do with the present unhappy situation in our country."

Senator Bailey, however, refused to accept the premise that repeal of the penalty tax would necessitate sales taxes.

Bailey Replies to Argument.

"The undivided profits tax may have its vices," said Senator Borah, "but if we are to repeal it and take the tax off of undivided profits and put the tax on the people who have no profits and likely will not have very soon, it seems to me a much different question than that which has been presented to us heretofore.

Senator Bailey replied that a national policy of taxation putting a penalty upon the accumulated surpluses of corporations intended for the payment of debts or the expansion of business operations to provide employment imposed "unspeakable burdens upon the workers of America." It deprived them, he said, of their only hope of keeping employed.

"The question propounded by the senator from Idaho might lead to the inference that I am an advocate of the sales tax or the broadening of the base or the lowering of the exemptions in income taxes," said Senator Harrison. "I desire to say to the senate that nothing I have said should indicate that."

Knows Only Two Sources.

Harrison explained that if some of the taxes in the present revenue structures should be removed he knew of only two sources where additional revenue could be found—extension of the income tax or the sales tax.

He said he hoped that no new taxes would be necessary and that the way to balance the budget was to curtail the spending program. He said the house ways and means committee was considering a proposal to repeal the capital stock and excess profits tax, which yields $140,000,000 a year, but that he much preferred modification of the undistributed profits tax, "and I am sure the sentiment of the country is in favor of doing it."

Harrison proposed a return to the old normal income tax on corporations and, if necessary, to increase the rate to 18 or 20 per cent instead of the former maximum of 15½ per cent.

Denies Having Program.

"The senator then has not any program at the present time contemplating a sales tax or a reduction of the income tax exemptions?" asked Senator Borah.

"None in the world, and I know of none," said Senator Harrison.

Senator Bailey, who urged a decrease of 1 billion dollars a year in government expenditures, said that "about 20 per cent of the entire income of every person goes for taxes."

Representative Allen T. Treadway [R., Mass.] submitted figures to the house showing that the so-called hidden or indirect taxes alone take 12 cents out of every dollar received by the American wage earner. And this, he pointed out, is exclusive of the social security pay roll taxes and the direct sales taxes imposed by more than twenty states.

Other Tax Figures Given.

"About 25 per cent of the rent payment goes for indirect taxes on those in the $1,000 to $2,400 annual income group," Treadway said. "Roundly, 7 per cent of the food bill is indirect taxes. When the average citizen buys clothing, 8 per cent of what he pays goes directly for hidden taxes. Every citizen pays a hidden tax of 10 per cent on his recreation and amusements.

"To put it another way, the average American, enjoying steady employment the year round, works a month and a half for the tax collector."

MRS. MARIAN MEADE.

Last May 12 Judge John C. Lewe dissolved the marriage of Mrs. Marian Davis Petitfils to her first husband and performed a second wedding ceremony, uniting her with Lester N. Meade, 29 years old, 1950 East 71st street. The second ceremony was necessary to save her from being a bigamous bride because when the first marriage was performed on the previous day her divorce decree from Petitfils had not been signed.

At that time Mrs. Meade, who is 25 years old, and her new husband made avowals to the judge that their marriage was not a hasty union, but had been given careful thought. Yesterday Mrs. Meade appeared with her attorney, Harry X. Cole, before Judge Philip J. Finnegan. Attorney Cole declared that Meade had not kept the bargain, becoming cruel to his bride. Judge Finnegan granted her a divorce.

Last May the strain and excitement of the proceedings caused Mrs. Meade to faint after her marriage. Yesterday she was calm and cheerful after obtaining the divorce.

JURY OF CRITICS TO DECIDE FATE OF HOSPITAL ART

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A jury of "competent art critics" is to decide whether the Mother Goose murals in District of Columbia tuberculosis sanitarium at Glenn Dale, Md., are to remain or be effaced.

Commissioner George W. Allen, "mayor" of Washington, today announced he would name such a jury to settle the controversy.

The controversy arose yesterday when Health Officer George C. Ruhland pronounced the murals, the work of Miss Bernice Cross, WPA artist, "disgusting" and ordered them effaced. He was halted by WPA officials who threatened him with prosecution if he damaged federal property.

Mrs. Roosevelt Speaks at Hull House Luncheon

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt spoke yesterday before several clubs associated with Hull house after a luncheon there with officials of the social settlement. 6 NEW ENGLAND GOVERNORS PUSH BUSINESS RELIEF

List Roosevelt Policies as Peril to U. S.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—In an open revolt against the tax and tarif policies of the Roosevelt administration, the six governors of the New England states called jointly today for the repeal of the capital gains tax, the tax on undistributed corporate profits, and denounced the pending reciprocal trade agreement with Czechoslovakia as imperilling the jobs of thousands of citizens.

The broadside against the administration was in the form of resolutions adopted at the thirteenth annual conference of the New England council. The resolutions contained the most complete and far reaching criticisms of the federal government by any group of governors since Mr. Roosevelt became president.

The six are Governors Lewis O. Barrows, Republican, Maine; F. P. Murphy, Republican, New Hampshire; George D. Aiken, Republican, Vermont; Charles F. Hurley, Democrat, Massachusetts; Wilbur L. Cross, Democrat, Connecticut, and Robert E. Quinn, Democrat, Rhode Island.

Ex-Treasury Aid Joins.

Arthur A. Ballantine, former under secretary of the treasury, joined in the attack tonight with an address in which he made a plea for a curb on governmental expenditures and the elimination of "a spirit of unreasoning hostility" toward American business.

"The way out of the slump and on to better living for all," he said, "is for the administration to place its real bet upon the ability of American industry and then play all its cards to win."

Speaking on "Federal Finance and Recovery," Ballantine said that the country's "supreme need now is for a convincing demonstration that the central objective of the administration is to have private industry do its job."

Blames Attitude for Slump.

"If the atitude of the federal government toward private industry is now that of genuine coöperation," he continued, "there is no reason for discouragement. It is deeply rooted doubt on that score mainly that led to the present slump.

"The basic difficulty cannot be overcome by mere words, but only by a consistent course of conduct."

Ballantine urged that the government revise its policies so as to encourage construction activities by the utilities, expansion of purchasing and employment by railroads, and the stabilizing of labor relations.

Also speaking at the evening session, Gov. Hurley placed the full blame for present business difficulties upon the "uncertainty of future governmental policy toward business, together with a general state of nervousness regarding the tax program."

In the resolution adopted by the governors, criticism of the administration-sponsored flood control bill as encroaching without precedent upon the states became subordinated to the more significant attitude taken against President Roosevelt's business policies.

Anti-Lynch Bill Wins a Test Vote in Senate by 42 to 24

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.] innocently brought a test vote on the dynamite laden anti-lynching bill and a senate rebuke to his leader, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, today by the usually routine device of offering a speech for the Congressional Record. Proponents of the Wagner-Van Nuys bill, the subject of a filibuster which began Tuesday and threatens to rage indefinitly, won the test, 42 to 24.

The venerable J. Ham touched off the fireworks near the close of the day's session when, in his most courtly manner, he asked Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] to yield in order that he might offer for the record a speech on the constitution of the United States delivered by the distinguished Democratic leader, Mr. Barkley, before the Interparliamentary union in Paris, France. Senator Pepper said he would have no objection provided that the speech might be read by the clerk.

Proponents Aren't Amenable.

The sending up of long and usually tedious speeches for the clerk to read is a favorite device of filibusterers, and the proponents of the anti-lynching bill were not disposed to tolerate this practice even though it was their "distinguished" leader's speech. Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.], who was one of the managers of Barkley's campaign for the leadership, objected.

Senator Barkley was placed in the extraordinary situation of having to object to the reading of his own speech, for he, too, is a supporter of the anti-lynching bill. He begged Senator Lewis to withdraw his request. Senator Lewis in turn implored Senator Pepper to withdraw his demand that the speech be read by the clerk before going into the record. Senator Pepper was about to yield to the plaintive overtures of Senator Lewis when Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], an old hand at filibustering against anti-lynching bills, stopped him.

"I hope the senator will not grant that request," said Mr. Harrison. "The senator must realize that if we denied the senate an opportunity to listen to this speech it would be a restriction upon our distinguished leader."

So It Goes to a Vote.

Senator Pepper persisted in his demand that the speech be read and a formal roll call being ordered. The senate decided not to hear Barkley's speech and the proponents of the anti-lynching bill thus won a sweeping victory.

Despite the asserted rebuff to him by the senate's refusal to listen to his speech, Majority Leader Barkley sought to convert the vote into a vindication of his leadership.

"I want to call attention to the fact that on one of the most vital issues that has arisen I have been able to command a majority," he said.

ROOSEVELT HAS INTERNAL UPSET; TOOTH IS PULLED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt is suffering from a slight intestinal upset as well as an infected tooth. This was announced today as he was confined to his bed in the White House for the third consecutive day.

Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, said that the disturbance is rapidly clearing up. He said that there was no cause for any alarm. He reported that the President had only one-half degree of fever and that should end over night.

The offending molar was pulled during the day by Lieutenant Commander Arthur H. Yando in the President's bedroom.

TO END THE RECESSION.

A sharp business recession is in progress. The steel industry, which supplies basic materials for every important industry, and which is therefore our most sensitive barometer, has gone from 83 per cent of capacity to 35 per cent in a little more than two months. That is 12 times as fast as the decline of 1929 to 1931. Then it took steel output two years to fall as much as it has fallen in two months. Industry everywhere is curtailing, laying off help, and canceling or deferring plans for expansion. The situation requires immediate action. Employés know that the breakdown of the employing corporation cannot help them. If its business slips they slip with it; if it grows employment is insured and the unemployed stand to benefit, too; to get back on the pay roll.

One group of the President's advisers has told him that a priming of the pump is called for. On top of a national debt which has been increased 100 per cent during the depression it has urged that a further debt be piled. He gave his reply to that proposal when he sent Secretary Morgenthau down to New York to wave the olive branch before an audience of financiers, business men, and economists. The secretary declared for a balanced budget to be achieved by reducing expenditures. The President, speaking through his finance minister, said that was to be done "to foster the full application of the driving force of private capital." He said the solution of the unemployment problem lay in an expansion of private business.

Obviously, it is to private industry that the people must look for a termination of the recession, but talking about balancing the budget will not give any one courage to launch a new enterprise or expand an existing one. Even though the promise to cut down wasteful expenditures is carried out, as other similar promises of the past have not been, new investments could not now be made confidently.

What is necessary is for congress to demonstrate clearly that it means to see that the persecution of successful business is to be brought to an end. It must be made clear that the government does not intend longer to treat as public enemies all those who risk their funds in employment-creating enterprise. A second condition, if private capital is to bring the recession to a speedy end, is for congress to repeal those acts of previous congresses which make the carrying on of business unprofitable and to refuse to pass new ones now which are likely to have a similar effect.

It is for congress to find the means to demonstrate that the government will not deal vindictively with business. If private capital now is to be invested in bold forward looking projects, it must be made clear that it will not be confiscated.

It is up to congress, further, to create conditions under which it is possible for business to earn a profit and to keep it. Preceding congresses have increased taxes to the point where the government asked for the lion's share of a profit if it is earned, even punishing corporations for retaining a portion of their profits for further expansion. In altering the undivided profits tax, it is of almost no help at all, as the ways and means committee now plans, to restrict exemption to corporations with net income of $5,000 or less. This will give no relief to the great majority of businesses, those whose new capital expenditures must head off the descent into a deep depression.

If congress means to help business to get the country out of reverse gear it must avoid any legislation which would increase the cost of production at this time. Dr. Alvin E. Hansen, who has been called upon for counsel by the present administration a number of times, recently said: "It has been a fatal error from the beginning in our recovery program to push costs up higher than the level of incomes justifies. The expansionist activities of the government should have been coupled with a planned program of cost reduction." The miscalled wages and hours bill should be definitly out.

Never has a congress had a greater responsibility placed upon it. Never has its path been more clearly indicated. Even the President has declared that it is up to private business to take courage and expand, but because of his past declarations and record the President is not the one who can give business the encouragement to go ahead. Congress can do what the President cannot do, and it should waste no time in proceeding to do it.

THE PRICE OF SLACK DISCIPLINE.

The accident rate on British railways has shown a sharp rise this year from a previous standard of which the companies have been proud. The explanation that unusual prevalence of fog has contributed to the increase of accidents seems rather thin. The minister of transport does not favor the proposal for more steel cars, holding that the wooden coach on a steel chassis is to be preferred on the ground that they "yield." It is to be hoped for the sake of travelers in Britain that the real trouble will be more frankly faced. Increase in accidents is caused by decrease of discipline. The facts of recent accidents demonstrate this, as when a signalman confessed to a breach of regulations in opening a switch to a siding and the engineer admitted that he did not notice a signal set against him.

Only the strictest discipline can produce the unsleeping vigilance required for public safety, and where morale for any reason suffers it will be registered promptly and directly in the accident rate.

The British railways, like the American merchant marine, are suffering from a serious deterioration of discipline and there is no cure but to restore it. Employment in these services must be morally renovated if there is to be safety for passengers or property.

MISUNDERSTANDING THE BRITISH.

It is a fallacy that the United States and Great Britain will see eye to eye. American diplomats may fall in step with British. Washington may play its cards as Great Britain leads. Then the contradictions arise.

The United States is not an imperialistic nation. It had its splurge and quit. Great Britain is the heart of an empire. Imperialism is its business. The United States went into an imperialistic war in 1917. It had to make its own peace and came out without even Yap.

When Japan took Manchuria the United States saw an international question and raised it. Great Britain saw nothing of concern to its empire and cooled Mr. Stimson off with cold water. The present war in China is too close to Canton and Hongkong to be comfortable, but Great Britain still could throw cold water on Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull. Fortunately for the United States it did.

Sir Samuel Hoare as foreign minister would have eased Mussolini into Ethiopia if he had been allowed to do so. Great Britain must still regret that a contrary course was followed. Even Mr. Eden as foreign secretary has made commercial arrangements with Gen. Franco in Spain. France is afraid of Franco, but Neville Chamberlain's ministry is not, although Mr. Lloyd George talks about the big guns covering the Straits of Gibraltar. Mr. Lloyd George when he is out of office talks of dictators as Mr. Roosevelt does in office. Lloyd George is not running the British government.

The British government would rather deal with a reasonable Fascist government than with an unpredictable democracy. The Spanish congeries of alphabetical parties ranging from social democracy to anarchism win few sympathies with a caste government. We go on the idea that the British government is not what it is, an undemonstrative Fascist government perfectly able to get along with other Fascisms if they are friendly.

COUNTER-REVOLUTIONARY COMPLEXIONS.

Mme. Molotoff, wife of Stalin's so-called premier, has been made vice commissar for internal supply, which might be regarded as a more consistent appointment than that of Mme. Perkins to the American labor department because the commissariat is largely engaged in canning and preserving.

Mme. Molotoff already has had an interesting career on her own, being head of the cosmetic trust. She came to America over a year ago, made a study of the cosmetic business and returned to have a great success in giving the ladies of the proletariat the advantages of this essentially bourgeois culture.

The more primitive of the early bolos might have been horrified by what they would have regarded as counter-revolutionary complexions upon the feminine faces of the soviets. But proletarianism is not what it used to be, if it ever was, and the privileged class is now in favor.

The conquering bourgeois are coming back, probably because their way of life is in the main sensible and gratifies the desires of the human being who can escape from the authoritarian state.

Privileges really stand out in greater contrast against the background of a proletarian régime than they do in an order of society in which the little enhancements of life over and above the dead level are less conspicuous. An automobile in Russia reveals that its possessor has somehow or other got his and is several cuts above the fellow who hasn't been able to.

Mme. Molotoff is a shrewd lady to realize that her fellow countrywomen would be susceptible to the cosmetic appeal just the same as their capitalistic sisters elsewhere and to see that as her husband's wife business possibly would not be made difficult for her. The middle class tendencies of present day Russia are well developed and with the firing squad back of them they may settle the destinies of Marxism in Russia before the rest of the world is even aware of it.

Editorial of the Day

ANYHOW, NO ONE SAYS SMOKE HELPS.

[Des Moines Register.]

Two experts on the smoke problem, Sol Pincus, a sanitary engineer in New York City, and Arthur C. Stern, superintendent of the WPA air pollution study in New York, have written an article in the American Journal of Public Health for April, 1937.

In this article the writers arrive at some general conclusions about the influence of smoke on health. The average individual, they say, consumes about 5½ pounds of food and water each day, but he also consumes something more than twenty-five pounds of air in twenty-four hours.

Despite the recognized fact that studies of the physiological effects of smoke on the human body have not been satisfactorily conclusive, these writers point to the fact that smoke does diminish the ultraviolet light so necessary to healthful living. Further, they suggest, it is customary to send tubercular, rheumatic fever, and rickets patients to the country and the clean air.

It is only reasonable to assume that cleaner air inside a city would make for better health of every one who lives in it.

TRY IT ONCE.

A Houston road sign painter suggests the following signs for railroad crossings:

"Come ahead. You're unimportant."

"Try our engines. They satisfy."

"Don't stop. Nobody will miss you."

"Take a chance. You can get hit by a train only once."—Exchange.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

BILLO AND BELLO, the German shepherd dogs who guard the Art institute at night, live in a big kennel with a sparrow who catnaps on a rafter and smirks at the three timid sparrows shivering in their outside nest over the door when they might be inside enjoying the electric heat. We'll tell you about Billo and Bello today. They come in from their night's work at 6 a. m., romp a moment in the fragrant cedar chips they have for a carpet, and jump up on bunks like those of a steamer cabin to slumber on their soft rugs. At 8 a. m. their trainer, William Seller, awakens them, to lead them out of their white-walled home into their big wire-fenced exercise yard. Billo he takes out for a 35 minute run along the outer drive to Roosevelt road and back, with Billo always on the left because he was trained never to be in the way if his master need shoot. Billo's leash is short, that he may meet no strangers and make no friends. He and Bello, who's too new yet for regular routine, are brushed with perfumed cleaning powder after some jumping and stick retrieving—Billo clears 5 feet 6—and then comes breakfast at 11 a. m.: two pounds each of beef, with some prepared dog food, hardtack, and a teaspoon of cod liver oil. The menu's duplicated at 3:30 p. m., the only other meal of the day. Then, unless Mr. Seller wants to brush up their training, they're free to play or rest.

Guard Thomas Brill turns them loose in the east wing at 7 p. m. They accompany him solemnly on his rounds, zigzagging among the exhibits, but being careful not to break a glass in the cases that hold the priceless treasures, and avoiding rugs and tapestries their paws might soil. If Mr. Brill's suspicious he tells Billo "Watch!" and Billo freezes on the spot. For one hour nothing but the business of taking charge of a burglar can move him. After that he will get restless and move off his spot to look for Mr. Brill, but he won't go far. The dogs' orders are all given in German. J. Francis McCabe, the building superintendent who introduced dogs as guards, doesn't want them to learn English and take a command in a preoccupied moment from a stranger. Billo thinks nothing of seeing people he doesn't know by daylight. Night's different; he's accustomed to seeing only those he knows. Any one else is to be stopped. Should he find some one inside he'd growl to let the guard know. If the intruder would stand still, Billo wouldn't touch him, unless the fellow were carrying something. Otherwise Billo would doubtless have him for lunch. Repairmen come in occasionally. Billo's told they're guests, and he'll treat them as such just so long as a guard's around. After that he'll tree them on the nearest statue. Billo's last partner died having puppies. Billo's predecessor died from age; bossier than Billo, he'd never let the guards forget to check a single clock of the burglar alarm system, but would freeze in front of it and bark until it was checked. Most prowlers crawl around the roof. Guards can't hear them, but Billo can. No one has ever actually got in since Mr. McCabe instituted the watchdog system 14 years ago. Boy gangs strip the copper plates off the roof, but Billo gives the alarm and they're caught.

IT'S ON THE PRESS.

Long about this time of year I start wondering if there will be a Line Book; then after I assure myself that we will surely have one I begin speculating as to just what it will contain. It is loads of fun guessing what the editor will decide to let us have each year.

Of course this year we will especially want some of the poems of the late Jay G. Sigmund—how we will miss those lovely things he contributed; then our long beloved Eolus—his prose is priceless, but I like even better the poetry he writes; then T. E. B. I am sure the Linebook will have his beautiful Daddy's Prayer. I believe that is the most touching poem I have ever read. Then in between the poems a lot of the wit and humor that has gone into the Line this past year. I even hope I may find a bit or two signed Jin-Jin.

WHAT ARE WE DOING TO OUR TEETH?

WHILE civilization has brought with it innumerable improvements and surrounded life with many creature comforts, nevertheless certain penalties have been exacted—the most notable of which is the decay of teeth.

Prehistoric man probably had no difficulty in that respect. He lived close to nature, his food was coarse and tough, requiring thorough mastication. If grains and seeds were employed as edibles they were powdered in a stone mortar, not subjected to the milling processes of today which remove some of the most valuable mineral matter.

The stone age inhabitants of the British Isles showed only an occasional incidence of carious teeth, based on the examination of excavated skulls. Today more than 90 per cent of all British and American school children are susceptible. A striking change has occurred among the Eskimos, where bad teeth practically were unknown until the advent of the white man. Eighty per cent now present dental imperfections.

What is responsible? No one knows exactly, but a variety of factors may be suspected. The saliva may be deficient; so may the diet; glandular disturbances are blamed; bacteria are likely to be involved. In fact, we can well conclude that most youngsters are born with a lime handicap. As most of us realize, it is of the greatest importance—before the baby arrives—to provide the mother with all the minerals necessary to insure a strong skeleton and good "ivories" for her offspring. This means that both calcium and phosphorus should be added to her diet, as well as the vitamins which control the use of those elements. This starts things off normally, provided the mother's system is able to handle and distribute these essentials and place them where they belong.

Let us grant, for argument's sake, that the child begins with a perfect set. How long will they remain so? How long will they withstand the action of acids generated within the mouth which we understand will dissolve bone? In order to obviate the presence of these destructive substances we must make certain that the child's nutrition is adequate; furthermore, that the mouth always is clean. If the saliva could be made sufficiently alkaline to neutralize the food acids we would be well along the way. The chances are that our forbears maintained an ideal situation naturally because of certain dietary customs which are now neglected or have been forgotten.

The best we can do is to make sure that we are not omitting those common sense procedures which are conducive to good health. One thing we do not get enough of is sunshine—daylight [out of doors]—but we can make up for it in part, at least, by using green foods, milk, butter, eggs, and fresh fruit. We can supplement the lack of ultraviolet by taking cod liver oil and—to my way of thinking—every youngster should have this, especially during the winter months.

Have we cooked the vitality out of our edibles? We probably start with incomplete foods and we are likely to take a higher percentage of carbohydrates [starches and sugars] than we really need. Sticky, tenacious, starchy material may cling to the molars so tightly that brushing and washing may be ineffective in removing it. This is one reason why chewing a stick of gum for 5 to 10 minutes after a meal may be helpful.

If our elements of nutrition were coarse enough, rough enough, raw enough we would not require even this. Fruits and some vegetables can be consumed in their pristine states. Most of us, however, have educated our alimentary tracts to demand well cooked vegetables from which many of the earthy principles—required for good teeth—have been extracted.

MORE REST IS NEEDED.

1. When twitching occurs in various parts of the body, what does it mean?

2. Would it be advisable to consult a physician if there is a continued twitching around the heart region?

3. Would massage help to stop the condition?

REPLY.

1. Usually fatigue. Single muscles or groups of muscles may twitch for a few seconds when one becomes very tired. Tics or habit spasms are the results of purposeful movements—in the beginning. For example, an eye irritation may initiate a blinking habit.

2 and 3. Obtain more rest for your nerves and use gentle massage. If the sympton persists, see your physician, as occasionally the trouble may be due to chorea. It does not mean heart disease.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand.—The New Zealand government not only insists that men are born free and equal; it holds that they must be given free medical attention, aid if they are jobless, and noncontributory pensions for old age.

But the present Labor government's care for free things does not extend to free speech, for the state-owned radio service is closely censored. It does not extend to the press, which repeatedly is threatened for criticizing the government's plans for taking a short route to universal happiness, and told that the government soon will start its own radio news service so the people may get the real news better and faster than the newspapers can deliver it. It does not extend to the rights of banks to refuse to make loans at interest rates which are held too low or on security they do not approve. A state banking organization will take over their job unless they abandon this path, the banks are told.

In fact, in the two years that the Laborites have been in office their tone has changed from a "let's all pull together" note, which was keyed on the immediate possibility of the Labor Utopia, to an "obstructors must go" chord which is not without its threatening overtones, its invitation to get on the band wagon—or else.

Small things continue to add up revealingly. For instance, when the silver coronation medals struck by Britain to mark the ceremony were being distributed Prime Minister Michael Savage awarded them to his housekeeper and to her husband, though world war veterans were forgotten and even the governor general, Lord Galway, was included only in a supplementary list.

In the house of representatives Edwin J. Howard, chairman of committees and veteran Labor member, confessed his humiliation during a recent visit to Britain. He had been very badly impressed, said Howard, by the reception given New Zealand's high commissioner, William J. Jordan, who is in effect this country's ambassador in London. The high commissioner should have some sort of title, said Howard. To hear speakers at large functions announced as "sirs" and "honorables," and have them followed by plain "Bill Jordan" offended the ear of a New Zealander.

At parliament house, the unfinished structure which incarnates in its high aspirations and chronic incompleteness the whole New Zealand character, the visitor to the prime minister's department is met by an usher who demands a card to be sent in. The anonymity of the prime minister's department's numbered doors had always appeared sufficient protection, especially as, behind the unlocked ones, secretaries and more ushers are entrenched. But the new rulers, it appears, are now ruling in the traditional style, and dignity must be preserved.

At present government departments are scattered about an overbuilt city, paying rent to private owners, and inhabiting whole floors of some buildings. That course, the government holds, is not seemly, and the departments are to be shifted to palatial new quarters in a whole quarter that will be made over for them.

UNPAID ROOM RENT.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How long does it take for a bill to become void? Four and a half years ago I was sick and fell back in my furnished room rent to the amount of $40. I was never able to pay what I owed. I own some securities which are worthless now but which at one time were worth from $800 to $1,000.

2. If I should get sick and die could my landlord attach these securities for back rent?

3. Is that debt outlawed in four and a half years?

4. I willed my securities to my brother who is loaning me money to live. C. D.

1. The Illinois limitation period on written contracts is ten years from the maturity date. On oral agreements it is five years.

2. He could file a claim against your estate. His chances of collecting would depend on whether there was a widow's award ahead of him and on other facts that are not before us.

3. No.

4. One way to protect your brother would be by giving him a note and pledging your papers as security in his hands.

REMOTE CONTROL OF SCOTLAND.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Nov. 5.—In your issue of Oct. 16 there is an article by Sam Brewer referring to a recently published recommendation of a parliamentary committee at Westminster for the transference from London to Edinburgh of all administration work in connection with Scottish affairs.

This is to be accompanied by "liaison offices" in London to keep close contact with parliament.

The details of Mr. Brewer's description of the proposed change are correct, but the heading of the article, "Remote Control of Scots to Be Abolished Soon," is evidently inapplicable.

The control is to remain in London, and while the actual administration is to be performed by the four departments in Edinburgh, these departments will possess no power of initiative.

It is far from being true to say that the Gilmour committee's recommendation is looked on as a triumph for those working for Scottish self-government. No! It is looked on as another dodge to avoid the coming of Scottish self-government and to retain English control of Scottish affairs.

In 1913 the secretary for Scotland, the late Mr. MacKinnon Wood, stated at a great public demonstration in Edinburgh that he had been authorized by his government to say that they had decided to introduce a Scottish home rule measure, and no wonder, for several private members' Scottish home rule bills had been voted on in previous years and none had less than four-fifths of the Scottish members voting in support.

The change proposed now will really be a backward step, giving London a firmer grip on Scotland and increasing burocratic power.

Complete self-government with a Scottish parliament in Scotland and equality of status with the other members of the British commonwealth of nations is the only solution that will satisfy patriotic Scotsmen.

R. E. MUIRHEAD,
Secretary, Scottish Secretariat.

She is the only lady Legionnaire in the post and all the local Legion boys will tell you that she is tops as a commander.

BLACK DIRT.

Northbrook, Ill., Nov. 16.—The northern portion of Cook county is fast being loaded up and hauled away. Is there no law that prevents a landowner from hauling off black dirt? In terms of black dirt our little farm, too, is worth a fortune to us, but what about the others to follow?

One man can build up a community by fixing up his place; another man can wreck farm values by selling black dirt.

H. R. ALLEY.

WHO'S LOONEY NOW?

Oak Park, Ill., Nov. 13.—When is a pacifist a lunatic? In connection with the wirephoto in the Nov. 12 TRIBUNE of the incident at the British cenotaph ceremonies in London on Nov. 11 I contend that lunacy was the wrong term to apply to the man who created the disturbance. He should have been charged with disorderly conduct. No man who believes what that man is reported to have shouted at his royal highness King George VI. is a lunatic. On the contrary I maintain that any man who believes England is not preparing for war is crazy.

What a pity it is that psychologists cannot set up standards of sanity for society so that when the majority go insane, as in the instance of war, the very small minority who remain sane could lock them up until they have recovered from their malady.

No wonder the duke of Windsor didn't want to be king. And make sure of this, that marriage of his was not the only reason for his abdication. He saw the world war both from the inside and the bullet side and he knows what kind of a mess the British officials of state are really cooking up.

Honoring the fallen in battle is a very necessary part of war psychology. If governments quit revering them they cannot get the younger generations to join the army.

M. DICKASON.

NORTEAMERICANO.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—I wonder how it happened you used "nord" in your Sunday editorial on the namelessness of the Nord Americano. It is neither Spanish nor Portuguese, one of which it should be.

A South American calls us Norteamericanos, all one word.

And by the way, a person living in Argentina, a native, is an Argentine. They use the pronominal adjective as we do. We don't say "Americanians." Having lived in Argentina and read both the Spanish and English papers of Buenos Aires, I have mustered up courage to call your attention to these two very common "Norteamericano" mistakes. Another peculiar newspaper mistake often seen in the United States is calling Argentina Argentine. This can only be done by using "the" before the "Argentine"—"country" or "nation" being understood, though omitted.

A NOMAD.

THE TELEPHONE AS TYRANT.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—I agree with Mr. Leslie White in his opinion of the telephone as a tyrant, but I think that the most exasperating experience is when you consult a doctor or dentist. You wait a long time in the anteroom. You are finally admitted, and as soon as you start reciting your woes the phone rings and immediately the doctor forgets you and indulges in a long telephone conversation, probably about a golf engagement or some other trivial social matter. The discourtesy lies in the fact that your time is wasted, although it may be just as valuable or more so than that of the voice on the phone, and the point that you are paying for the doctor's time while the outsider is not seems to be completely overlooked.

BERLIN IS SHORT OF FLATS; NAZIS BUY UP BUILDINGS

Shops Face Bankruptcy in Real Estate Shakeup.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—The German capital was excited today because Nazi government departments are buying buildings by the dozen and compelling owners and tenants to vacate the premises on short notice.

The Hotel Adlon was induced to sell to the food ministry one wing of the building facing the Wilhelmstrasse. The sale greatly reduces the size of the hotel.

Some claimed the transaction was forced to punish the Adlon's owners who were the last hotel proprietors in Berlin to remove a bust of former Kaiser Wilhelm II. from its place of honor in the lobby.

Plan Superbuildings.

This assertion is incorrect, since similar sales are being enforced throughout the city to enable the Nazis to erect new superbuildings for their ministries and offices.

Complaints over the sudden cancelation of leases are heard in the business section of Potsdamerstrasse. There hundreds of businesses and private individuals have been ordered to move within four to six weeks to enable workers to tear down the buildings in one entire block and make space for the new "tourist advising offices" of Hermann Esser, commissar of tourists.

The ministry of economics protested. It is said inhabitants of the condemned Potsdamer block would suffer bankruptcy if their Christmas business were crippled. Esser had submitted a model of his new tourist building to Reichsfuehrer Hitler who approved it and ordered the building erected. Consequertly, the protest of the ministry of economics was rejected.

Shortage of Apartments.

The postal ministry, the air ministry and the war ministry as well as all and sundry Nazi organizations have been conducting "enlarging programs." They are taking over apartment houses and turning them into offices. As a result there is a tremendous shortage of dwelling places in the capital.

Nazi authorities announced that 15,000 new apartments are being built. Nevertheless, residents feel this is insufficient, because more buildings are being taken over by the government to prepare the way for a new "triumphal road." The road will stretch from a new railroad station in north Berlin to another station at the Tempelhof airport in south Berlin.

The two stations are to be connected underground. The avenue on the surface will be used for triumphal parades. Actual work on this program will start in 1940.

VISCOUNT CECIL, NOTED LEAGUE BACKER, WINS NOBEL PEACE AWARD

Viscount Cecil of Chelwood.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The 1937 Nobel peace prize [worth $40,600] was awarded today to Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, one of the founders of the league of nations and a leading advocate of disarmament. The former British cabinet member was selected because of his work in behalf of the league and international good will.

The name of United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull was before the Nobel committee, which met twice before reaching its decision.

[Lord Cecil learned of the honor in New York City ten minutes before Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, awarded him an honorary degree of doctor of laws. The peer, who is 73 years old, is in America to attend a conference of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through Churches. He was a week-end guest of President Roosevelt at the White House.]

SEEKS PROOF HE'S SANE AT 62 SO HE CAN WED GIRL, 17

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Former Premier Tewfik Nessim Pasha of Egypt, who is determined to marry Marie Huebner, daughter of a Viennese hotel proprietor, arrived here today to consult British specialists to prove his sanity. Marie is 17 years old and Nessim Pasha is 62. "I have not seen Marie since she sailed home [from Egypt] five weeks ago," he said. "I shall not communicate with her until my honor is vindicated."

The London trip followed a Cairo court order that Nessim Pasha must be examined by three doctors because relatives alleged he was unfit to manage his own affairs. The allegations followed his betrothal to Marie, whom he had met in her father's bar, and an amendment of his will by which he bequeathed her $250,000.

Three Egyptian nerve specialists pronounced him incapable of handling his affairs. Nessim Pasha then went to Paris, where five doctors declared he is sound mentally. Now he wants proof in London.

METEOR SLASHES A 30 MILE PATH THROUGH JUNGLE

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Nov. 18.—(AP)—How a meteor slashed a thirty mile path through the forest clad Marudi mountains and jungle 300 miles from Georgetown was described over a field radio last night by Dr. William Holden, leader of an American Museum of Natural History expedition.

The meteor's destruction of huge trees and shrubbery terrorized the expedition's Indian porters, who believed the gods were displeased with the white men's visit. They threatened to desert, Holden said.

Nevertheless, he said he hoped to explore the area where the meteor fell, some ten miles from a place named Camshock.

HORNER AND HIS AIDS IN HUDDLE ON PAROLE KNOT

Future of 850 Convicts Is Still in Doubt.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Behind closed doors Gov. Horner, his parole board, and his prison wardens today considered two parole problems but failed to find an answer for either.

The dual purpose of this secret conference was [1] What to do about 450 convicts who are eligible for parole but have no sponsors and no jobs, and [2] how 400 other incarcerated felons can be released from Illinois penitentiaries for prosecutions in other states where they are wanted.

Although Mr. Horner said he has "ideas I don't want to discuss now" about both matters, others among the conferees were despairing that solutions will be found.

Decide to Hunt Jobs.

The most obvious thing they could do was to decide to search for jobs for the convicts now eligible for release so that they could be moved out of the prisons. So it was decided to start the search, but not much optimism was apparent.

A stone wall of legal opposition seemed to confront solution of the other principal problem. The law prohibits parolees from leaving Illinois unless they have a job in another state, and a date with a trial court is not considered gainful occupation. About 750 Illinois convicts are now paroled to employers in other states but all of them are under the supervision of the parole agents of those commonwealths. In reciprocity Illinois also exercises supervision over about 800 out-of-state parolees.

Just what the governor might have in mind he kept to himself. It would, of course, be possible for him to pardon felons and arrange with other states to have officers meet them at the prison gates and escort them across the borders for trial.

No Surety of a Conviction.

"But that wouldn't be a sure thing," the governor answered reporter's questions, "for there would be no certainty of conviction in the other states."

One ray of brightness that penetrated the conference came from Dr. Paul L. Schroeder, state criminologist, who reported that a physicians' committee in Chicago had recently credited Illinois with having the best psychiatric care in prisons in any state, although the group also recommended additions to the psychiatric stafs.

Among the speakers at the conferences was T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of supervision of parolees who, during the last 11 months since he has been in charge of the office, has found and returned to prison many parole violators.

Sullivan and half a dozen others of the conferees, including Joseph Ragen, superintendent of prisons, and Guy McGaughey, new member of the parole board, were named as a committee to search for the jobs.

COLLIE GIVES UP HIS OWN LIFE TO SAVE MASTER'S

Bum, Scotch collie, saved his master's life and lost his own yesterday morning when fire swept through the second floor of a two story building at 5945 Chicago avenue. John Bauer, 45 years old, a widower, who lived and operated a photographic studio in the apartment, was asleep in a bedroom when the fire started, apparently from an oil stove. Bum, who was in another room, raced through the flames and awakened Bauer in time for the latter to escape. The collie died of burns a short time later.

Ray Allen, his wife, and two children, who live on the first floor, escaped from the building. Chief Dennis Curtin of the 23d battalion estimated the loss at $1,500.

SEIZE 3 ACCUSED OF MINING STOCK SWINDLE SCHEME

Charged with Victimizing Elderly Persons.

Two promoters of a fabulous mining scheme, alleged to have taken $85,000 from 430 men and women, many of them elderly persons of small means, were arrested yesterday by police from the state's attorney's office in a raid on the ninth floor suite of the West Coast Minerals Company, Ltd., 10 North Clark street.

The promoters were seized on warrants issued by Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of the County court, charging violation of the Illinois securities act. They are William L. Dickelman, 3827 Wilton avenue, executive trustee of the company, and Scott R. Weinland, 1451 East 71st place. Judge Jarecki set bond of $2,500 for Dickelman and $1,000 for Weinland. Both were held last night in the county jail.

Third Man Seized; Three Sought.

Later Dr. Jesse W. Ritter, a dentist, was arrested on a similar warrant in his office at 16 North Wabash avenue. He was released on his own bond. Warrants were issued for three other alleged partners, whom police are seeking. They are Neil N. McLean of Barstow, Ill.; William E. Rapelje, and Edward P. Keelem of Colfax, Cal.

On Nov. 3 the company was enjoined by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson from selling securities on complaint of the Securities and Exchange commission. According to Assistant State's Attorney William J. Lynch of the blue sky division, his office has been making a similar investigation.

At the time of the federal complaint details of the mining scheme were revealed. The partners are said to have preyed on gullible elderly persons, selling shares for as low as 90 cents. One sucker list, Lynch said, was compiled after attending a meeting of the Townsend old age pension plan.

Basis for Scheme.

The promoters based their plan on a 640 acre tract in California which they said held an untold wealth of undeveloped minerals and ore, worth at least $500,000,000. They came into possession through a dying prospector who befriended one of them.

Sergt. Steve Leddy, who led the raid, said the suite was elaborately appointed, calculated to impress any investor. Piles of ore and jars of quartz stood between oil paintings of desert scenes and prospecting. Dickelman admitted the specimens were worthless, Lynch said.

Robber Jack Sopkin to Get Parole Hearing on Monday

Jack Sopkin, who entered Stateville penitentiary on July 28, 1932, on a sentence of one year to life for robbery, is scheduled for a parole hearing at the prison next Monday. The written records in the parole offices in Springfield confirmed this last night, spiking reports of secrecy. According to Robert Phillips, chief clerk, Sopkin, after serving a year of his sentence, was given an eight year setting, meaning that his case would come up for hearing at this time.

THIRD MEMBER OF ESCAPED O'CONNELL KIDNAP GANG CAUGHT

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The third member of the O'Connell kidnap trio who broke out of jail early Tuesday was recaptured late today. The fugitive, Percy Geary, was seized in a warehouse less than two blocks from the rooming house where his two companions were arrested yesterday.

Geary was limping, presumably from injuries incurred when he leaped from a second floor window of the rooming house as the police appeared.

Authorities were informed of Geary's presence in the warehouse by a parking lot attendant whom the fugitive had asked to point out a place where he could stay. Geary and his two pals were convicted of participating in the $40,000 ransom abduction of John O'Connell Jr., well known Albany man.

GRANGE DOESN'T WANT CONTROL OF PRODUCTION

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The national grange does not want American agriculture subjected to crop production control, the organization's 71st annual convention decided tonight, but specifically named cotton and tobacco as possible exceptions.

"Drastic curtailment of production or destruction of large quantities of food products in the United States," said a resolution adopted by the delegates, "eventually will result in bringing about a condition detrimental to the whole people.

"We believe the problem now facing American agriculture cannot be brought to a satisfactory conclusion by either of these means, but lies in bringing about better distribution systems and increasing the purchasing power of the whole people."

A majority of the delegates seemed to favor a "go-all-the-way" policy against production control, but southern delegates insisted the door be left open for cotton and tobacco, and won out.

INDICT 2 ROBBERS IN AUTO DEATH OF MESSENGER BOY

Grand Jury Names Eight Others of Gang.

Ten members of a bandit gang that specialized in holding up handbooks were indicted yesterday. Five of the ex-convicts were named under the habitual criminal act and two of the five were charged with murder. In addition several of the men were indicted for robbery.

Frank Green, 28 years old, 3651 Wabansia avenue, leader of the gang, and Walter Baclawski, 30 years old, 2128 North Moody avenue, were indicted on murder charges growing out of Green's confession that the automobile in which he and Baclawski were fleeing from a holdup at 540 St. Clair street ran down and killed a messenger boy at Wabash and Grand avenue on June 27, 1936. The messenger was Albert Klautsch, 18 years old, 3651 Wabansia avenue.

Named in Second Indictment.

Green also was indicted under the habitual criminal act, as were Edward Duchant, 1109 North Sacramento avenue; John Kill, 1552 North La Salle street; Raymond Rubin, 4069 Kenmore avenue, and Julius Leavitt, 2646 Crystal street.

The five others indicted, who have not served terms in penitentiaries, were James Thompson, 1703 North Rockwell street; Bernard Richman, 2652 Potomac avenue; Ben Bonkoski, 2706 Haddon avenue; Thomas Maxwell, 1807 North Karlov avenue, and Baclawski.

Sixteen Robberies Charged.

The gang was involved in nearly fifty robberies, among them being the $4,300 holdup of the Cribben & Sexton company, 680 North Sacramento avenue, on July 19. Sixteen robbery indictments were returned yesterday.

The robber gang, consisting of twelve men, two of whom are expected to be indicted later, were tracked down by a detective squad headed by Sergt John J. Hanrahan after several weeks of undercover investigation.

Green is being questioned by Sergt. Hanrahan in connection with the murder of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, night club hostess, who was slain in her room at the Devonshire hotel on June 29, 1936.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Earl Askins, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Jesse E. Parhan, robbery, sentenced to life imprisonment under the habitual criminal act by Judge Joseph Sabath.

Henry Wofford, colored, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; John Retzke and Raymond Baker, larceny, sentenced to 2 years in the bridewell; Frank Dunn, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Fred Rush.

ORDERS FUGITIVE'S RETURN.

Frank Kogut, 27 years old, 3542 Kenmore avenue, arrested Oct. 13 while he was loitering near the Central police station, was ordered returned to Cincinnati yesterday by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Felony court on a fugitive warant on a bond fraud charge.

YOUR COUGH

IS A WARNING SIGNAL —DON'T NEGLECT IT!

When you catch cold and your throat feels dry or clogged, the secretions from countless tiny glands in your throat and windpipe often turn into sticky, irritating phlegm. This makes you cough.

Pertussin stimulates these glands to again pour out their natural moisture so that the annoying phlegm is loosened and easily raised. Quickly your throat is soothed, your cough relieved!

Your cough may be a warning signal from your respiratory system. Why neglect it? Do as millions have done! Use Pertussin, a safe, pleasant herbal remedy for children, grownups. Many physicians have prescribed Pertussin for over 30 years. It's safe, acts quickly. Sold at all druggists.

(ADVERTISMENT)

INFLAMED EYES?

Get prompt relief with Lavoptik. Use also for granulated eyelids, tired, sore, strained, itching, sticky, burning, irritated or watery eyes. No harmful drugs. Has made sad eyes glad for 25 years. Get Lavoptik today (with free eye cup). All druggists.

TRAIN AND AUTO CRASH IN SNOW STORM; 2 KILLED

Third Person Injured Near Michigan City.

A man and woman were killed and a second woman was critically injured last night when a Pere Marquette passenger train, speeding to Chicago through a blinding snowstorm, struck their automobile on U. S. highway 20 about two miles west of Michigan City. The crossing is equipped with flasher signals, but no gates.

The train carried the wreckage a mile to another highway, known as the Old Chicago road. Indiana state police investigating the accident thought it had occurred there until they located the bodies up the tracks, midway between the two crossings.

Victims from Milwaukee.

The dead were Leslie Deitz, 46 years old, 2116 North 55th street, Milwaukee, an automobile accessories dealer, and a neighbor, Mrs. Harriett Ingersoll, 30 years old, of the same address. Mrs. Frances Ann Scanlon, 25 years old, the injured victim, was taken to St. Anthony's hospital in Michigan City.

Mrs. Deitz, reached in Milwaukee, said her husband had left in the afternoon on a business trip to Toledo, O., taking Mrs. Ingersoll and Mrs. Scanlon, who lived with them, along to visit friends there.

Return Manslaughter Verdict.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of manslaughter yesterday in the death of Saul Sugar, 40 years old, 1360 South Springfield avenue, who was killed Nov. 6 by an automobile as he stepped from a street car at Pulaski road and 14th street. The jury recommended that Samuel Benigno, 19 years old, 1147 Cambridge avenue, driver of the car, be held to the grand jury after hearing testimony that there were skid marks on the street for 108 feet.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 953 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 721 were killed in Chicago, where 20,328 were injured in the same period.

'BABY KISSING' JOBLESS COUNT JOB OF POSTMEN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Several thousand postmen set out tonight on a "baby-kissing" campaign to clinch the success of the government's voluntary unemployment census.

Burdened with jobless questionnaires instead of letters, and ringing doorbells instead of filling mailboxes, they undertook the task of making the count of the nation's idle complete.

Their first job, as officials here conceived it, was to become friends with the families they visited, even to the point of kissing the babies—if employment of that politician's trick became necessary to induce the jobless to fill out the questionnaires.

Trailerites Dug In for Winter, Aldermen Find on Camp Tour

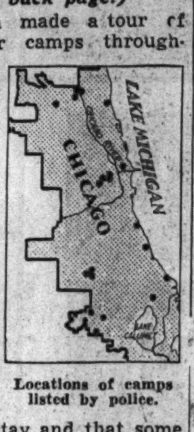
Three aldermen made a tour of automobile trailer camps throughout the city yesterday and obtained first hand information for use in preparing the final draft of a proposed regulatory ordinance for the camps. The aldermen, members of a subcommittee of the council health committee observed that many trailerites apparently have dug in for a winter's stay and that some of the camps have inadequate sanitary facilities.



Locations of camps listed by police.

In the party were Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of the subcommittee; Ald. James F. Young [46th] and Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th] and Clem McDermott, secretary of the subcommittee. As the basis for their study they used the ordinance drafted by Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes and a police survey of trailer camps.

Seek to Plug Loophole.

The aldermen pointed to weakness in a provision of the proposed ordinance which sets a limit of thirty days within any six months' period in which a trailerite may remain in the city. This clause must be amplified, Ald. Lindell said, to state clearly that a trailer resident may not move from camp to camp to evade the time limit.

"Our tour has shown us that many of these trailerites plan to stay in the camps permanently," the alderman declared. "They have jacked up their trailers and in some cases removed the wheels. The ordinance will prohibit these long stays.

"We also are convinced that the camps should be restricted to certain sections of the city and should not be allowed in residential districts where they would be a nuisance."

The first camp the aldermen visited yesterday was a lot at 59 West Erie street, where twelve trailers were parked. There they heard what seemed to be lion roars and found five lions, two of them cubs, quartered on the premises.

Herbert Fryer, owner of the lot, explained that his trailer tenants are circus people and vaudeville and county fair performers. The lions are owned by Eric Van Der Wall and his wife, Opal. The aldermen said they found that the sanitary facilities were insufficient and that many stage props formed a fire hazard.

The party's next stop was in a trailer camp at 6135 Lincoln avenue. There were twenty trailers parked here, many of them raised off their wheels and evidently prepared for a long stay. Victor Kleinert, operator of the camp, said several of his tenants have been there more than thirty days and explained he does not know how long they will remain.

20 Trailers at One Camp.

Ten trailers were parked in a lot behind a garage at 5238 Broadway. Many of these, too, apparently were there for the winter. The same condition prevailed in two south side camps, at 7853 Coles avenue, where there were 10 trailers, and at 2772 East 75th street, where there were 20 trailers. At the Coles avenue camp some of the trailers were backed up against an apartment building.

Since the board of health cited several trailer camp owners a few weeks ago for not complying with sanitary requirements, most of these conditions have been remedied. The remaining violations noted yesterday will be reported to the health board.

Other trailer camps were listed by police at 4059 Lake Park avenue, 5718 Stony Island avenue, 9148 Chappel avenue, 10700 and 11868 Vincennes avenue, 7400, 7700, and 10300 South Western avenue, 619 South Wood street, 1155 Randolph street, 1154 Monroe street, 234 South Ashland avenue, 5283 Elston avenue, 6037 Lincoln avenue, and at Central Park and Granville avenues.

ONCE A GENERAL IN RUSSIA; LOSES U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Nicholas Bogomoletz, 65, one time major general in the white Russian army in Siberia, was deprived of his United States citizenship in federal court today on grounds of moral turpitude.

The former Russian army officer admitted in testimony he brought with him to the United States in 1923 a Russian war nurse, Anna Zaporojschuk, who was not his wife, and Tatiena, their illegitimate daughter.

Bogomoletz, a Hollywood cobbler, had been a citizen for eight years.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL.

Robert Trotter, 67 years old, 4514 Washington boulevard, died of a heart atttack yesterday while in the office of Attorney Aaron Schulman, 4003 Madison street.

Glenn Frank Denounces National Social Planning

Dr. Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin, expressed his skepticism of national social planning before 1,000 persons at the third annual dinner of the Chicago recreation commission conference in the Hotel Sherman last night. "Nobody knows enough to plan an entire nation," he declared. "The complexities of this country are limitless and the capacities of its leaders, as in every generation, are limited." The dinner ended an all day session during which nearly 3,000 persons viewed numerous educational and recreational exhibits.

SENATE CONFIRMS TWO ILLINOISANS.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The senate confirmed today the nomination of Howard A. Gray of Illinois as assistant administrator of public works. It also confirmed David R. Kennicott of Illinois for director of the Public Works administration, second region.

CARS BUMP ALL 'ROUND THE TOWN ON ICY STREETS

Automobiles almost turned into sleighs on Chicago streets last night as an inch of snow, which melted slightly during the day, froze again in the evening and turned all streets and highways into icy sheets. Hundreds of minor accidents occurred, although most motorists, finding their brakes useless, drove at about 20 miles an hour. Bus and street car trafic also was slowed.

Wherever there was a downgrade at a trafic signal fenders were dented. At Emerson street and Ridge avenue, Evanston, nine cars bumped at one time. There were similar cases in all parts of the city and suburbs.

Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said last night the mantle of snow probably would last several days, possibly through Thanksgiving. Chill winds carried the snow over a wide area, ranging along the northern states from Pennsylvania to the Rockies. Although light in northern Illinois, the snow was several inches deep down state.

A Refrigerator Man Turns the Cold on Wife; She Sues

Ivar Skipple, head of a refrigeration service at 13 North Morgan street, treated his wife coldly, acting like a living statue, she charged yesterday in a suit for divorce filed in Superior court. The wife, Mrs. Susan Skipple, 1810 North Nordica avenue, asked custody of their two children, 8 and 5 years old, and temporary alimony pending the divorce hearing. The Skipples separated on Nov. 4.

DRIVER IS JAILED AFTER FLEEING ACCIDENT SCENE

Earl Russell Britt, 1217 Hull terrace, Evanston, was sentenced to 30 days in the Bridewell, fined $100, and barred from driving his car for one year by Judge J. M. Braude in the Safety court yesterday on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Britt was arrested after he drove his car through a stop signal at Western and Granville avenues and struck and injured a pedestrian.

Olaf Simonsen, 3200 North avenue, found guilty of reckless driving, was sentenced to five days in jail and was barred from driving for a year, and August Jones, colored, 1701 Fulton street, was sentenced to 20 days in jail and barred for a year for reckless driving.

UNION CHIEFTAIN SLAIN; REPORT 4 OTHERS MARKED

Labor Fight Blamed for Minneapolis Killing.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Rumors of an approaching labor war here in which five men were marked for death were investigated by authorities tonight in connection with the slaying of Patrick J. Corcoran, veteran A. F. of L. labor leader, ambushed near his home last night.

Patrick J. Corcoran.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Threats that "they are mopping up now" and "two more are to go" were made in telephone calls to two other Twin City labor leaders within the last 36 hours.

"I hate to believe there is anything to the story that it is a fight between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L.," said Meyer Lewis, Minneapolis representative of President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Recalls Other Assassinations.

The killing of Corcoran recalled the still unsolved assassinations of two Twin City publishers whose weekly newspapers had dealt with labor matters. Walter Liggett was ambushed near his home Dec. 9, 1935, and Howard Guilford was killed Sept. 6, 1934.

Gov. Elmer A. Benson, terming Corcoran was secretary-treasurer. Five and order, threw all the facilities of the state into the hunt for his slayers and personally offered a $500 reward for their arrest and conviction.

A reward of $10,000 was posted by the teamster union, of which Corcoran was secretary treasurer. Five hundred dollars was offered by the Minneapolis Star, which on Nov. 9 had published a prediction that "a prominent Minneapolis labor leader will be taken for a ride within two weeks."

Alderman Bares Death List.

Cedric Adams, Star writer in whose column the prophecy appeared, was questioned by police. He denied Corcoran was the man he had meant.

Ald. A. G. Bastis disclosed he had heard reports that Corcoran was one of five men on a Minneapolis death list. He said the others were Bill Brown, official of the General Drivers' union, and the three Dunn brothers, Miles, Vincent and Grant, organizers of the drivers' union.

The two labor leaders who said they had been threatened were S. J. Juetten of St. Paul and Earl Martin. Juetten said his wife received an anonymous phone call, apparently intended for him, in which a voice told her of the "mopping up" and that "more are to go."

Juetten is business agent for the Laundry, Linen and Dry Cleaners' union. He said Martin, district organizer for the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, also had been threatened.

Police learned that Corcoran, chairman of the North Central District Drivers' council, recently had been swamped with union troubles. Thomas E. Cunningham, state president of the A. F. of L., said Corcoran had appealed to state and national federation officials for aid in settling labor union disturbances in Minneapolis.

Corcoran was fatally shot as he apparently fled from the men who had waited near his residence until he came home at about 10 o'clock last night. Neighbors said they heard a shot and then saw two men running from the place where the labor leader's body was found an hour later.

Two Attackers Hunted.

Authorities were hunting especially two men who attacked Corcoran in the Teamster union headquarters last Sunday. Corcoran's son, Patrick Jr., said two men summoned his father to the union offices and assaulted him. The son said a shot was fired during the mêlée after one of the men struck Corcoran on the jaw. Police said the identity of the two men is known.

When Mrs. Corcoran was notified of the slaying, she said: "I knew they'd get him." She had called her husband's attention to the newspaper forecast of a labor leader's death, but he had laughed and told her "there's nothing to worry about."

EX-COUNTY EMPLOYE TAKES STAND TO FIGHT $3,200 THEFT CHARGE

Jack D. Chisholm, 27 years old, former employé in the county treasurer's office who disappeared Aug. 15, 1936, leaving a $3,200 shortage behind him, took the stand in his own defense yesterday and testified that the loss of the money was a surprise to him. Chisholm is being tried on an embezzlement charge before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge John C. Lewe.

Chisholm was arrested May 12 in a cabin at Grays lake where he was training a pair of prize fighters. Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coughlin testified yesterday that Chisholm confessed the theft then and promised to make restitution when his fighters began making money.

On the stand Chisholm denied any knowledge of the missing money. He said that it apparently had been taken while he was absent from his cage to hear a talk to employés by Joseph L. Gill, then county treasurer. It is expected the case will go to the jury today.

2 AUTO PLANTS REMAIN SHUT IN SITDOWN STRIKE

None Professes Plans for Negotiations.

Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A few hundred men whose sitdown strike in the Fisher body plant here closed two automotive factories employing 14,721, held their ground tonight and neither General Motors corporation nor the United Automobile Workers of America professed to know of plans for peace negotiations.

Company officials said that neither the Fisher plant nor the Pontiac Motor company plant would reopen before Monday.

E. F. Fisher, general manager of the Fisher Body division of General Motors, attributed the strike to a "radical minority" and described it as a "flagrant and lawless violation of the agreement between General Motors corporation and the U. A. W. A.

Blames Old Grievances.

Homer Martin, international president of the union, however, telephoned a statement to international union headquarters at Detroit, blaming old grievances, rather than any change in union policy, for the strike.

"As a preliminary to further negotiations," the statement said, "we will give General Motors assurances against unauthorized strikes and arbitrary stoppages of work." The statement did not specify the form of the assurances to be given.

Third Strike Since Sunday.

The strike was the third in a General Motors plant since U. A. W. A. delegates last Sunday rejected a proposed new agreement with the corporation. Richard T. Frankenstein, assistant president of the international union, said that "General Motors could have prevented all of this trouble by offering the union a sufficiently decent contract."

The strike began last night in the Fisher plant a few hours after E. R. Leeder, plant manager, had insisted in conference with union representatives upon the suspension of four men whom he described as instigators of a twelve hour strike Monday night.

Leeder and Fisher said they had the assurance of union officers that both strikes were unauthorized.

COUPLE'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest over Michael Matousek and his wife, Mary. Examination showed they died Nov. 8 from food poisoning in their home at 2740 South Sacramento avenue.

TWO WORKERS HAILED FOR EXCEEDING QUOTA IN COMMUNITY FUND

Special recognition was extended last night by Gen. R. E. Wood, chairman of the Community Fund campaign, to Frederick W. Spiegel and H. G. Taylor for exceptional service in the drive.

The achievement was the early completion of the drive in the mail order and transportation groups which they head. A total of $316,895 was pledged for the two units. The combined quota was $310,000.

"With the returns from these two groups," Gen. Wood said, "the industrial division has passed the million dollar mark and has a good start toward the final step toward its goal. The total is now $1,184,314."

A total of $2,801,000 has been pledged to the community fund. The goal is $3,550,000, with which the 177 major organized social agencies of Chicago are to be financed during the year.

Sitdown Strike Closes Goodyear Rubber Plant

Akron, O., Nov. 19 [Friday].—(AP)—A sitdown strike early this morning closed one plant of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company. The sitdown, attributed to a lay-off of 1,600 workers, was called after fourth shift employés had reported for work. Some third shift workers refused to leave the plant at the end of their turn. John House, president of the Goodyear local of the United Rubber Workers, said the strike was called after he had conferred with C. C. Slusser, vice president in charge of production, to seek a postponement of the lay-off until after Jan. 1.

DIES AFTER AUTO CRASH.

Newark, O., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Curtis Noel, 20 years old, died in the Nashport hospital east of here this morning. His automobile had left the road and plunged into a ditch.

EVENTS OF FAMED LINCOLN ADDRESS ARE RECOUNTED

Seventy-four years ago today Abraham Lincoln delivered his famous Gettysburg address on the hallowed ground of that Civil war battlefield, then being dedicated as a perpetual memorial.

Miss Muriel Bernitt, curator of the Lincoln historical collection at the University of Chicago, yesterday recounted the circumstances of the address and the fact that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE was one of the first newspapers to accord Lincoln's words of appreciation. His address was printed on the front page Nov. 20, 1863.

People from eighteen states gathered on the battlefield, not to hear Lincoln, but Edward Everett, one of the most noted orators of his day. Lincoln was allowed, however, to say a few words. At that time his remarks were largely ignored. Today every schoolboy knows the dedication address by heart.

Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company
James S. Kemper, President
Mutual Insurance Building
Chicago, U.S.A.

November 19, 1937

TO OUR POLICYHOLDERS:

We arrive at the 25th Anniversary of the granting of the charter of the company by the State of Illinois with mingled feelings of satisfaction and responsibility.

Our first thought is of gratitude to you, our members, who have made possible the maintenance of the program that was set forth in the original platform of the company. Then, too, we recall the continuing interest through the years of our Directors and Advisory Board and of the official staff of the company. Last but not least, we recognize the loyalty of the humblest member of the organization in some far-flung outpost where he, too, has done his bit to bring Lumbermens to its present position of influence in the insurance industry.

But beyond all this is the satisfaction each of us can have in the contribution we have made to humanity; in the lives and limbs that have been saved through our continuous campaign for the elimination of preventable accidents; to the raising of standards of working conditions and to the effect all this has had on happier homes and a better citizenry.

The responsibility of the last quarter century in the upbuilding of the company has been a real one. But at no time has the outlook for the future been so clouded by conflicting forces and uncertain trends. Now, if ever, we need the soundest judgment and the most far-seeing vision if we are to measure up to the tradition and record of the past.

You may be assured that we shall do our best to serve you well and to administer the affairs of this mutual insurance company in what we hope will prove to be your best interests and the best interests of your employes, their dependents and others who rely upon us to provide the benefits to which they are entitled. But we need your constant interest and your critical and constructive suggestions if we are to do the job as we wish to do it. I am sure we shall have from you that interest and that support in full measure.

Respectfully,

President

"World's Greatest Automobile Mutual"

RAND IS FREED IN FIRST CASE UNDER NEW LAW

Charges Under the U. S Strike Statute Fail.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—James H. Rand Jr., president of Remington Rand, Inc., and Pearl L. Bergoff of New York were found not guilty of violation of the Byrnes act by a jury in the United States District court here today.

The verdict was a blow at the government's first attempt to enforce the act, which forbids the transportation of strikebreakers across state lines with the intent of interfering with peaceful picketing.

Judge Censures Prosecutor.

The jury, composed of farmers, two house wives, retired business men, and mechanics, deliberated for two and a half hours after hearing the charge of Judge Carroll Hincks. The judge castigated Charles H. Carr, assistant attorney general and special prosecutor in the case. Judge Hincks assailed the conduct of the red haired prosecutor from Tennessee in cross examination and charged him with an unwarranted attempt to create an "atmosphere" prejudicial to the defendants. The judge also accused the prosecutor of making charges of suppression of evidence which he failed to prove.

The judge's attack upon the prosecutor created a sensation in the courtroom. It brought elation to the faces of defense counsel and the defendants.

Limits Scope of Act.

At the same time the court carefully circumscribed the application of the Byrnes act and emphasized the right of an employer to protect employés and himself against intimidation by strikers.

Judge Hincks drew a distinction between peaceful picketing and the type of mass picketing which, he said, approached the character of "organized intimidation." That was what the defense argued when it pictured the picketing as not peaceful and, therefore, outside the purview of the Byrnes act.

Specifically, the case concerned the Remington-Rand strike in Middletown, Conn., on June 26, 1936, when fifty-seven men, supplied by Bergoff, were brought in from New York by arrangement with Mr. Rand.

Dispute Over Purpose.

The government contended they were brought there to interfere with the peaceful picketing. The defense maintained their purpose was to dismantle the Remington-Rand plant. In his charge to the jury Judge Hincks expressed doubt as to the latter, but at the same time cautioned the jury to be careful in its judgment as to the former.

After announcing the jury's verdict of "not guilty," the foreman reiterated the finding with respect to each of the defendants. The court thereupon discharged them from bail and released them from custody.

Judge Hincks thanked the jury, declaring the verdict terminated "the partnership" between the court and the jury to which he had referred in his charge when he criticized Mr. Carr for making a statement in his summation, the day before, which the court today regarded as a reflection upon its prerogative.

Mr. Rand, who marked his birthday today, received the congratulations of counsel and friends and shook hands with most of the jurors.

Bergoff, beaming, declared: "I'm glad justice has been vindicated."

Before leaving the courtroom Mr. Rand issued a statement declaring that the verdict was not only his vindication with regard to the indictment on which he was tried, but indicated also he was innocent of the accusations made against him by the National Labor Relations board in its investigation of the Remington-Rand strike.

Held in Love Slaying

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Gladys Juanita Love, age 18 (right), with matron in Washington, D. C., yesterday after she had been charged with shooting John V. White, a government employe, during lovers' quarrel.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Weeping and protesting that she shot in self-defense, Gladys Juanita Love, a waitress, was held in jail here tonight on an open charge following the death of her sweetheart, John Verton White, 25 years old, an employé in the government printing office. The girl is 18 years old. The shooting occurred after a violent quarrel in White's apartment.

Neighbors told police they heard the couple shouting and arguing in the early hours this morning and then the sound of shots. They telephoned the police, who found the girl in the street outside the apartment building sobbing and pleading for an ambulance and a doctor.

White, who had been shot in the head with his own revolver, was found with an army rifle across his knees. He died four hours later. The girl said she had been married, but did not know the whereabouts of her husband.

CHICAGO RELIEF CASES DECLINE 315 IN OCTOBER

A report of the Chicago Relief administration, issued yesterday from the office of Leo M. Lyons, administrator, showed a decline of .4 of 1 per cent in relief cases in Chicago in October compared with September. The total dropped from 84,934 cases to 84,619, the latter figure embracing 215,659 individuals.

In 38,250 of the October cases there were one or more employable persons in the family. More than 3,000 of these were on Works Progress administration jobs and receiving relief to supplement their wages.

The Illinois relief commission announced yesterday that the number of persons on relief in the state in September increased 1 per cent over August and 14.6 per cent over September, 1936. The 456,665 persons receiving general relief, the commission said, represented 6 per cent of the state's population.

A warning that the relief crisis in Chicago is deepening as a result of the business recession was given before Gov. Horner's special employment relief committee of fourteen yesterday by heads of private relief agncies in the city.

VICTIMS DETAIL LABOR RACKETS IN CLEVELAND, O.

Nine Business Men Give Facts to Grand Jury.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—More victims of Cleveland labor racketeering told their stories today. Eliot Ness, safety director, who made this known, said the new witnesses were encouraged to come forward because of the protection which has been offered to those who aid the prosecution.

Meanwhile six business men from New York, Detroit, and St. Louis, and three from Cleveland appeared before a special session of the Cuyahoga county grand jury. It was reported they gave evidence of shakedowns by labor leaders here.

The safety director would not discuss the nature of the new evidence, which he received in affidavit form, except to say that it was in line with the investigation and had come from Cleveland business men.

Sixty to Give Testimony.

Ness said these men, who are expected to appear later before the grand jury, were prompted to volunteer their information because of the security offered them and the knowledge that at least sixty other persons are prepared to testify in the wide inquiry.

The young safety director, who formerly was a federal alcohol tax agent stationed in Chicago, expressed satisfaction with the response from the nine business men who appeared before the grand jury. He said all appeared anxious to testify and several felt there was no necessity for secrecy.

It was learned the witnesses disclosed even more details to the grand jurors than they had previously given in affidavits to Ness and his investigators.

It was charged that when employers resisted extortions, sometimes ranging up to $2,000, two or more union business agents would each claim jurisdiction over a project and force the employer to settle with both sides in a fake "jurisdictional dispute."

Charles J. McNamee, chief assistant county prosecutor, said the jury will hear tomorrow from five out of town witnesses, most of them from Chicago, and about a dozen from Cleveland.

At a meeting of the Cleveland Federation of Labor, Don A. Campbell, president of the Painters' District council, who has been mentioned in connection with the investigation, called the entire case "a lot of newspaper propaganda which has been passed around since the labor movement began," and added that "it's high time this stuff was stopped."

Plan Talk with Publishers.

At the suggestion of Jack Gill, president of the typographical union, a committee was appointed to "talk to Cleveland newspaper publishers and ask them what they've got against the labor movement, and whatever it is, to bring it to a head."

The evidence Ness obtained in a four months' investigation which took him to New York, Chicago, Boston, and St. Louis, is confined largely to the building trades unions, according to reports.

His report was said to have stated that he found racketeering had kept hundreds of thousands of dollars in new industries out of Cleveland, had impeded numerous legitimate businesses, and had resulted in hundreds of men being thrown out of work.

APPEAL FOR STAY OF LINK'S TRIP TO ENTER PRISON

Attorney Robert Turney, representing Frank J. Link, former sanitary district trustee, filed a petition before Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington in the Criminal court yesterday for a stay of a United States Supreme court mandate ordering Link and John T. Miller, former sanitary district official, to prison for graft.

The mandate was received in Chicago Wednesday, but when deputy sherifs went to Link's home at 4162 Lake Shore drive they found him ill in bed and doctors said he could not be safely moved. The petition seeks a stay of the mandate until Link can be moved. Judge Harrington said he would rule on it at 10 o'clock today.

Meanwhile, deputy sherifs continued to guard Link in his home, and his family made preparations to move him to Joliet in an ambulance if the court's ruling is adverse.

Miller, in Springfield on a business trip, said yesterday that he will return to Chicago on Monday to surrender. In 1932 Link was sentenced to 1 to 5 years in prison, and Miller to 6 months in the Bridewell and to pay a $2,000 fine.

DISCHARGE PAPERS FOUND.

The honorable discharge certificate of Frank B. Brennan is in the possession of the service department of the American Legion at 127 North Dearborn street, according to L. R. Benson, department service officer. Mr. Brennan can obtain the certificate by presenting proper identification.

Amazing Type Soap Flakes PREVENT Winter-Gray Wash

HOW DO YOU GET SUCH A BEAUTIFUL WHITE WASH WHEN YOU HAVE TO DRY YOUR CLOTHES IN THE BASEMENT? YOU MUST USE AN AWFULLY STRONG BLEACH.
I HAVEN'T A BLEACH OF ANY KIND IN THE HOUSE. THE WHOLE CREDIT GOES TO AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES.

A single washing with American Family Flakes will give all of your clothes sunny whiteness

EVERY day, women by the hundreds are changing to American Family Flakes—largely on the advice of friends and neighbors who have learned from first-hand experience that this is the quickest way to SAFELY launder all types of fabrics.

For, without depending upon harmful alkali, or strong chemicals, as cheap soap chips often do—without the need of scrubbing, boiling, or hard, ruinous rubbing which take the life out of fabrics—these amazing super-flakes turn out the whitest, sweetest-smelling wash you have ever seen, even when it is necessary to dry clothes in the basement.

A single washing will prove a revelation to you. But your real thrill will come months later when you see how much longer ALL of your washables last.

How American Family Flakes Work These Wonders

Laboratory tests prove that American Family Flakes contain more suds-making material than ordinary flakes, chips or powders. And there you have the secret for the wonders these flakes perform.

This extra suds-making material in American Family Flakes is responsible for their rich, active "DOUBLE SUDS" which actually float out even the grimiest dirt—without scrubbing, boiling, or hard rubbing.

This is why white fabrics come out with new, snowy whiteness. Why colored fabrics retain their brilliance and beauty. Why ALL washables last surprisingly much longer.

For over ninety years American Family has been the largest selling brand of soap in and around Chicago. Try American Family Flakes and you will quickly prove that it is cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes.

There is nothing better for the nicest things in your wash than American Family Flakes. And for dishwashing they are unexcelled. They leave your hands soft and smooth. Made by Procter & Gamble.

Assemble your own DINING ROOM SUITE

. . . from this group of eighteenth century furniture, as graceful in line and as perfect in proportion as the fine antiques whose spirit it recaptures so successfully . . . beautiful furniture, exceptionally well built, yet priced well within the limits of a modest budget.

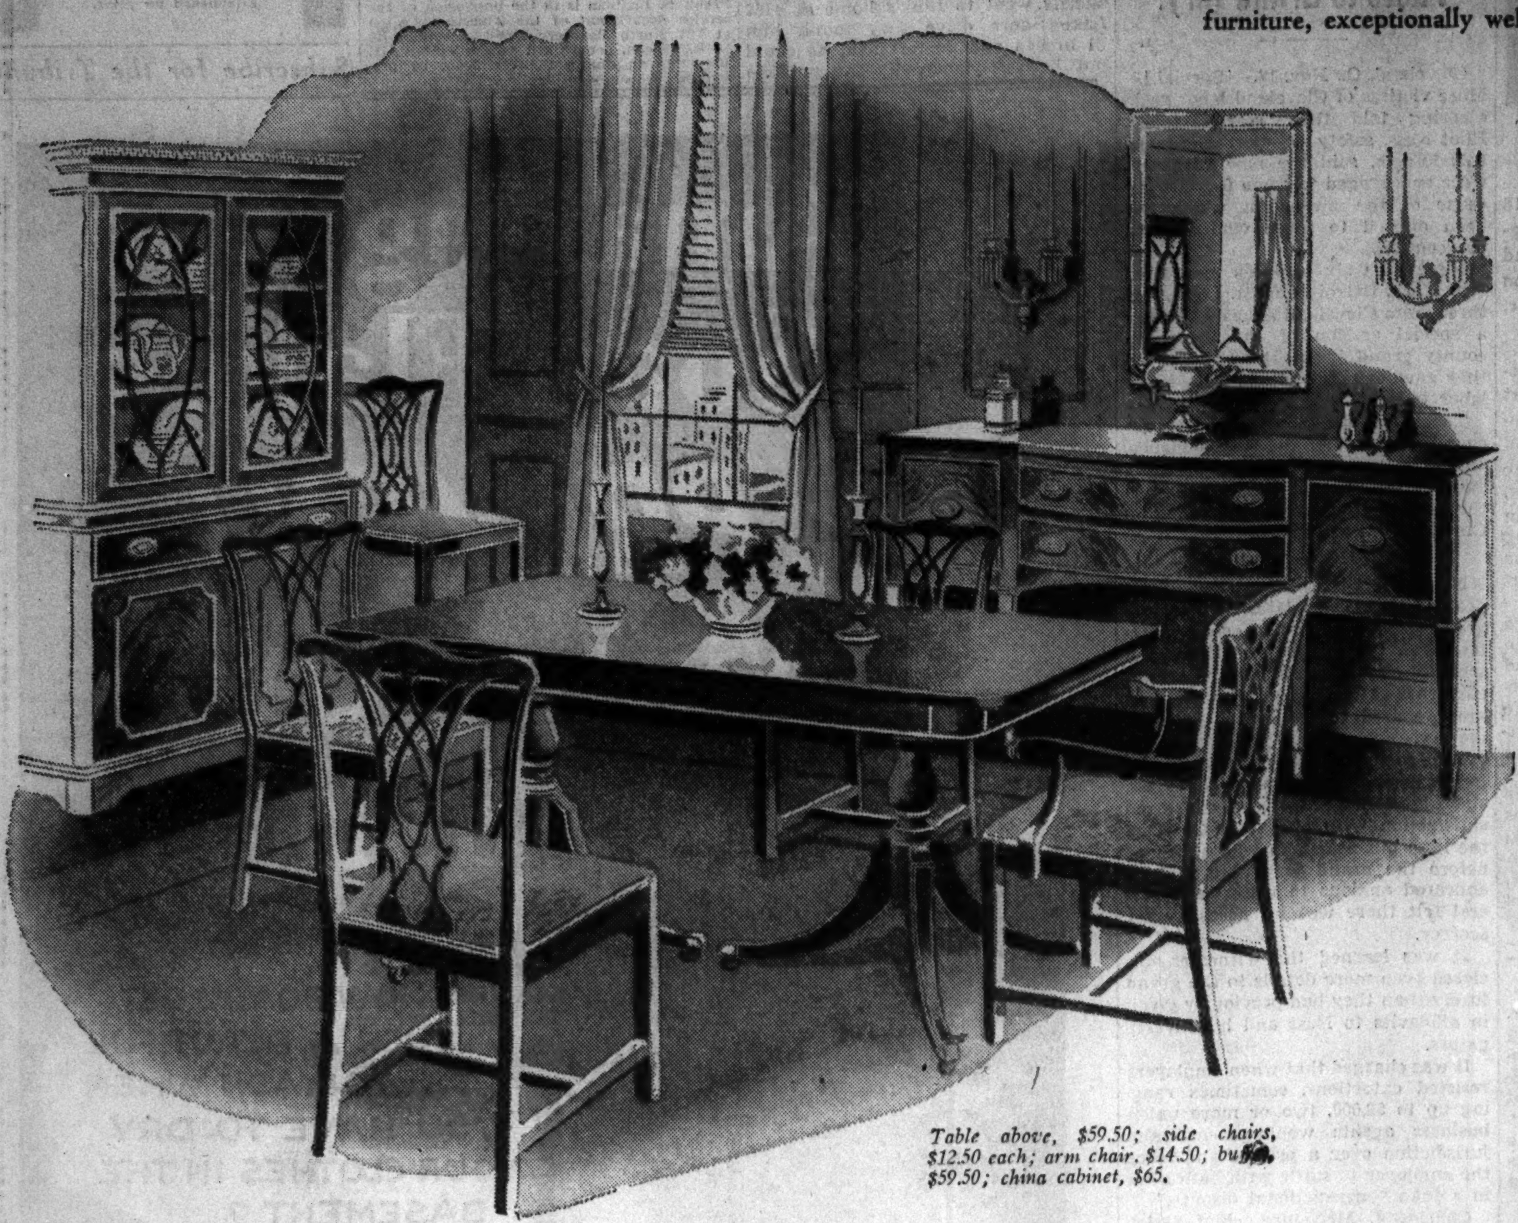

Table above, $59.50; side chairs, $12.50 each; arm chair, $14.50; buffet, $59.50; china cabinet, $65.

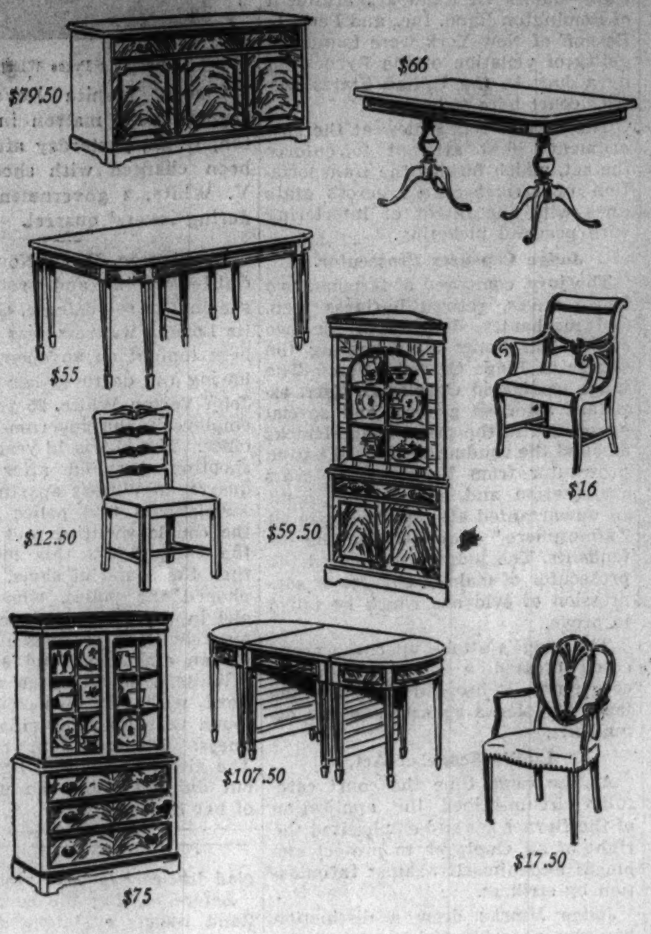

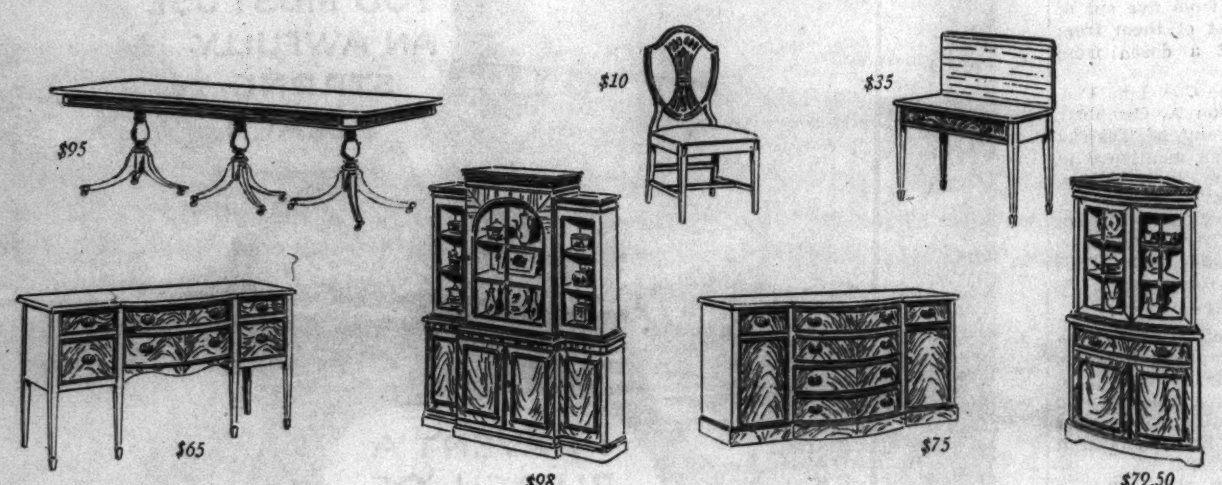

COULD you have visited an English peer about 1798, you'd have supped in a dining room much like the one at the left. Not a sign of a "suite" about it. Our imaginary lord assembled his as we did the one we've sketched for you here—piece by piece, none exactly alike except in the fine mahogany of their surface and the harmony of their design. You, too, can do exactly that—choose the pieces you really want, instead of taking a pre-assembled grouping that may not fill your individual needs. You may want two arm chairs—to do extra duty in the living room; you may have built-in shelves and want a server instead of a buffet. Have them, then! Assemble your own dining room group—from these pieces—and your dining room becomes yours as no suite could ever make it.

Chinese Lamps

while limited quantities of over 40 styles last, special at $8.95 $9.95 $13.95

BECAUSE of present hostilities in the Orient, Chinese lamps are already at a premium—which makes this offering all the more unusual. We have close to 600 of them (but no more than 12 of any one style)—a truly impressive collection. There are plain white or highly colored figurines, and many kinds of vases made into lamps.

Some are mounted on gilt bases, others on exotic woods, delicately carved. All have shades of complementary fabrics and shapes. All are surmounted with exquisite Soochow jade finials. But we wish to emphasize the limited quantities—in some instances there are only two of a kind, so you'd better be here promptly at 9:30 to take your pick. Priced according to size and kind.

POLICE TESTIFY HOW BODIES LAY IN DUAL SLAYING

Mrs. Wright's Apparel in Order; Man's in Disarray.

Glendale, Cal., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Police testified today at the preliminary trial of Paul A. Wright, former Chicagoan, concerning the position in which they found the bodies of the young aviation official's wife and best friend, whom he shot to death. Wright was ordered held for Superior court trial on Dec. 6 by Police Judge Frank Lowe, 80 years old, on two murder charges.

Policeman Harry W. Reed said he and other officers found the clothing of John Bryant Kimmel disarranged. The clothing of Mrs. Wright, they said, was in order. Kimmel was a close friend and business associate of Wright for several years.

The officers were cross-examined closely by Wright's attorney, Jerry Geisler. Apparently he sought support of his contention that the double slaying was unpremeditated.

Wife Long Suspected.

Wright previously had said that although he suspected his pretty wife of stepping out with men, he shot her and Kimmel in a white flash of rage when he found them embracing on a piano bench in the Wright living room.

During some parts of the testimony Wright covered his face with his hands and his whole body shook. The police witnesses related that Wright had summoned them by telephone to come to his pretentious home shortly after 4 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 9. They said he met them outside and told them: "I am a murderer. I have shot my wife and killed my best friend."

Tells Position of Bodies.

Policeman Reed testified that Kimmel lay on his back, his head pointing toward a French window. His left foot was on the keyboard of the piano and his right foot was across Mrs. Wright's body.

"Mrs. Wright was lying on her side, to his right, with her head under the piano bench," the officer said. "Her entire body was on the floor. Her head was near the piano pedals."

Questioned more specifically at this point, Reed testified that the woman's dress was not disarranged, but that Kimmel's apparel was in disarray.

Reed said he heard Wright tell their Negro maid: "I shot her. I caught her cheating. She cheated on me."

"He called his father in Milwaukee," the policeman added, "and said: 'Father, there has been a terrible tragedy at our house. I have killed Evelyn. It turned out just as you said it would. I caught her cheating. You'll stand by me, won't you, father?'"

LAUNCH INQUIRY IN $15,000 FIRE AT HIGH SCHOOL

An investigation was begun yesterday of a fire which swept through three classrooms of the old Wendell Phillips High school, 244 East Pershing road, earlier in the day, causing damage estimated at $15,000.

Deputy Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney told Assistant Corporation Counsel Henry Eckhardt, the investigator, that the fire started in a classroom on the first floor and spread to rooms immediately above on the second and third floors. The heat of the fire caused several windows in the room to blow out with explosive force. Watchmen said that they had made their tours of the building at 10 p. m. and were unable to account for the blaze.

Classes which had been held in the damaged rooms were transferred to other rooms in the building.

CAR BANDITS SEIZE $250.

Two robbers took $250 from Harold Brunke yesterday after forcing him into their automobile near his brother's tavern at 1900 Wolfram street.

Paul Wright, Glendale, Cal., airport official who shot his wife and a friend, appeared downcast at his preliminary trial yesterday. Wright maintains he shot the pair when he surprised them in an embrace.

FUNERAL HALTED FOR INQUIRY INTO WOMAN'S DEATH

The funeral of Mrs. Rowena Goulden, 4424 University avenue, was halted yesterday as her coffin was being carried to a herse in front of the chapel at 2800 East 75th street, and the police and coroner's office started an investigation of the cause of her death. Dr. George O'Brien, coroner's physician, said a chemical analysis of the vital organs will be made. The funeral was allowed to proceed shortly after being halted.

Mrs. Goulden died Tuesday at the age of 48. The physician called after her death declined to sign a death certificate because he was unfamiliar with her case, and notified the coroner's office. Dr. O'Brien then made an examination, and issued a death certificate saying Mrs. Goulden died of natural causes.

The case was reopened in view of the fact that no attending physician had signed the certificate. The woman's husband, George O. Goulden, 51 years old, an electrical engineer, told Hyde Park police that the inquiry had been asked as the result of an enemy's spitework.

Killer, 17, Gets Life Term; Court Hits Lack of Morals

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Warren Bianco, 17 years old, whom the judge termed "undoubtedly a product of the modern theory that there is no standard of morals," was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary today for the filling station slaying of Marvin Crane.

80,000 PUPILS WILL DINE ON 50,000 TURKEYS

Fifty thousand Vermont and Minnesota turkeys were bought yesterday by F. O. Washam, director of public school lunchrooms, to be served to school children Monday and Tuesday for their pre-Thanksgiving dinners. Washam said the turkey dinners will cost high school children 25 cents and will be 10 cents in the elementary school lunchrooms. The birds cost approximately $15,000, and will serve about 80,000 school children. The school Thanksgiving menu will include roast turkey with dressing, cranberry sauce, celery, potatoes, pumpkin pie, milk, rolls, and butter.

BUS FIRE EXTINGUISHED.

TURKEY DINNER FOR SIX TO COST $4.87 THIS YEAR

Birds Plentiful, but Price May Rise Slightly.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

An old fashioned Thanksgiving dinner will cost about the same this year as it did last, although turkey probably will cost a few cents more a pound. A typical holiday dinner for six persons will cost approximately $4.87, the same as last year, according to comparisons made yesterday following THE TRIBUNE'S annual Thanksgiving food price survey.

Retail merchants have not yet determined definitly the prices they will ask for the different grades of turkeys, but their best guess a week before Thanksgiving is that prices for No. 1 birds would be in the neighborhood of 32 to 35 cents a pound. Some of the extra fancy turkeys are expected to be a few cents higher.

Mercantile Exchange Prices.

These retail price estimates were based partially on the wholesale market quotations given out yesterday at the Mercantile exchange. No. 1 dressed young toms were 26½ cents a pound; old toms, 24 cents; young hens, 27½ cents, and old hens, 24½ cents. No. 2 dressed turkeys were quoted at 20 cents a pound.

Dealers in turkeys say there will be plenty of birds this year and that an abundance of feed has made it possible for growers to give the birds an excellent finish. Rough estimates indicate that at least 18 million turkeys have been raised this year, compared with 20 million, the biggest crop on record, produced last year.

Train and truck loads of dressed turkeys packed in refrigerators are rolling into Chicago from the producing areas. Retailers in the shopping centers are out buying and will fill their coolers with fresh stocks, to be ready for the rush during the early part of next week.

Here's List of Cost.

For many years THE TRIBUNE has given a comparison of the costs of a Thanksgiving dinner based on prices of 24 items appearing in a shopping list suggested by Miss Mary Meade, THE TRIBUNE'S cooking editor. Here is the list with this year's prices compared with those of a year ago:

One-quarter pound fine coffee	.08	.08
	$4.87	$4.87

Miss Meade has allowed one pound of turkey for each person, or one-half of a twelve pound No. 1 bird to serve six individuals. This amount of turkey at the expected average price of about 33½ cents a pound would cost 18 cents more this year than last.

Five Items Higher.

On the list of 24 items only five are higher, seven lower, and twelve remained about the same. Butter is approximately 8 cents a pound higher; milk, 1 cent a quart higher, and sugar, 1 cent a pound higher than a year ago.

Items that are lower include white potatoes, 14 cents a peck less; cranberries, 8 cents a pound less; apples, one-half cent a pound less; grapes, 2½ cents a pound less; lettuce, 2 cents a head less, and celery, 1 cent a bunch less.

These figures are based on the prices that will be asked in Chicago and suburban retail stores today and tomorrow.

A dinner including the items given in Miss Meade's shopping list will cost 41 cents less than the same kind of dinner would have cost in 1935, and 89 cents more than in 1933.

BUTTERY SAUCE ADDS FLAVOR TO SEA FOOD DISH

Nowadays one adds a rich buttery-cream sauce, maybe mushrooms, celery, or green pepper, or a bit of onion and a dash of curry powder, and presto, a small amount of sea food becomes a family size dish with a definite appetite appeal.

Somehow a rich sauce made with milk seems to spread the flavor, and adds nutriment to the dish.

TUNA FISH LUNCHEON DISH.
[Serves 6.]

1 8 ounce package noodles
2 cups canned tuna fish
2 cups peas and carrots, mixed
⅓ cup butter
4 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk.
Bread crums

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Spread cooked noodles, flaked fish, and peas and carrots in layers in a well buttered baking dish. Pour a white sauce made of the remaining ingredients over the top and sprinkle with bread crums. Bake in moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for about 30 minutes.

CURRY OF MUSHROOM AND OYSTERS.
[Serves 6.]

1 tablespoon chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter
2½ tablespoons flour
1 cup mushroom broth and oyster stock
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon curry powder
1½ cups mushrooms, chopped
2 cups oysters
½ cup cream

Cook the onion in two tablespoons of the butter until yellow. Add flour and blend well. Then add broth and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add curry powder and salt and simmer 10 minutes. Add mushrooms which have been sautéd in the remaining butter. Just before serving add oysters and cream, bring to the boiling point, and serve on buttered toast squares.

FISH FILLETS BAKED IN MUSHROOM SAUCE.
[Serves 4 to 6.]

1 cup mushrooms
4 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
2 cups milk
1 pound fillets
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup buttered bread crums

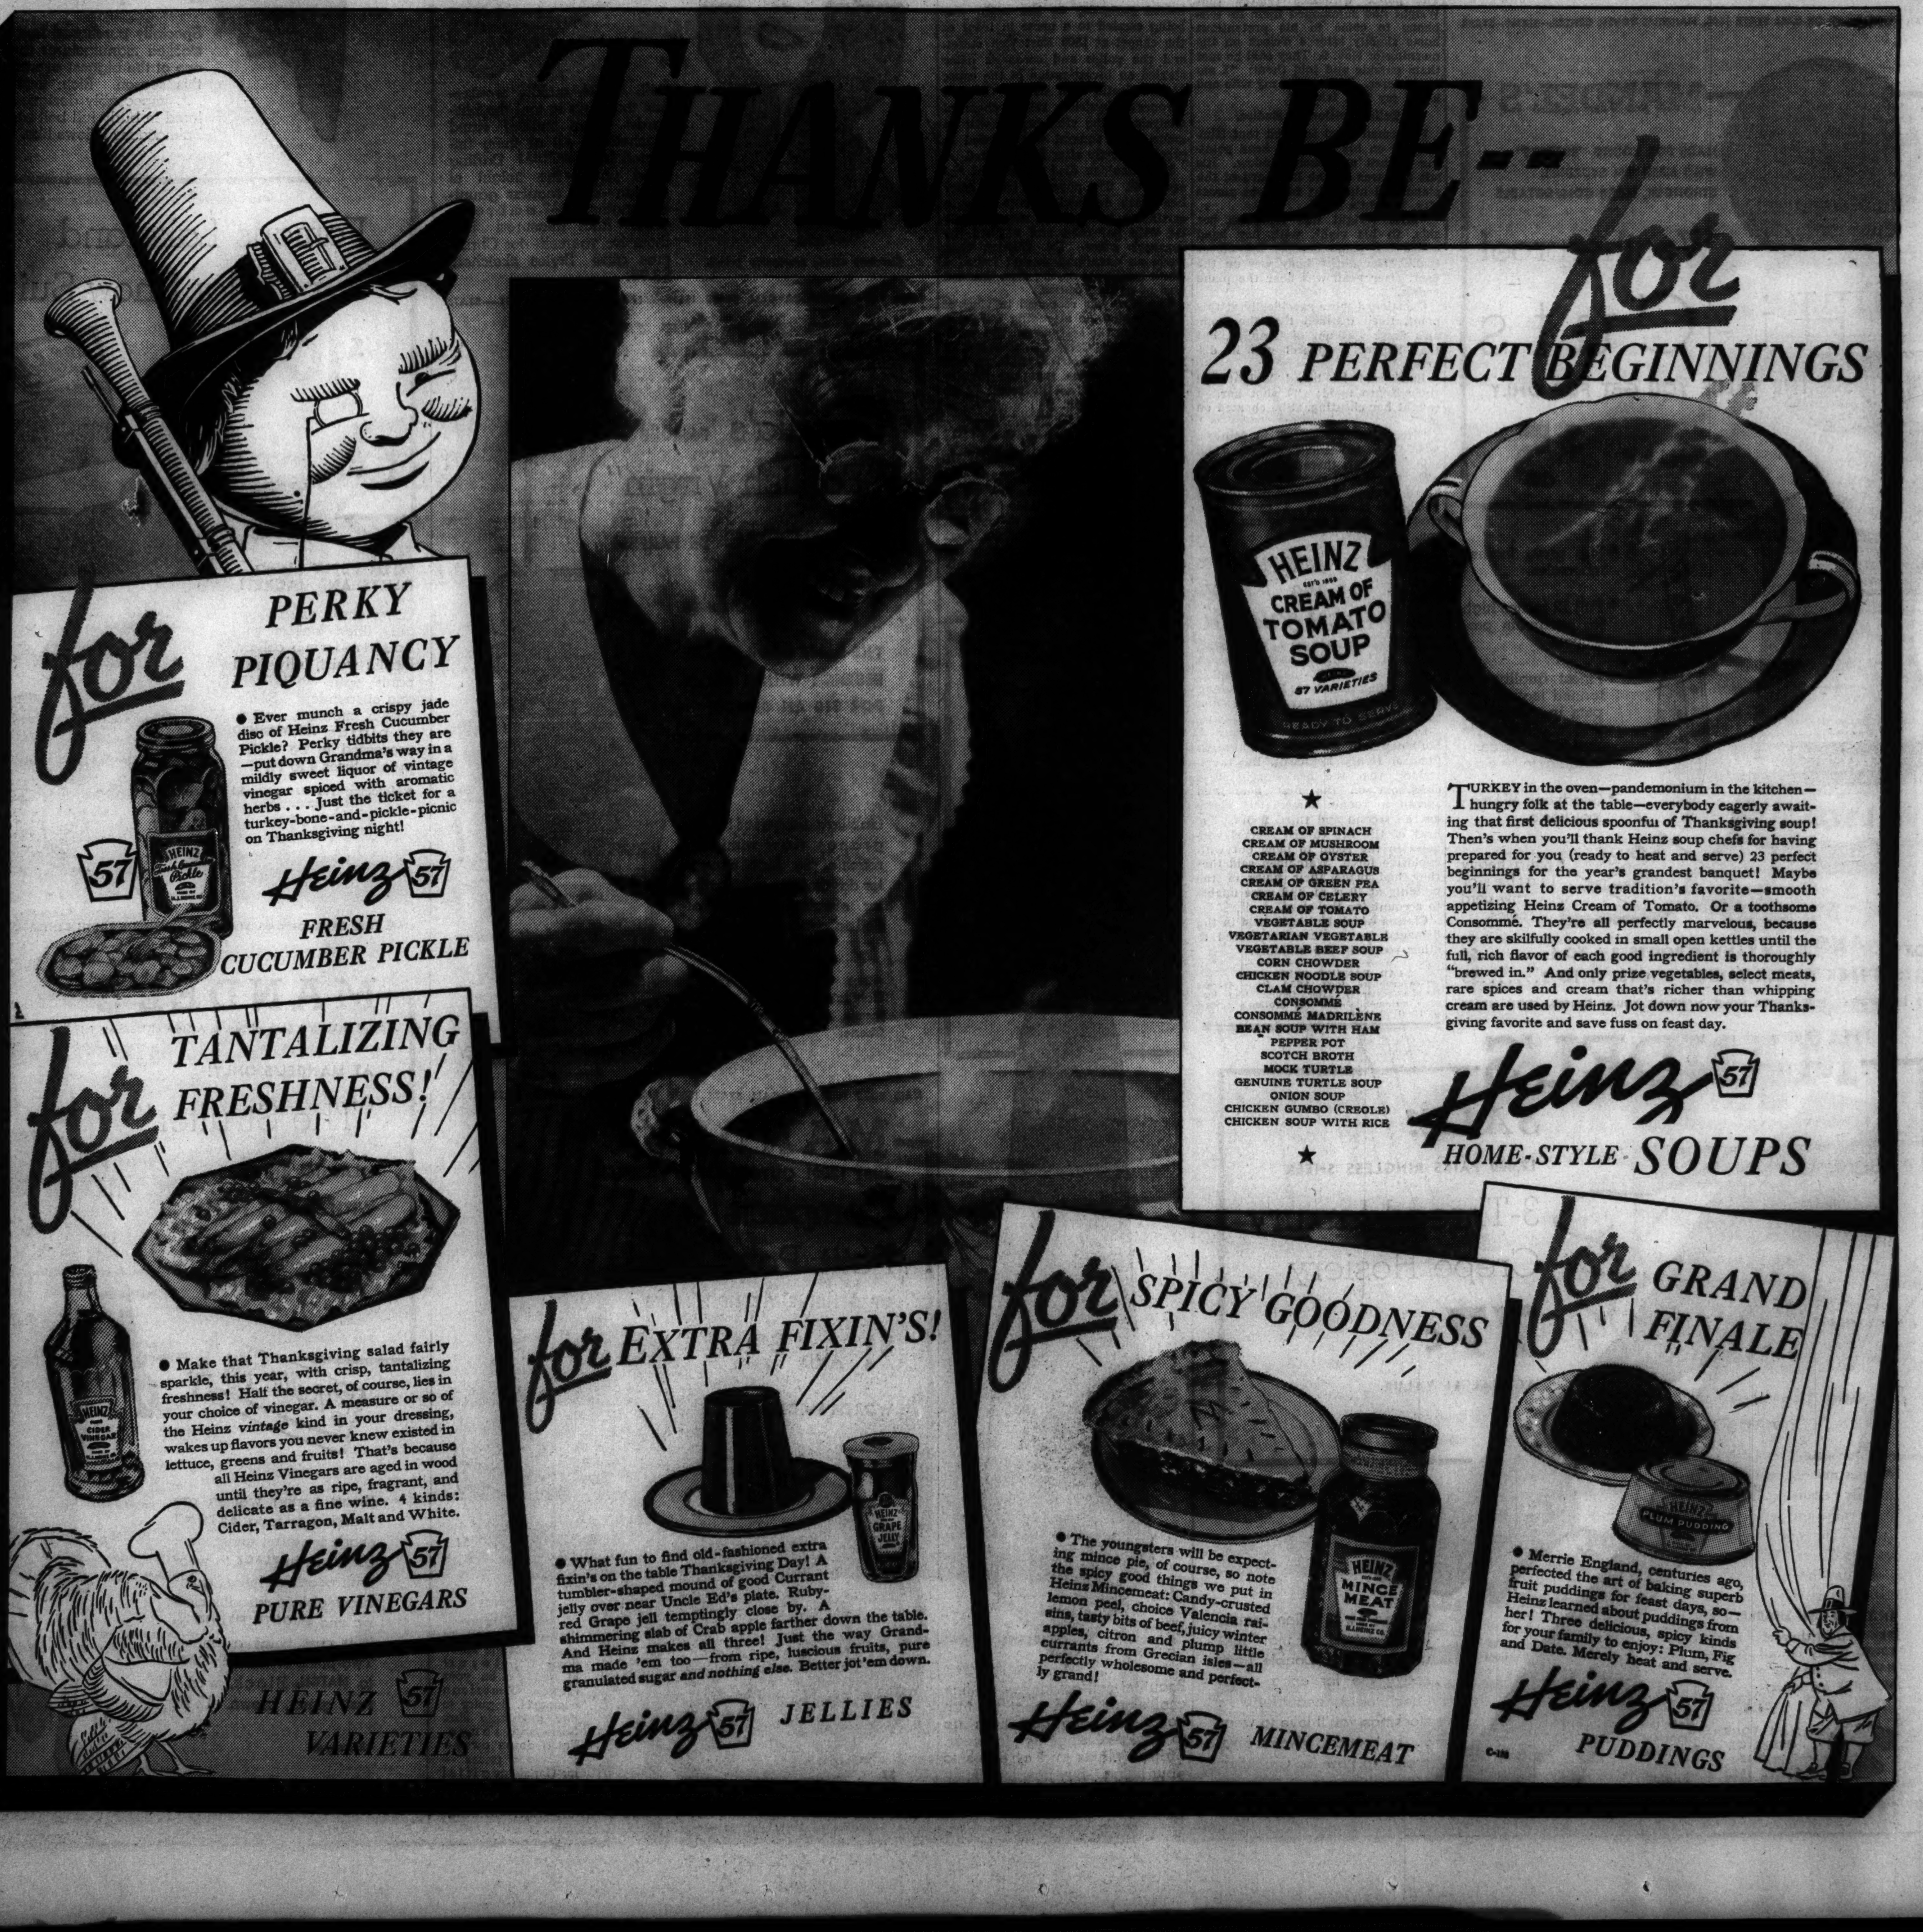
Wash and slice mushrooms. Cook gently in butter for 5 minutes. Add flour and seasonings, mixing thoroughly. Add milk, stir until thick. Cut fillets into individual servings and place in baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and cover with mushroom sauce. Sprinkle crums on top as garnish. Bake in moderate oven [375 degrees F.] for 30 minutes.

A SHARP KNIFE CUTS CLEAN WHEN MAKING CITRUS FRUIT SALADS

Fruit stands once more are laden with neat piles of citrus fruit. And they mean orange and grapefruit salads and desserts. A dull knife will not do when you are cutting or segmenting citrus fruit for use in a salad or dessert. It takes a sharp knife to cut the fruit without tearing it, thus losing all the juice.

To peel grapefruit or oranges, cut a thick slice off the top and bottom of the fruit, then cut around, being sure to cut deep enough to remove all white membrane.

In serving halves of the fruit, cut inside each dividing membrane and around the inside of the peel. It is not necessary to remove core, except when a filling or garnish is used in the center cavity. If you wish to have whole segments, peel fruit and cut on each side of dividing membranes, removing meat, segment by segment.



THANKS BE--

for 23 PERFECT BEGINNINGS

TURKEY in the oven—pandemonium in the kitchen—hungry folk at the table—everybody eagerly awaiting that first delicious spoonful of Thanksgiving soup! Then's when you'll thank Heinz soup chefs for having prepared for you (ready to heat and serve) 23 perfect beginnings for the year's grandest banquet! Maybe you'll want to serve tradition's favorite—smooth appetizing Heinz Cream of Tomato. Or a toothsome Consommé. They're all perfectly marvelous, because they are skilfully cooked in small open kettles until the full, rich flavor of each good ingredient is thoroughly "brewed in." And only prize vegetables, select meats, rare spices and cream that's richer than whipping cream are used by Heinz. Jot down now your Thanksgiving favorite and save fuss on feast day.

Heinz 57 HOME-STYLE SOUPS

for PERKY PIQUANCY

● Ever munch a crispy jade disc of Heinz Fresh Cucumber Pickle? Perky tidbits they are—put down Grandma's way in a mildly sweet liquor of vintage vinegar spiced with aromatic herbs . . . Just the ticket for a turkey-bone-and-pickle-picnic on Thanksgiving night!

Heinz 57 FRESH CUCUMBER PICKLE

for TANTALIZING FRESHNESS!

● Make that Thanksgiving salad fairly sparkle, this year, with crisp, tantalizing freshness! Half the secret, of course, lies in your choice of vinegar. A measure or so of the Heinz vintage kind in your dressing, wakes up flavors you never knew existed in lettuce, greens and fruits! That's because all Heinz Vinegars are aged in wood until they're as ripe, fragrant, and delicate as a fine wine. 4 kinds: Cider, Tarragon, Malt and White.

Heinz 57 PURE VINEGARS

for EXTRA FIXIN'S!

● What fun to find old-fashioned extra fixin's on the table Thanksgiving Day! A tumbler-shaped mound of good Currant jelly over near Uncle Ed's plate. Ruby-red Grape jell temptingly close by. A shimmering slab of Crab apple farther down the table. And Heinz makes all three! Just the way Grandma made 'em too—from ripe, luscious fruits, pure granulated sugar and nothing else. Better jot 'em down.

Heinz 57 JELLIES

for SPICY GOODNESS

● The youngsters will be expecting mince pie, of course, so note the spicy good things we put in Heinz Mincemeat: Candy-crusted lemon peel, choice Valencia raisins, tasty bits of beef, juicy winter apples, citron and plump little currants from Grecian isles—all perfectly wholesome and perfectly grand!

Heinz 57 MINCEMEAT

for GRAND FINALE

● Merrie England, centuries ago, perfected the art of baking superb fruit puddings for feast days, so—Heinz learned about puddings from her! Three delicious, spicy kinds for your family to enjoy: Plum, Fig and Date. Merely heat and serve.

RICH PUDDINGS TRADITIONAL IN HOLIDAY FARE

Two Festive Recipes Offered Today.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

As a rule I am not enthusiastic about heavy desserts. Simple fruit desserts, or crackers and cheese, seem to me far more satisfying and more sensible in consideration of that delicate system known as the alimentary canal.

But there are times when tradition demands the rich, fruity pie or pudding. Thanksgiving and Christmas are the two most important of these times. Servings may be made small enough so that digestion isn't taxed unduly and the main course of a meal with a steamed pudding finale may be abbreviated enough to allow for such a dessert.

Steamed Holiday Pudding.

½ cup butter, melted
¾ cup milk
½ cup molasses
½ cup brown sugar
1 egg
3½ cups flour
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup currants
¾ cup chopped figs
¾ cup chopped nuts
¾ cup chopped dates
¾ cup chopped orange peel
½ cup brandy

Melt shortening and add milk, molasses, and sugar and egg, beaten together. Sift flour, spices, soda, and salt together and add fruits and nuts to the mixture. Combine with first mixture. Add brandy last. Place in a large oiled and floured pudding mold, filling about two-thirds full, and cover tightly. Steam for four hours. Serve hot with hard sauce or with a lemon sauce which may be flavored with sherry wine if desired.

Yankee Plum Pudding.

1 cup suet
1 cup molasses
3 cups flour
1½ teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup raisins
1 cup nuts

Grind the suet and work with the hands until creamy. Add molasses. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with the milk. Dredge raisins and nuts with part of the flour and add. Fill buttered molds two-thirds full and cover tightly. Steam for three hours and serve hot with hard sauce or a fruity pudding sauce.

It is not necessary to use a regular steamer for these puddings. They may be cooked in a kettle of boiling water, if they are tightly covered. The water in the kettle should not come more than half way up on the cans. It is best to keep the cans off the bottom of the kettle by means of some sort of rack, but this isn't absolutely necessary. Empty coffee cans or baking powder cans will do nicely for pudding molds.

Making Potatoes Good to Look At

Potatoes, milk, and butter can be very good to look at and eat as well as be good for you when all three are combined into escalloped potatoes. Cutting the potatoes in fancy style adds to the attractiveness of the dish.

DUCK DESERVES STUFFING FIT FOR A FESTIVE MEAL

The duck, being a festive fowl and often associated with banquets, requires something special in the way of preparation. Just the ordinary roasting seems a waste of opportunity, when a simple but unusual stuffing will do the trick.

DUCK WITH ORANGE STUFFING.

Clean duck carefully, wiping with a clean, damp cloth. Sprinkle inside with salt and pepper. Fill cavity with segments of orange which have been carefully cut with a sharp knife. Truss for roasting. Place in roasting pan in moderate oven [350 degrees], allowing 35 to 40 minutes a pound. Pound liver and heart to a paste, mix with grated rind of one orange. Add to this a cup of meat broth which has been thickened with a tablespoon of flour and a tablespoon of butter. [Pan gravy may be used for this.] Heat and serve this sauce with the duck.

DUCK STUFFED WITH GREEN PEAS.

Shell and cook four pounds of peas in boiling salted water, or use 4 cups cooked peas. Peel and cook in butter and a little water 1 pound of tiny white onions. Drain and add to peas which have been pressed through a strainer. Clean ducks carefully, wiping with clean cloth. Sprinkle insides with salt and pepper and stuff with peas and onions. Truss and place in roasting pan. Roast in moderate oven [350 degrees F.], allowing 35 to 40 minutes a pound.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

The proportion of ingredients for the cranberry ice printed on Nov. 12 was wrong. The recipe should have called for 3 cups of water. We're sorry. Here's the corrected recipe:

CRANBERRY ICE.

[Serves 6.]

4 cups cranberries.
3 cups water.
2 cups sugar.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
⅓ cup orange juice.

Cook cranberries and water together 10 minutes. Add sugar, salt, and orange juice, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Run through coarse sieve, trying to force through as much pulp as possible. Cool. Turn into refrigerator tray and freeze. When mushy, remove to chilled bowl and beat with rotary beater until light and fluffy. Put back in tray and freeze until firm.

School Series Presents Rare Opera Bargain

BY CECIL SMITH.

Scarcely another living creature could have been wedged into the Civic Opera house with a shoehorn last night, when the Chicago City Opera company repeated Rossini's "The Barber of Seville" at half price for the lucky patrons of the Thursday opera series sponsored by the board of education.

I doubt seriously whether an equally good opera performance at a top price of $2 has ever been given anywhere in America in our generation.

John Charles Thomas, graciously halving his usual fee, sang with almost unbelievable finish and smoothness of tone, and in his impersonation of the conniving barber set a standard of patrician comedy that will probably remain unchallenged for a long time to come.

Rosemarie Brancato, Kansas City coloratura soprano who sang here once before, in "Rigoletto" in 1934, scored a triumphant and deserved success for her highly attractive voice, fluent coloratura, and piquant sense of humor. Joseph Bentonelli gave the best performance of his Chicago career. The other principals—Vittorio Trevisan, Nino Ruisi, Ada Paggi, and Giuseppe Cavadore—were all top notch, and Jacques Samossoud conducted with outstanding musicianly authority.

Yesterday Grace Moore, screen and opera soprano, signed a contract with Paul Longone to make five appearances during the 1938 season. In addition to "Faust," "Romeo and Juliet," "Manon," and "La Bohême" she will sing in Charpentier's "Louise," an opera in which she has never appeared in America. Miss Moore will sing once more in the current season—on Dec. 11, in "La Bohême."

Erna Sack will not sing at the first of Mrs. Gilbert Smith's morning musicals in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house Nov. 29. She will be replaced by Helen Jepson.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

A brand new idea in flatware for dining tables is an imported metal. It is called stainless steel, but it is not in the least like our own product of the same name. It has a luster, but its tone is more like that of a fine pewter.

Tablespoons, teaspoons, dessert spoons, knives, forks, and other items are all made as carefully as if they were silver. The work is done in Holland. And the prices are, of course, most reasonable.

It's thought that this new stainless steel will gradually take the place of plated silver on many tables, as it is less expensive, will not tarnish, and is so beautifully designed and made. It can be used with the colorful pottery now so much in vogue, and would be attractive on a buffet supper table with a huge wooden salad bowl and wooden plates.

It will never require polishing, and it is so sturdy it will last for many years.

Art Institute Is Crowded at Annual Party

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Yesterday's weather did not reduce attendance at the annual reception of the Art institute. The crowd that filled the galleries, where the 48th annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture was being opened, was unusually large. Larger, even, than in some years when the day was a bright, sunny one. The institute estimated that 4,100 entered the building between 3 and 5:30 o'clock.

The several thousand who wandered through the east wing looking at the exhibition and through the other galleries where there were five tea tables seemed to be having a good time and to be in holiday spirits.

The tables were lovely, all of them, and each so different from the other four that it was interesting to make a tour of them, as all the hostesses did early in the afternoon before the crowd grew too dense. Mrs. James Ward Thorne, president of the Antiquarian society, had borrowed handsome Georgian silver from a shop for the table at which the Antiquarians and members of the Fortnightly club served tea and coffee and cookies.

The long, narrow table was covered with sky blue satin that hung to the floor and on it gleamed silver services, one at each end, an old soup tureen filled with lilies, pink roses, yellow and white snapdragons, and two three-branched candelabra holding white candles and a pair of covered entrée dishes.

Pouring early were Mrs. Max Epstein and Mrs. Walter B. Smith and relieving them were Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, Mrs. Robert H. McCormick, Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. John Paul Welling, Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. E. Harris Brewer, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Miss Florence Bartlett, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and Mrs. Charles H. Worcester.

Members of the Arts, Friday and Contemporary clubs presided at a beautiful table decorated by the recently reëlected president of the Arts club, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed. It was covered with turquoise moiré and in a crystal bowl was a huge bunch of long-stemmed, deep maroon carnations. Four tall crystal candlesticks held candles that matched the flowers in color.

Among Mrs. Goodspeed's assistants were Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mrs. Alexander Greene, Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II., Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Jr., Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner, Mrs. M. Paul Noyes, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster and Mrs. Harold Eldridge.

The Chicago Drama league and the Renaissance club table was a stunning one, too, covered with apple green satin edged with white silk fringe and with a white silk cord outlining the table top. On a mirror plaque was a huge pewter boat-shaped bowl containing Easter lilies and in two flat pewter candlesticks were enormous white candles.

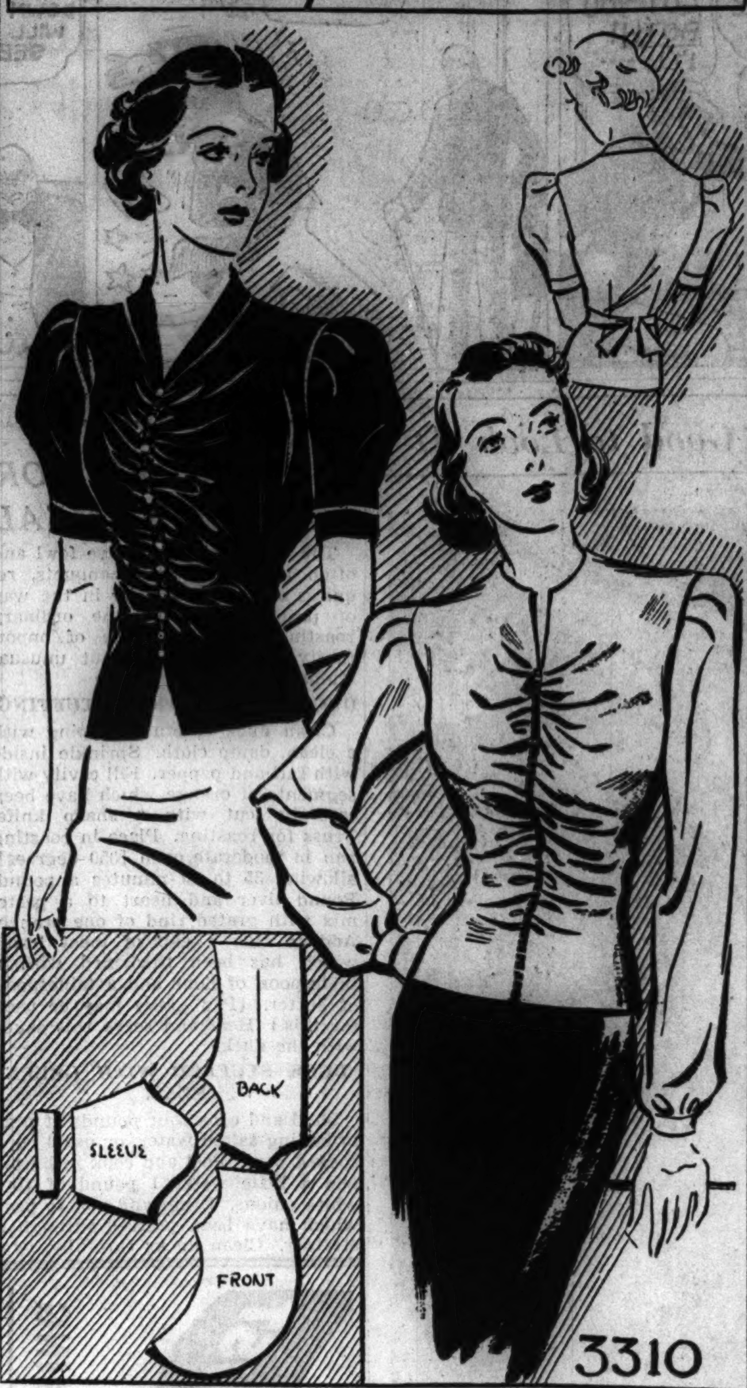
Mrs. Robert Courtney Griffin was responsible for this smart table, and working with her were Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. John R. Lend, Mrs. Burt L. Roetter and Mrs. R. Hosken Damon.

Members of the Art Institute Alumni association—Miss Mary Hipple, Mrs. Willis Pryor and Mrs. Clara B. Wells—had planned the unusual table in gallery 45. It was covered with a creased aluminum sheet over which there was coarse white net. A modern silver seven-branched candelabrum was the centerpiece. At each corner was a spray of leaves and pine cones sprayed with aluminum and white paint.

There were three silver services on this table and among the women presiding at them were Mrs. Ernest Alden Clark, Mrs. Fred Manville Tuckerman, Mrs. Willett H. Cornwell, Mrs. Arpad Barothy, Mrs. Fred M. Torrey and Miss Anna Lynch.

Small mums in autumn colors were used in an unusual centerpiece on the black, uncovered table at which members of the Arché club and the Musicians club for Women acted as hostesses. Among them were Mrs. Walter E. Johnson, Mrs. Carl Victor Wisner, Mrs. Daniel McFall, Mrs. Louise H. Winter, Mrs. Almada Jones and Mrs. William E. Vogelback.

Seasonally Smart Blouse



WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

There are so many occasions on which you can wear a chic blouse and be the epitome of fashion. Many of the season's smartest costumes consist of nothing more than contrasting blouse and skirt. This figure flattering shirred model, which is distinctive in glimmering satin or in metal cloth, is one which you can wear with your tiny hat and its flowing veil with a street length velvet, velveteen, duvetyn or crêpe skirt to innumerable afternoon functions. For dinner and the theater this blouse may top a floor length, figure hugging skirt.

This blouse is amazingly simple to make. A diagrammed sewing chart accompanies the pattern. The garment costs so little that it might be worth while to make one as a gift for your mother, sister or close friend. It's a present that will meet with appreciation, you may be sure.

Crêpe, satin, metal cloth, sheer woolen and velvet are fabric possibilities, and fashionable colors are legion.

Style No. 3310 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material for the long sleeved version.

New Carpenter Piece Played by Balokovic

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Frederick Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra introduced to an Orchestra hall audience last evening a new violin concerto by John Alden Carpenter and a new soloist to play it. The latter is Zlatko Balokovic, a handsome, black haired Jugo-Slav.

The concerto dates only from the summer of 1936, and last night's performance was its first anywhere. The composer is a nationally known Chicago musician.

Except for the second division of the work, where the broad Carpenter serenity is fully apparent, the concerto does not on first hearing reveal the charm of idea which it doubtless [on a record of past compositions by the same man] possesses. There is a certain angularity in the themes and they do not seem to lie well for the violinist. Opportunities to exploit the instrument's best effects are few and far between.

It was played with a thin tone deficient in character. Its periods lacked sweep and vigor. A suspicion that these somewhat tepid remarks represent a personal rather than a universally valid truth is strengthened by the fact that last night's audience applauded the work cordially and called its composer and its interpreter to the stage.

In the Bach violin concerto which followed the intermission Mr. Balokovic displayed some of the same tonal characteristics as in the Carpenter, although the sound of his fiddle took on a certain nobility in the second movement. The opening division of the work was powerfully phrased and genuinely eloquent.

Mr. Stock prefaced the two concertos with a repetition of the Toch "Pinocchio" overture [which still does not seem merry, despite the composer's assurance, in his subtitle, that it is] and the pleasantly old-fashioned "Romantic" suite of Reger.

The program closed with a sonorous and beautifully calculated performance of Glazounow's attractive Valse de Concert.

We have now entered a rich run of soloists. Next Thursday comes the Chicago debut of Beveridge Webster, Pittsburgh pianist, who has made successful appearances with the New York Philharmonic orchestra. He is to be heard in the Liszt A Major concerto.

SMART AUDIENCE

The intermission at last night's symphony concert was not half long enough for the many friends who wanted to visit Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and congratulate her upon her husband's concerto for violin and orchestra which had just been played.

There was no opportunity to speak to the composer himself during the intermission, for he had been called upon the stage with the soloist, Zlatko Balokovic, several times, and he did not return to the Carpenter box until after the second half of the program had commenced.

Mme. Balokovic, the former Joyce Borden of Chicago, started downstairs, probably to go backstage and see her husband, at the end of the concerto, but so many friends stopped her that she never got beyond the top of the stairs. She was looking very foreign and smart in a hand knitted black silk dinner dress with a coronet of silver leaves in her hair. She wore a beautiful antique diamond necklace tight around her neck and in her ears were jewels that matched the necklace.

Mrs. Carpenter was in black, too, velvet with a cape effect around her shoulders edged in monkey fur. She carried orchids and Mme. Balokovic carried gardenias. Mme. Konstantin Fotitch, who had come with her husband, the Jugo-Slavian minister to America, to hear their fellow countryman play, was stunning in a black robe de style, an ermine wrap, and orchids.

Mme. Peter Kabric, wife of the Jugo-Slavian consul, was smart in a blue and silver dinner gown and orchids. Chatting animatedly in French with her as they promenaded during the intermission was Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, who also had chosen to wear black, enlivened by orchids.

There was no more colorful figure in Orchestra hall than Mrs. Jehan Seesodia-Warliker, the former Katharine Winterbotham Buchanan, who was swathed in flame red velvet.

Those two chic sisters, Mrs. Shreve Badger and Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, were two of the smartest looking women in the foyer, Mrs. Badger in black and gold and Mrs. Shaw in a frilly black lace and chiffon. Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., also noted for her chic costumes, was a picture in a white gown, long black velvet coat, and tiny black horse hair bonnet.

After the concert this afternoon the soloist will go upstairs to the Cliff Dwellers to be one of the four guests at the weekly tea party. The other especial guests will be Mrs. Carpenter and Dr. and Mrs. Fotitch.

Mrs. Charles H. Swift will be the hostess this afternoon, assisted by Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, and Mrs. John Paul Welling.

Tonight Mrs. Carpenter is giving a dinner party at home for the Fotitches and the Balokovics.

Those who go to tea at the Cordon this afternoon will meet Kenneth Horan, whose delightful book, "Remember the Day," was published last spring.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

ART lovers and friends who crowded into Dell Quest's galleries the other afternoon at the opening of the interesting exhibit of David Leavitt's Balinese paintings and lithographs had an opportunity to observe something besides art. A motor car stopped outside the door and a man and a monkey got out. The man dressed the monkey in a little velveteen suit and the two hastened across the street to the green sward about the Chicago water tower, hopeful of pennies from homegoing pedestrians.

Penny Wheedlers— Fur Worker— Notes.

One of the exhibit guests later engaged the monkey man in conversation. It turned out that was the last time the pair would be seen in this locality until spring. Getting too chilly, the monkey man said. They were leaving for the south the next day. When it got dark the man and the monkey hastened back across the street to the automobile and drove off.

IN the morning mail. "A late autumn rain is falling on a window that looks out across a barren waste of sooty roof. The raindrops falling on the smoky window pane remind me of tears on the grimy face of a street urchin. The room is small. It is redolent of mothballs, fur pelts, sawdust, and steamed woolens. A row of fur coats hang above me, awaiting their turn at rejuvenation. My bench is strewn with spools and buttons, bits of fur, razor blades, and cord. The hands of the little wall clock point out the noon hour. I reach for my news-wrapped cheese-on-rye. At the rustle of the paper a mouse appears from behind the waste basket, awaiting a dropped crumb, quite unabashed by the fitful flow of profanity of my female assistant.

This is the interlude that makes the obscurity and sheer ugliness of the little room bearable. Off to Hawaii with a newspaper columnist via the morning newspaper. . . .

The row of fur coats have turned into an hibiscus hedge. And my cheese-on-rye—it isn't cheese-on-rye—it is anchovy, seaweed, and the cream of coconuts served by a tiny Japanese maid in kimono and obi. The profanity of the tailoress is the soft voice of a gentle Japanese maiden. The mouse has turned into a minah bird. The murky window is a sea of lapis blue and jade green. The steam from the tailor's iron is a trade wind soft and gentle. The spitting of the electric wire is the rustle of palm fronds. Hawaii, the lotus land—a dream fantasy, a land of fluid jewels. . . .

"'O, yes, Mr. ———. Mrs. Finkel's fur coat will be ready at five. . . .'

"HILDA OF THE FLATIRON."

FRIDAY Cuff Notes. Only one more day to see Marguerite Hohenberg's beautiful abstractions at the Albert Roullier galleries. You'll be sorry you didn't see her pictures at her first exhibit in Chicago when she becomes world famous. . . . Mrs. Charles Deering celebrated her 81st birthday anniversary this week, and at a party at the Casino a birthday cake in her honor had eighty-one candles and her grandson gave her eighty-one silver dollars in a box. . . . The oddest entry in the Evanston hobby show will be a collection of live termites. . . . A real Hawaiian luau, or native feast, was given by Honoré Palmer, who recently visited Honolulu, in New York last week. Ti-leaves for the table covering and fresh flower leis arrived by clipper; a Honolulu woman recently arrived from the island brought dried native fish and poi to New York, and Mr. Palmer got in some Hawaiian singers and dancers who are appearing in New York. . . . When Ruth Page and the opera ballet had to refuse an invitation to appear at the world exposition of the dance at Rockefeller center Nov. 29 to Jan. 2 because of a too heavy opera schedule the Dance International wired Opera Head Jason F. Whitney asking if a round trip by air could be arranged for a Sunday performance. A special performance of "Rigoletto" on Dec. 12 will keep the ballet at home and prevent the Chicago ballet from becoming the first flying ballet.

HOW two lecturers feel about banqueting before talking, as set forth in a letter from Aldous Huxley to Samuel N. Rinaker, president of the English Speaking union [quoted with Mr. Huxley's permision]:

"The fact is that both Heard and I belong to that class of public speakers who can't hold forth on a full stomach and who require to be quiet and undisturbed before the talk begins. For me, a preliminary feast is fatal to both digestion and to thought; and the same is true of Heard."

I TELL YOU SHE'S A SWELL GIRL!
YES, BUT LOOK AT HER ANKLES!
DARN MEN, ANYWAY! MY ANKLES DO LOOK BAD— BUT IT'S THESE SOAP-WASHED STOCKINGS. THEY'RE ALL COTTONY-LOOKING.
LOOK HERE, JOAN, WHY NOT STOP COMPLAINING ABOUT THE WAY YOUR LEGS LOOK, AND WASH YOUR STOCKINGS IN DREFT LIKE I DO?
DREFT? YOU MEAN THAT NEW FINE FABRIC SUDS EVERYBODY'S TALKING ABOUT?
YES, IT'S MARVELOUS! IT ACTUALLY MAKES YOUR STOCKINGS SEEM NEW AGAIN—TAKES AWAY THAT "COTTONY" LOOK.
LET'S GET SOME NOW. I'LL TRY IT TONIGHT
HERE YOU ARE, MISS JOAN. I HOPE YOU'RE GOING TO MAKE THE DREFT TEST

THE DREFT TEST? WHAT'S THAT?
ISN'T IT WONDERFUL? THIS DREFT-WASHED STOCKING LOOKS SHADES BRIGHTER. THE OTHER SEEMS GRAY AND DOWDY BY COMPARISON
5 MUCH LATER
HELLO, JOAN. I THOUGHT THAT WAS YOU! I'D KNOW YOU ANYWHERE BY THOSE TRIM LITTLE ANKLES!
THANK YOU DREFT!
dreft

What the DREFT Test is— Take a pair of "clean" soap-washed stockings from your drawer. Wash just one of them in Dreft. Then compare. The Dreft washed stocking will look "younger" and richer. The other will seem old, gray and "cottony looking" in comparison.

AMAZING NEW SUDS GIVES STOCKINGS 50% TO 100% LONGER WEAR, SAY WOMEN

Dreft actually makes your fine things seem newer . . . "younger" . . . better looking. Longer lasting, too, say women.

Here's what Miss Florence Jakes of 929 Michigan Avenue, Evanston, Illinois, says: "I noticed that my silk stockings not only looked richer, but lasted longer when I washed them in Dreft. I found they lasted about twice as long without getting runs, as when I washed them in soap flakes."

Miss Louise Allison, 2324 Sheffield Ave. Chicago, says: "My stockings lasted more than half as long again when washed in Dreft."

Dreft is different. When you first use this remarkable new suds, look for these three things:

1. Dreft makes suds as easily in hard as in soft water—five times more suds than any soap flakes in hardest water. 2. It never forms soap scum—that unpleasant "ring around the washbasin." 3. It instantly and completely dissolves in cool water, the right temperature for washing delicate fabrics . . . leaves no annoying particles to catch in garments.

Anything safe in water is safe in Dreft. Ask your dealer for Dreft today! Procter & Gamble.

Heard Injured; English Union to Hear Huxley

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALDOUS HUXLEY, English novelist, arrived alone in Chicago last night to fill a speaking engagement that he was to share with Gerald Heard, British author and broadcaster, at the Lake Shore Athletic club tonight.

Mr. Heard will not be present. He fractured his left arm near the shoulder in Mount Vernon, Ia., yesterday, when he slipped on the ice. He is now in a Cedar Rapids hospital where he must remain at least ten days.

Both Mr. Huxley and Mr. Heard were to debate informally on "Roads to Peace," under the sponsorship of the English Speaking union. In spite of the accident to Mr. Heard, Mr. Huxley will deliver his address, and encourage a form of public debate by answering questions put to him by the audience. This should provide a novel and interesting debate, predicted Samuel M. Rinaker, president of the English Speaking union, last night. Tonight's talk is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow noon Mr. Huxley will be a guest of the P. E. N. club at a luncheon at the Casino, after which Dr. William Sheldon of Chicago Theological seminary will take them to the south side for the night. Sunday morning they will be guests of the Tavern club at its tally-ho breakfast before they leave Chicago.

Numerous dinner parties will precede tonight's lecture. Among those who will entertain are Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Woods Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John I. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Welles, the Ronald P. Boardmans, the Ballard Moores, the Charles B. Goodspeeds, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Carr, Miss Joanna Fortune, Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Dixon, and Mrs. John Crerar, who will entertain for her guest, the Hon. Mrs. Christopher Freemantle of England.

Mrs. Samuel M. Rinaker is giving a luncheon today at the Arts club for Mrs. Freemantle.

Many Plan Parties for Harriet Leonard.

Life soon will consist of nothing but one party after another for Miss Harriet Leonard, daughter of John R. Leonard. Miss Leonard is to be married to William Turpin of Indianapolis on New Year's day. Mrs. Brownell Bradstreet will entertain at a game party on Nov. 26 and on Nov. 28 Daniel Leonard and Dr. Frode Jensen, the bride's brother and brother-in-law, will give her a kitchen shower.

On Dec. 7 Mrs. George Doty will entertain at a tea and bridge at her home in Barrington and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Magie II. will give a dinner at their home on Dec. 11 for Miss Leonard. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Waller will entertain at a breakfast on Dec. 5. Miss Helen Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. John Townes, and Mrs. Waldo Gundlach are among others who will give parties, although the dates have not been set.

Preceding Miss Leonard down the aile on Jan. 1 will be her sister, Mrs. Jensen, as matron of honor, and Miss Helen Chapman as maid of honor. The bridesmaids will include Mrs. Daniel Leonard, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Hibbard Casselberry, who was Mary Elizabeth Leonard and who will come from her home in Winter Park, Fla., for the wedding; Miss Jean Gourlay, and Mrs. Edward P. Carter Jr.

Harrison James Carter will be best man for Mr. Turpin and among those who will usher will be Daniel Leonard, Dr. Jensen, and D. J. Turpin, the bridegroom's brother.

The bridal dinner will be given at

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Hollywood Mirror.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 18.—Autograph fans out here not only station themselves at theaters, they also wait at such spots as Westmore's, for all of the femme stars sooner or later go to the hairdresser's. Yesterday the kids were having a field day as I passed. Sonja Henie, Jeanette MacDonald, Virginia Bruce, Mary Livingston, and Shirley Temple were surrounded by 50 kids, pads in hands.

Virginia Bruce meets autograph fans.

Miss MacDonald first brushed her way through to her car, refusing to sign, but when she seated herself in the car she relented, signing all of the books which the eager kids shoved through the window. Ann Darling came out a moment later and there was another rush. "Hey, kids, I'm nobody," she protested, and they stepped back from her in some alarm.

There is no town in which men are so careful of their scalps as Hollywood. Fred Allen, Bob Hope, Jack Benny, George Burns, John Beal, Warner Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Fred Astaire, Al Ritz, Chico Marx—all of them will sit you down at a moment's notice to tell you about their hairdressers. In each case you learn that the hairdresser actually has brought four or five strands of hair to life, which they proudly and tenderly exhibit. Baldness is a commercial fear out here. Quite a few wear toupees in their pictures.

In the Brown Derby, Edgar Bergen being congratulated on topping the Crosley radio ratings...at the Troc: Anita Louise, Hedda Hopper, Mrs. Eddie Cantor applauding Ruth Terry's warbling at Mrs. Ann Lehr's charity luncheon...Betty Grable, on sunset, tells me that Martha Raye WAS invited to her shower, and would I please correct it . . . in the Vendome, Una Merkel, Virginia Peine, the Ham Fishers, and Mrs. H. W. Warner, who is leaving for New York. She promises to give my regards to Broadway... in a Hollywood store, Elaine Barrie Barrymore trying on a leopard skin hat.

On stage 22, at Warner's, your correspondent finds Bette Davis and Henry Fonda emoting in "Jezebel." This is the picture which may take some of the edge off "Gone With The Wind," due to the southern locale.

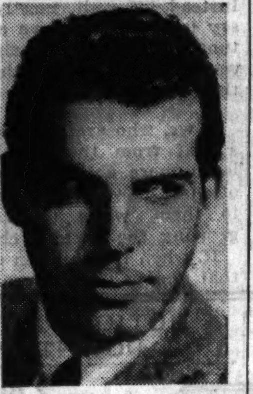
Director William Wyler is shooting a scene in which Miss Davis, as a southern belle, is coming through the hallway to the living room where Fonda awaits, to escort her to a ball. Once the positions are established, men tack bits of wood in the rug so that the players will come to the exact positions where they will be in focus.

Between takes the Lowell, Mass., girl chats with me: "I've never seen a picture in which I gave a really good performance," she says. "When I go to theaters to see a picture I'm so scared the audience won't laugh or respond in the right places that I can't enjoy it. The first time I saw myself in 'Of Human Bondage' it really shocked me. Director Cromwell had refused to let me see the daily 'rushes' of the stuff we were shooting, so I had no idea I was such a horrible creature."

I asked her if a recent story that she had been a lifesaver in Maine were true. "Certainly not," she said. "To win my senior Red Cross rating I did pass a swimming test. My shoulders are fairly broad—I got them from dancing, at Peterboro, Vt. To represent a moth I had to carry two heavy frames representing wings."

Everything out here travels in cycles, and at the moment the movie makers have all of their employés making comedies on the "My Man Godfrey," "Topper," "The Awful Truth" pattern. If you don't laugh heartily in the next twelve months it won't be the fault of the people out here.

Latest in the cycle was previewed at the Westwood theater, Paramount's "True Confessions," starring Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray and featuring John Barrymore. The audience loved it, but the premise was so absurd that your reporter was left quite cold, so it will be safer for you to take the decision of the audience, which howled and yelled in high glee. Ernst Lubitsch, Melvyn Le Roy, and Charlie Feldmans, the Milt Brens, Mitch Leisen were a few I saw in the lobby where the flashlights were exploding.



Fred MacMurray. New film is hit.

At the Hal Roach studio Connie Bennett, Billie Burke, Bonita Granville, and Tom Brown working in "Merrily We Live." The Bennett eyeful has just completed a social experiment that cost $243 and gave her ten times that amount in pleasure. Her secretary was home ill last week, so Connie was thumbing through the fan mail. One letter from a man in Austin, Pa., interested her because of the way in which it was worded. He needed $243 to save his home. Her financial adviser told her to forget it, that it was just another "touch."

She wired the sherif of the Pennsylvania county, asking him if he had an eviction order as the letter stated. The sherif, or whatever official corresponds to that position, wired back that the facts of the story were true. So Connie telegraphed the $243 and yesterday she received a letter from the man and a $5 payment on the debt.

"I've loaned people thousands of dollars, supposed friends of mine," she said, "and they cross to the opposite side of the street to avoid me. I've not only lost the money but also their friendship. This poor fellow borrowed a tiny sum, and yet he is so on the level that he sent me this $5 as a token of his sincerity. I'm going to frame it, so help me."

Asks Hospitals to Get More Cancer Equipment

Dr. Frank L. Rector, field representative of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, urged yesterday that hospitals increase their facilities for the treatment of the disease. He spoke at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. Dr. Rector said that "proper essentials" for hospital treatment of the disease were well equipped laboratories, skilled physicians, efficient X-ray equipment, and a supply of radium.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Myrna Loy and William Powell convinced you in "Double Wedding" that a yumpfless life is practically no life at all. And now, in "This Way, Please," you gather that a show without voom simply shouldn't go on.

All of which is beside the point.

Have we ever gone behind the scenes in a de luxe movie theater? The sort that gives you a stage show with every feature picture? I can't remember that we have. Well, in this opus we do.

We meet usherettes and theater managers and owners, and dancing girls AND Brad Morgan, the big heart thrill of the Occident. [That's the name of the movie theater.]

Brad makes personal appearances in something or other called "Bachelor of Hearts" and the ladies who flock to the picture house think that he is just too, too. . . .

There comes along a little blonde who wants to dance in the show. Through a mistake she is hired as an usherette. But Brad meets her—and from then on life is changed for both of them. . . . Jane is hired and fired. . . . Brad is fired on her account. . . . Jane is hired in Brad's place. . . . Brad thinks she's a two-timer and sets out to show her up. . . . The picture ends in a stage wedding that rings in a conglomeration of crazy happenstances which resolve themselves into an H. E. . . .

Betty Grable was quite a surprise to me. She does some effective acting, some mighty good dancing, and is prettier than I'd remembered. Buddy Rogers is good looking as ever, but I thought a bit distrait. He has a difficult rôle. You can't make up your mind whether to think of Brad as a heel or a fool. Being a romantic lead, he isn't, of course, supposed to be either—just a good guy all gummed up.

Mary Livingstone as head usherette and niece of the theater owner, and Ned Sparks as Inky, a publicity man whom she loves, do nice work, and Fibber McGee and Molly contribute pleasantly to the entertainment.

If you're expecting the earth you may be disappointed in "This Way, Please." But if you're not one of these ultracritical folk whose joy in life is pick, pick, picking flaws in all that God and man hath made, why I think you'll derive a reasonable amount of enjoyment from the Garrick's new comedy with music.

Blue Reefers in Fashion for Young Again

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There must be a small army of dissatisfied mothers who are fussing because they can't find anything but snow suits or similar clothes with which to apparel their small fry. Rushing into an already dangerous situation, we shopped the town for trim looking coats for the youngsters. Remembering with pride our own flaming red lether leggings, and swanky blue chinchilla reefer, we certainly enjoyed the 1937 versions no end. Sad to tell, we didn't find a single pair of fitted lether leggings, they may be in existence, but one sleuthing expedition wasn't long enough to report any finds.

But we did find the reefers, navy blue affairs with a plaid wool lining; good, snug, warm models that make the young owners look as trim and smooth as only a naval uniform can. For a small extra sum glittering brass buttons will be anchored down the chest.

These blue chinchillas are the sturdiest coats any active youngster ever owned, and both little sister and big brother wear identical models. For telling accessories, the stylists suggest navy blue caps, with a red knob or ball for the little girl's, and red mittens with blue cuffs for the girl's, and that trick in reverse for little brother. Flaming red wool scarfs are tucked in the collar lines.

After too many years of snow suits, these reefer coats and accessories will bring back smart, well dressed children again. Snow suits are ideal for active hours, but as street and dress parade outfits they've been droopy apparel.

Cast Deciding Vote for Unity of Methodists

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Reunion of the three greater branches of American Methodism—the Methodist Episcopal, the Methodist Episcopal South, and the Methodist Protestant churches, was announced as being constitutionally assured last night by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, head of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church.

He made the announcement before a joint dinner of the foreign and home missions boards of the church and the area council of the Chicago area at the Medinah club.

Sufficient numbers of favorable votes for the merger were assured in the northern body and in the Methodist Protestant church several months ago. His announcement last night told of telegraphic information concerning votes in the southern church yesterday which assured the constitutional majority.

Bishop William N. Ainsworth of the southern church wired that the conferences of North Georgia and North Carolina, in sessions this week, favored reunion by a total vote of 582 to 156. A three-fourths vote is necessary.

The Methodist Protestant church withdrew from the parent church in 1832 over questions of polity; the southern church seceded more than a decade later over the slavery question. Their reunion will create a denomination with 8 million members which will be called the Methodist Church.

The necessary reorganization will need two or three years.

At yesterday's sessions of the board of foreign missions the determination to continue missions in Japan and China was expressed by executives.

SYNOPSIS.

When rich old Caleb Winter died his wife, Isabella, once his housekeeper, wires her daughter, Sally Lee Keyne, at school in Maryland, to come home at last. Because Caleb had demanded a housekeeper without family ties Isabella had never told him about Sally. Sally bids good-by to wise Mary Culpepper, school headmistress. En route she meets Robin Ashe, whose family live near the old Crewe mansion, Sally's new home—he falls in love with her—and has an unpleasant encounter with an arrogant tramp called Vincent. The morning after Sally's homecoming Joseph Marr, his lawyer, reads Caleb's will and her mother has a stroke. Informed of his wife's deception, Caleb left everything to his first wife's nephew, Obadiah Crewe. Mrs. Winter, if she stays on as housekeeper, to have shelter and an income. The new heir turns out to be the tramp—Vincent Obadiah Crewe. Though she hates and fears him, Sally serves him as housekeeper in her mother's place. Vincent inherits Caleb's tricky West Indian valet, Manchi. Gossip reaches Robin that Sally is the new heir's mistress. Vincent surprises Sally when he tells her he loves her and asks her to marry him. He shocks her by harboring an evil looking tramp who is ill. When Robin calls to beg Sally to marry him she announces that she is going to marry Vincent. Vincent is told by Manchi that he is not Caleb's nephew, but the illegitimate son of Caleb's first wife. Vincent takes the evidence, forced from Manchi, to the lawyer, relinquishing the fortune to Mrs. Winter. When Mrs. Winter hears the news she begs Sally not to marry Vincent. Sally insists she will, but Vincent won't let her. The tramp enters Mrs. Winter's sickroom—she recognizes him as her first husband whom she thought dead. The shock kills her. Sally prepares to return to Mary Culpepper.

INSTALMENT XLI.

ANOTHER HOMECOMING.

"I'll stay on here," Vincent said, "until my old man gets through with his dying. I give him not more than a dozen days of it . . . perhaps fewer. After that, I'll get him safely buried . . . out of your sight."

And he envisaged a grave . . . nameless . . . not far from Isabella Winter's. Perhaps, he thought grimly, they two will reach for reconciliation through the dust. But of these thoughts nothing was visible or audible to the black clad girl, standing with her gun.

She took courage for a question.

"You can't tell me who he is?"

"It wouldn't do anything for you or for me."

"Nor why you have to shelter him?"

"It is an old debt, Sally. I owe him something." His eyes were fixed changelessly upon her face so that it flushed above its pathetic draperies. Sally's slender blondeness was accentuated by mourning. She looked dramatic, too colorful for anything but the pages of a romance.

"And after his death . . . then?"

"I'll sign off with Marr and take the road."

"Vincent, you must wait."

"Hell, waiting's not my line. What for?"

"You'll be needed. This thing can't be settled so simply out of court."

"Sure it can . . . me not disputing anything."

"But I feel, and so, I think, does Mr. Marr, that you ought to dispute. I want to go halves with you, Vincent."

Vincent grinned. "So Marr told me. I've no mind to be your pensioner, 'Miss Sally, ma'am.'"

"It wouldn't be like that. O, what's the use?" She turned from him with a gesture of anger. "You're a stubborn, ignorant boy. I can't help you or reason with you or even ——" she managed to let laughter spring into her great eyes, "or even . . . marry you."

At that his eyes did for half an instant flicker.

"Nor marry me," he said and in the same breath and the identical colorless tone. "Good-by."

She changed her gun from right hand to left and shook his, murmuring one sentence, "I'll be with Miss Culpepper if you want me, Vincent," and knew too late that she had been cruel, for his face looked like a reflection of itself in shaken water and he repeated, "If I want you ——" and let her go, turning himself quickly back into the shelter of her work room.

In that charming upstairs sitting room of Miss Mary Culpepper's summer privacy, the shutters were drawn to mitigate the heat and a light breeze stirred the shadowed curtains pleasantly. Miss Mary at her desk looked up at frequent intervals from a letter, for she was puzzled and perhaps alarmed by the entire immobility of her young guest. Sally in one of the chintz chairs sat as still as plaster. Miss Mary wrote, "I promised you this letter, otherwise I should have shirked it. Salley Keyne has been with me now for ten days and we have talked about you. You ought, my dear boy, I do think, to have been the husband for Sally. But, and I fear by your own mismanagement, you've prevented that. I rather like, myself, your pragmatism and I don't object to the deft and light fingered fashion with which you will handle your life, but this is inimical to Sally's nature. She is intense, single minded, proud . . . no compromiser. Sally, I feel it in my bones, won't stay with me very long. If you mean to hear her final decision from her own lips you must run down—or up—here quickly. Something is smoldering in her."

At this point the girl whose smoldering had been hidden for an hour behind her lowered lids, stood up, came swiftly forward, dropped to her knees beside Miss Mary. The eyes she lifted, thought the startled school mistress, seemed to be fashioned only for the expression of ardor and astonishment.

"Darling," said Sally, "will you be furious with me, or hurt, or disgusted, if I leave you right away now . . . this morning . . . pronto?"

"Leave me?" Miss Mary put down her blotter across her instantly fulfilled prophecy. "To go where?"

"To go," said Sally, "home . . . to Crewe House."

"To Crewe House?"

"Yes. If I drive fast I can make Hanbury before dark. Of course I won't stay at the house. I'll stop at Grassways Inn and I won't see Vincent until tomorrow morning. There's something that frightens me . . . something that I forgot."

"Something that frightens you? Something that you forgot? Is Vincent still at Crewe House?"

"He hasn't written to me. He was waiting for the old man to die. And I'm afraid ——" she stood up and moved vaguely toward the door. "I'm so afraid he'll just sign off and disappear."

"You can't be content, perhaps, with a long distance telephone call?"

Sally smiled. So might a sphinx move grave lips for the mystification of a questioner.

"No, Miss Mary, darling . . . even if he isn't there . . . I can't be content."

Miss Mary looked and looked. Then she announced slowly, "I imagine that you will have to go."

The highway as she turned into it from the narrower lanes of Maryland looked to Sally both beautiful and safe. She sat spear straight behind her wheel and her eyes were consumers of the fuel for happiness. If only they could consume the miles!

She would not stop for lunch. It seemed important to reach the neighborhood of Crewe House before dark, even if she were not actually to enter it before tomorrow morning. Ten mornings ago she had left Vincent . . . she had allowed him to turn that shaken face of his and to go with it into that dreadful little somber room . . . O, no, into that dear, safe, and secret room—where she would find him again tomorrow.

Nevertheless, even without delay or accident, it was dark by the time she reached the corner where, from the highway, a dirt road led in to Crewe House. Sally was driving slowly now. It was past 10 o'clock. Vincent, if he were still in this part of the world, would not yet be in bed. Would he be pacing the breathless, empty rooms, with all his shutters and his curtains closed? She thought. "I won't be able to eat or sleep until I know whether he's gone or . . . waiting." But she did not want him to know until morning that she had returned. Morning is safe, thought Sally, and sane and manageable. What a woman says to a man in broad daylight he cannot easily discount. She would call upon him in the morning. Yes. But, all the while, her roadster was slipping quietly along the leafy winding lane. It would be better for sound sleep if she knew that Vincent would surely be there tomorrow to receive her visit. And, if he were not there . . . she could sleep at Crewe House. Her heart paled and stilled. How dreadful then would be the summer night.

This Lady Is Asking for Trouble!

CATHARTICS

Lady, don't do it! Don't overstimulate your intestines with pills and drugs. For that's how most cathartics work, by provoking your intestines into action.

If you'd lived a century ago, you probably wouldn't have had common constipation. That's the penalty we pay for eating modern foods and neglecting Nature's age-old "regulators"—the LAXATIVE parts of wheat.

Why not put those natural laxatives back in your diet with Kellogg's All-Bran? It's more effective than most pills in keeping you "regular." But it doesn't overstimulate your intestines. Instead, it supplies two things they need and want for regular movements—"bulk" and vitamin "B₁."

All-Bran supplies "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This softened mass aids elimination. And Bran is a good source of vitamin "B₁"—the vitamin that tones your intestinal tract and promotes a healthy movement.

These things in All-Bran are good for you. They work WITH Nature—not against her!

Kellogg's All-Bran is a crunchy, nutty-flavored cereal. Eat it with milk or cream and fruits. It also makes grand muffins. But, however you eat it, use it regularly. Follow this Daily Routine: eat two tablespoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics, too! Every grocer sells All-Bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

According to CULBERTSON

Mr. Culbertson is conducting, through this column, a national examination of bridge players. Rate yourself by subtracting from 100 the points for each wrong answer. Or mail answers to Mr. Culbertson, care of this paper, and at the end of the examination he will send you a personal certificate with your mark and bridge classification.

Yesterday's question was:

Question 45: You are East, defending against a four heart contract, reached on this bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 hearts	2 spades
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Your hand and dummy are as follows:

NORTH [dummy]	EAST
♠ 6 5 2	♠ A Q 9 8 7
♥ Q 10 8 4	♥ 3 2
♦ 7 3	♦ K Q 9 5
♣ A 6 4 2	♣ K 10

West leads the spade jack. What card do you, East, play?

Answer: You should play the nine of spades, or at any rate should fail to play the ace or queen. Your partner's lead of the jack showed that he had fewer than four spades, since with that number he would have led fourth best. Declarer's king, therefore, cannot be blank. There is no reason to suppose that partner's jack was a singleton. If you play the ace on the jack, declarer, who very likely started with the K-10-small, will have a finessing position against your queen and, thus, will lose only one spade trick instead of two. This is simply an example of economy of honors. [Two points demerit for playing ace or queen of spades to the first trick].

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 46: Rubber bridge. You are South, not vulnerable. Opponents are vulnerable. The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 heart	?

You, South, hold:

♠ A 10 8 ♥ K J 10 8 ♦ J 4 3 ♣ A K 9

What call do you make over East's one heart bid?

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of this paper, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

TODAY'S HAND.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 10 8 5 4
♥ Q 10 6 3 2
♦ J
♣ J 9 5

WEST	EAST
♠ K 9	♠ J
♥ J 7	♥ A 9 8 5 4
♦ A K Q 10 6 4 3	♦ 9 7 5 2

SOUTH
♥ K
♣ A Q 10 6 4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	3 no trump	Pass	Pass
4 clubs	4 diamonds	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West's first overcall was, of course, an effort to steal the game by camouflage methods.

The defeat of the four spade contract was a triumph for partnership confidence. West opened the diamond king and, when his partner played the deuce, West had such perfect faith in East's judgment that he did not even consider continuing with diamonds. He knew that East was a careful player who thought before he followed suit. Hence, that diamond deuce was not merely a casual follow-suit card, but a distinct warning. More than that, it conveyed the idea that East could stand a shift of leads. With sublime faith, West shifted at the second trick to his low heart. East won, and declarer later had to concede tricks to both of West's black kings.

Obviously, any other lead at the second trick would have been fatal.

Tomorrow's Hand

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH

SOUTH
♠ Q 9

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Sick Baby in Need of Bed.

"Dear Miss Brown: Won't you try to help me? My baby, 11 months old, is ill. The only bed we have for him is the davenport, and it is most uncomfortable for him. My husband earns only $15 a week and half of it goes for rent, so we can not afford a bed for the child. We have no buggy and he does not walk yet. We live in a rooming house and also would like to have a nursery chair for the baby.—Mrs. F. N."

Mrs. N. will be glad to arrange to call for any offers.

Invalid Would Enjoy Instrument.

A medical caseworker requests a mandolin or guitar for a patient, W. A. He is incurably ill and little can be done for him with the exception of making him more comfortable and giving him the advantage of occupational therapy. He and his wife and their two children are supported by a relief organization. They all are sickly and undernourished.

The address is on the north side and will be given to any interested reader able to supply either of these instruments.

Inquire Into the Cause for Child's Action

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Why, Mommie?"

"But why, Mother?"

"Why is that, Daddy—why?"

Why? Why? Why? Does it tire you out sometimes? Yet that is how the children learn.

We don't sit down and explain the world to them. It would be too large a dose for them to take if we did. Instead we wait, mostly, until they say why, and then we answer. Fortunately for them their why is always on tap and so they get what they need.

If we, who are parents, would take a leaf from their book we would learn more about a world which is often as new to us as their world is to them, while they're little and growing, the world of childhood.

If, when the children do something that annoys us or inconveniences us, or that we think they shouldn't, we would stop and say to ourselves, "Why?", we could be so much wiser in handling them.

This is true of all children at all ages. Use your eyes and ears, your perfectly good intelligence and imagination and common sense, and try to find out why your teen age boy, your little girl, and even your baby acts as he or she does.

Count ten—say to yourself "Why?" a dozen times a day if need be. Forget how you feel about it, ignore how the trying behavior looks to your guests or your next door neighbor, and inside yourself say quietly "Why?". You'd be surprised. . . .

What brought this to my mind today was this letter:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: A year or so ago I wrote to you asking you for some help which concerned my baby boy. I found that help. It proved that if you really understand children, their habits, as well as their physical and mental actions, there is nothing whatsoever to worry about when you have a youngster.

"Today I find and consider my boy [he's going on 4] a well behaved child."

It's fun, it's pleasure, it's satisfying, it's interesting, it's almost like a game to ask yourself and then seek for the answers to your why's.

Heard Injured; English Union to Hear Huxley

the Indian Hill club on New Year's eve.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren Everett, who have rented their home in Hinsdale for several years to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kettering of Detroit, have taken an apartment at the Windermere East for an indefinite period. Mr. Kettering is the son of Charles F. Kettering of Detroit.

The Everetts' daughter, Miss Eleanor Everett, who was introduced at a simple debut tea on her 18th birthday last winter, is spending the winter in London, England, studying piano with George Woodhouse. She is returning home for the Christmas holidays, arriving in New York on the Bremen on Dec. 22, and returning to England on the same ship on Jan. 5.

Mrs. Stephens Wright Guest of Her Father.

Mrs. R. Stephens Wright, the former Glee Louise Viles, is leaving today for California after spending a few quiet days with her father, Lawrence Viles. She has been making arrangements for an exhibit of her husband's etchings at the Roullier Art galleries, to be opened Dec. 7. Mr. Wright is coming from California for the opening, but his wife will not return with him, for she wants to stay with their little daughter.

After traveling about the southwest many months in a trailer, the Wrights purchased a house in Pasadena, where they are settled for some of the year. During the summer they traveled to British Columbia, where they went salmon fishing, and to Seattle, where they visited her uncle, Neil Jamison. Some of the twelve prints Mr. Wright is bringing out this year have the northwest for their subject.

The prints will be exhibited in New York at the Kleemann galleries, opening Dec. 1. Mrs. Wright arranged for that exhibit while she was visiting her mother, Mrs. Albert L. Smith, two weeks ago in New York.

Members of the Council on Foreign Relations and their guests will hear Burton Crane's answer to the question, "Can Japan Last?" today at a luncheon-meeting in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Seated at the table with Mr. Crane will be Laird Bell, president of the council; Mrs. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Eitel, the Tiffany Blakes, Mrs. Robert P. Gregory, the Edward W. Everetts, the William P. Sidleys, and the James Weber Linns.

Mr. Crane has been financial editor of the Japan Advertiser since 1925 and since 1929 has been editor of the Trans-Pacific Weekly Review.

Next Wednesday the council will meet in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house to hear George Slocombe, foreign editor of the London Evening Standard discuss "The Dangerous Sea."

Vassar Alumnae Will Open Conference Today.

The Chicago and North Shore Vassar clubs have been busy the last few weeks arranging for the national conference of Vassar alumnae to be held at the Edgewater Beach hotel today, tomorrow, and Sunday. They have crammed as many activities into the few days of the conference as possible because they want their former schoolmates not only to enjoy themselves but also to see Chicago at its best.

Tonight there will be a dinner at the hotel at which Margaret Culkin Banning, who is the new alumnae trustee of Vassar, and Dr. Clark Kuebler of Northwestern university will speak. Tomorrow noon Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar, will address the alumnae at a luncheon at the hotel, and tomorrow night Miss Charlotte Carr, head of Hull house, will speak at a dinner at Vassar House. Mrs. Andrew MacLeish will give a tea this afternoon at Cragie Lea, her home in Glencoe. Assisting her will be Mrs. Charles Fabens Kelley, Mrs. Noble T. MacFarlane, Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot Jr., Mrs. Stanley K. Peirce, Mrs. W. Gordon McKeldin, Miss Edith Lapham, Mrs. Julian Anderson, and Mrs. Carleton Blunt.

The Chicago Alumnae club of Sarah Lawrence college is giving a tea for Miss Constance Warren, president of the college at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Ambassador East. Miss Warren is spending several days in Chicago.

Fortnightly Dances Will Start Tonight.

This is a red letter night in the lives of the subdebutantes and prep school boys who attend the Fortnightly dances in town, for the first of the series is being given tonight at the Fortnightly club.

Among the dinners planned for some of the 80 boys and girls is one Mrs. James E. Bennett and Mrs. Joseph W. McNulty are giving at the Fortnightly for their daughters, Betty Bennett and Barbara McNulty.

Mrs. Edward F. Carry is entertaining at dinner at the Lake Shore Drive hotel for her granddaughter, Peggy Nicholson. Mrs. A. Werner Lawson will give a dinner for her younger daughter, Kay Lawson.

The next Fortnightly will be held Dec. 3. The largest dance of the series is the Christmas Fortnightly, to be held Dec. 20.

Dinner Club Will Dance at Indian Hill.

The Morris K. Wilsons, the Gilbert Scribners, the Arnold W. Totmans, and Mrs. George H. Green will be the hosts and hostesses at the first of the Dinner club parties tonight at the Indian Hill club.

The Dinner club was organized by a group of parents from Kenilworth to Lake Forest to provide a series of six dances for sophomore age girls and sophomore and junior age boys.

About 125 boys and girls who go to the Roycemore school, the Winnetka Country Day, the Highland Park High school, the New Trier High school, Ferry Hall, and Lake Forest academy belong to the club.

The date of the second dance in the series of six has been changed from New Year's eve to the preceding night. It will be given at the Exmoor Country club, with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Harris, the Donald S. Boyntons, the Howell Murrays, and the Edgar Konsbergs as hosts and hostesses.

Winter has arrived, but the members of the Evanston Country club do not care, for an indoor sports night has been planned for them for tonight. Bowling alleys, badminton courts, and ping-pong tables will be ready for impromptu matches under the direction of C. P. McConnell, Harold F. Yegge, and William Porter Sullivan.

In order that those who like their sport second hand may not miss the fun, the badminton courts will be laid out in the big ballroom on the second floor, where the balcony spectators can cheer the players.

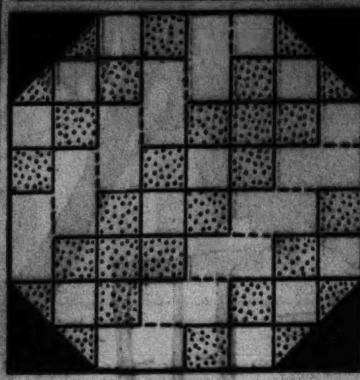
College Club.

Prof. Harry Gideonse of the department of economics at the University of Chicago will speak on "Can America Remain Neutral in Case of Another War?" at 8 o'clock this evening at the Chicago College club, 196 East Delaware place. A dinner for Prof. Gideonse will precede the meeting.

"Autumn Stars" Quilt Possesses Wide Popularity



Autumn Stars.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Autumn Stars" is a cleverly interpreted quilt pattern which has a tremendous following. Soft rose and pink combine to form the star portion of the blocks, and the rays are interestingly portrayed by the delicate tans emanating from the star. A choice of blue or white may be used for the background. The entire coverlet is composed of small, nine inch pieced blocks set together to form an all-over design. A nine inch white border, done in a tiny shell design with the pieced blocks quilted in outline, creates a breathtakingly handsome coverlet for any room, and particularly for a man's room.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There are those who feel that a woman is only as beautiful as her speaking voice. Maybe it's an extreme attitude but there is basic truth in the theory that a rasping voice or sloppy habits of speech are tragic, more so for a woman than for a man.

A few nights ago we sneaked in to a class on training of the speaking voice at Northwestern university. It was a revelation. The fundamentals of good voice quality are simple—once you're taught them. The tragedy is that they are not taught in the elementary grades. But it was inspiring to us, at least, to know that the poor voice can be corrected, that bad vocal habits can be overcome. And it was impressive to study the class, composed of men and women of varying ages and walks of life, each intent on self-improvement.

It may never have occurred to you that there is a close relationship between perfect posture and perfect voice control. The expert teacher makes you realize this. The "rib lift" known to all physical education instructors as a beautifying and healthful factor in posture is vital to what is known as vocal hygiene.

Then there is the matter of tension. Tensing makes for false sound—and ugly sound. The secret of easy speech is breath control. And the secret of breath control is, for most of us, training. Proper posture, proper breath control become instinctive when one is properly trained.

Considered phrasing and perfect and beautiful delivery are inevitable if you are conscious of the importance of accuracy of sound. If you wish to improve your speech, your poise—and your posture—by all means take advantage of voice training.

HAWKS DEFEAT DETROIT, 3-1; TAKE 2D PLACE

GREEN PLAYERS RIPE AT LAST-WALDORF HOPES

If So, Watch Out, Notre Dame!

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

It's probably news, at least it may be an omen, that Lynn Waldorf, the master mind behind Northwestern's Purple Wildcats, isn't fearing Notre Dame's Irish, guests tomorrow at Dyche stadium.

Waldorf feared Ohio State and lost, 7 to 0. He worked himself into a mental lather over meeting Illinois and was beaten, 6 to 0. He rightfully conjured up a hide filled with buckshot for his Wildcats when they faced the Gophers. The Cats lost that one too, but only by 7 to 0 to a team which was seething with a desire to avenge the clawing the Purple gave it a year ago.

Holding the bone crushing Gophers to a touchdown may have aroused in Waldorf an idea that his green pea aggregation finally has arrived—hence the attitude that to concede anything to the Irish before the kickoff is unwaranted.

It's a Funny Season.

"Funny season" was the term applied yesterday by Waldorf to what has happened to his boys to date. He didn't expect much at the start, due to the wiping out of a big portion of his championship line by graduation. He knew that inexperience would be costly. Little mistakes by men willing but green would be ruinous. And they proved ruinous enough to cost three games which with a "break" might have resulted in triumph. Anyway, that's how the Purple coach has it figured.

The "green pea" plea is no myth. Take last Saturday's battle with the Gophers. At one stage in the second quarter nine of the eleven Wildcats in action were sophomores. They held their own against one of the nation's most talented aggregations. That was almost enough to convince anybody that the second year men have learned a lot and that they might demonstrate their advanced knowledge while the Irish are present tomorrow.

A View on Defense Issue.

Having lost three games by one touchdown without scoring, Waldorf should be qualified to speak on the now current argument that rule tampering has sent defense into the ascendancy and eclipsed offensive tactics. So far as the Big Ten is concerned it has been, in his eyes and in his term as a coach therein, a defensive organization. He rates the Big Ten lines the best in the country as a whole and says the answer to this can be found in the skill of the conference line coaches.

Instead of blaming the rules for the removal of the scoring punch, Waldorf views it, at least for the present season, as being due to a deficiency in "break away" backs—the kind of fellows who, because of their own individual ability, can take the 10 or 15 yard gain of the ordinary ball carrier and stretch it into a touchdown. Fellows like Van Every, Minnesota; Brock, Purdue; Kinnick, Iowa, and Ryan, Northwestern, all sophomores just now, may help to offset this shortage next fall.

Have Assorted Workout.

The Purple took an assorted workout yesterday, their last real drill of the season, but they were slightly uncomfortable in the snow. This condition put a slight crimp in their efforts to polish off their passing attack.

At least three of the Wildcats are still in the invalid class and their appearance, if any, tomorrow may be limited. Wegner, first string center, and Calvano, right guard, haven't shaken off the effects of injuries suffered in the Illinois game two weeks ago. The flashy Swisher, understudy to the still flashier Heap, picked up a charley horse as the result of a side step while doing a ball carrying job against the Gophers. If Swisher can't appear, Jack Ryan will take turns at full back and right half.

IRISH WORK IN SNOW

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's football squad spent part of today's practice session on a frozen, snow blanketed field and the rest in the less spacious but warmer gymnasium.

Coach Elmer Layden ordered the snow drill, just in case the weather fails to change before Saturday's Northwestern game. The Irish whipped through a brief forward passing drill in which offensive and defensive assignments were thoroughly checked. Then Layden sent his men through a light dummy scrimmage.

This latter phase of the workout was continued in the gymnasium, with defensive assignments being checked carefully as the reserves, using Northwestern formations, walked through the plays expected Saturday. Layden said there will be no lineup changes this week, and that he plans to start his No. 1 team. The squad will leave Saturday morning for Evanston.

I likewise suffered with that Substitute
While harking to his boastful football song;
I knew that while his Jane was dumb, though cute,
He'd wake some day to find she done him wrong.
Each night I rubbed with balm my aching joints,
Incited by his acts of sacrifice
While fighting single handed for those points
That won those games for Jane with heart of ice.
But when he fell, a victim of the fray,
Knocked cold as if by some dread battering ram,
Did Jane his head upon her bosom lay?
Believe it not, she didn't give a damn.
So 'tis better to have loved and lost
Than to have won and later rued the cost.

And walked among the stars each passing night,
Do not deserve that unromantic name—
Believe me, woman, you ain't done me right.

Nor do I like your name, which seems to be
The raving of some balmy line-o'-type
That went out on a grand syllabic spree
To make a nom de plume which is pure tripe—
But there's that toothache at my heart again—
Will you excuse me while I call up Jane?

65,000 SEATS GO AS OHIO ELEVEN FACES MICHIGAN

Wolverines Still Hope for Fifth in Row.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 18.—The University of Michigan football team, buffeted by the waves of adversity for several seasons and now beached on the shoals of accusation that it plans to use a host of $8 a week men next year, apparently is overmatched against Ohio State university. By any comparison of this season's records the Buckeyes are superior.

It may be surprising then to those who have not followed the course of this ancient and bitter rivalry to learn that 65,000 tickets already have been sold for Saturday's engagement and that this afternoon it was planned to erect temporary bleachers on top of the stadium promenade.

Expect Large Attendance.

Michigan's stadium will accommodate 73,250 without these extra seats which have not been hauled from the storerooms since 1933. If the weather is mild, or at least if it is not raining, the largest throng since the Ohio game of that year will assemble here to see if Ohio State is as good as its record indicates and to find out if Michigan really should hire some players.

Michigan's men went through a final full length dress performance this afternoon while eddying snow swept in gusts across the practice fields. Divided into three groups the Wolverines went on a round robin of instruction in kicking, defense, and attack. And watching every move with expert attention were Harry Kipke, head coach at his alma mater for the last nine seasons, and Hunk Anderson, line coach, once of Notre Dame.

Center of Criticism.

These coaches have been the center for ten days of student newspaper and faculty criticism brought forward under the guise of a fight against subsidization, although no charges of illegal aid have been produced against the varsity squad nor proved against any member of the freshmen group.

The tempest, confined so far to an undercurrent of insinuations, broke before Michigan went east last Saturday to whip the University of Pennsylvania for its fourth consecutive victory. That victory might be considered the football players' answer to critics. But an overwhelming reply to those who say "something is wrong at Michigan" would be a victory over Ohio State.

This Michigan team, which should not win, may win. The Wolverines are wrought to a fighting pitch and stranger things have happened with less incentive.

No Action Yet.

So far no action has been taken by the committee in control of athletics to penetrate the smoke screen and discover the fire and who started it. Those charged with the conduct of athletics are said to have met this week. Another meeting may be held Saturday. All this, of course, is not germane to the subject of Michigan-Ohio State football rivalry, but it is all-important if Michigan continues its present progress toward the football preëminence once held.

Victory over Ohio State may not be more surprising than the fact that Michigan now is assured of at least a .500 average in conference competition. To be sure, the victories over Iowa, Illinois, and Chicago were all by one point, but the point after touchdown still is an integral part of football and not to be scorned unless one is prepared to assail Notre Dame's conquest of Minnesota, Vanderbilt's victory over Louisiana State, or Yale's tie with Dartmouth.

Michigan Shows Strength.

Michigan's victory over Iowa looms larger in retrospect since Indiana, conqueror of Ohio State, only whipped the Hawkeyes, 3 to 0. Michigan's victory over Illinois, which defeated Northwestern, might now be used to attest the Wolverine's proficiency. And without doubt Michigan's rally against Chicago in the final four minutes of that game demonstrated Michigan's courage.

Bow! Wow! We Want Blue Ribbons!

Illini Fear Maroon March to Champaign (on the Level)

BY STEWART OWEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18.—Illinois' enigmatic football team slogged through a driving snow storm this afternoon in its final hard workout for what the Illini have come to regard as perhaps their toughest game of the season on Saturday.

It may sound rather foolish for a team that has beaten Northwestern and tied Notre Dame to consider a game with Chicago's Maroons anything but a setup, but you can't make Coach Bob Zuppke or his football squad believe that the Maroons will be any easier than any other of the Big Ten elevens it has met this season. There are three factors that have combined to bring about this awesome respect for a team that for years has been considered the doormat of the Western conference.

It's Maroons' Big Game.

One is the fact that the Maroons have been preparing for Saturday's game for two weeks and that the annual contest, for four decades Chicago's big game of the season, has become their last chance to salvage a victory out of an otherwise disastrous season. The Illini know that this is the one game Chicago would rather win above all others.

The second factor is the large assortment of injuries in the Illinois camp. Within the last two weeks, the sturdy Illini line has been weakened in its most vital spots. Last week Swede Lundberg, star sophomore right tackle, went out with an ankle injury. In the Ohio State game Harry Lasater, regular left tackle, dislocated his left shoulder incapacitating him for the rest of the season. His replacement, Jim Reeder, followed him to the bench with a twisted leg. Reeder's replacement, Ed Skarda, a senior, in turn followed him after a bump on the head, and Walter Kischke, an untried sophomore, who never had played on the left side of the line, had to fill in. Reeder and Skarda will be in action Saturday but Lasater and Lundberg have no hopes of playing.

Two Tackles Out.

Thus, the Illini will face the Maroons with their two regular tackles on the side line and their star guard, Melvin Brewer, playing with his hand in a splint. Reeder and Florian Surdyk, a junior from Cicero, will start at the tackle posts.

The third item in the list that makes Illinois fear Chicago is the knowledge that while the Maroons have become a Big Ten joke as perennial cellar dwellers, there is no foundation for it in the record books. In recent years, the Maroons' achievements have been just about as noteworthy as those of the Illini. Last year there were three teams with worse records, Chicago finishing just behind Illinois at the top of the second division. In 1935 when the Maroons, led by Jay Berwanger, trounced Illinois they finished ahead of the Illini in the final conference standing. The same was true in 1931.

Maroons Never Setups.

Even in 1933 and 1934, when Illinois teams were genuine title contenders, their battles with the Maroons were no pushovers, both being decided by margins of one touchdown, scored late in the game. Though the difference last year was two touchdowns, Illinois did not clinch the victory until the final quarter neared its close, after having trailed, 7 to 6, for the greater part of the game.

Zuppke's scouts have reported that

Woe, Chicago, Woe! Sherman Tackled by a Sore Throat

Just when optimism was beginning to bubble among the Maroons, bad news struck the Chicago practice field yesterday.

Sollie Sherman, left half back and chief threat on offense, yesterday was confined to his home with a sore throat and cold. Sherman, who had been a standout in practice this week, rehersed with the squad Wednesday evening. When he became ill yesterday, Dr. Charles Shannon, team physician, ordered him to bed, and was fearful that Sherman might run a temperature.

There was still a chance that Sherman might play in the season final against Illinois tomorrow, since he had not developed a fever yesterday, but he will not take part in the last practice today.

Two sophomores, Louis Letts and John Davenport, alternated in Sherman's left half spot yesterday, the rest of the lineup, remaining the same. The squad engaged in a brisk dummy scrimmage, on offense and defense, although somewhat disheartened by Sherman's absence.

The team will leave for Champaign tomorrow morning at 9:25 o'clock, from the 63d Street station of the Illinois Central, and will be back at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow evening. The entire squad will make the trip, since it numbers well below the conference traveling maximum. A sizable delegation of Maroon undergraduates will accompany the team to Champaign.

WISCONSIN IS A CURED PATIENT; ATTENDANCE UP

Dr. Stuhldreher Conquers Football Illness.

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—University of Wisconsin football is no longer suffering from sleeping sickness, a dread disease which had her down on her back for quite a few years.

Increasing doses of victory over such old rivals as Iowa, Chicago, and Marquette, a tie with the strong Purdue team, and not a disgraceful defeat all year, appear to have worked the miracle.

The Badgers went through their final 1937 home workout on a snow covered Camp Randall field this afternoon. It was the first real winter day of the year here. Still several hundred well wishers dropped around to see them reherse.

7,000 to Accompany Team.

Some 7,000 of these Badger adherents will leave on special trains tomorrow and early Saturday morning for Minneapolis, where the Badgers meet the Gophers in the final Western conference game of the year on Saturday, a game which will send the Gophers into undisputed possession of the Big Ten championship if Minnesota wins.

But back to this cured patient, Wisconsin football.

She is as fresh as a coat of paint and a fine testimonial for the comparatively new doctor on the case, Harry Stuhldreher, the Badger coach.

She was very near the end when Coach Stuhldreher was consulted. Season attendance had dropped to nearly an all time low in 1933 when only 54,314 turned out to see the Badgers play their home games. It improved slightly the next year when the Badger home games drew 82,662, but the patient had another sinking spell in 1935 when the home game attendance dropped to 79,414.

Enter Dr. Stuhldreher.

Then it was that Stuhldreher was called in on the case.

Listen to the reading of the new attendance chart figures.

The Badgers did not win a conference game last season, yet they played with such fire and determination that the attendance popped up to 95,586, the highest Wisconsin attendance mark since the boom year of 1929.

With the patient showing steady gain the attendance chart this year simply has been amazing.

Total attendance for the Badgers five home games [the same number they have played each year since 1934] has been 120,607. This is the largest home Wisconsin attendance since 1928. The high mark rolled up that year was 146,668. Seating capacity at Camp Randall was 7,000 more in 1928 than it is today.

28,757 for Northwestern.

The South Dakota State game here this year attracted 10,498 spectators, Marquette drew 31,251, and the Iowa game was played before a crowd of 27,112. When Northwestern came up to whip the Badgers, 14 to 6, there were 28,757 paid customers on hand. Last Saturday's game with Purdue attracted a crowd of 22,989.

But it isn't attendance figures the Badgers and their followers are thinking about tonight. It's the Gophers who are on their minds.

There are three indoor playing

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Black Hawks last night dazzled the world champion Detroit Red Wings with a second period attack for their first home victory of the season. They made three goals in less than five minutes, two of them in 14 seconds, to account for their end of a 3-1 score.

Members of the Hawks' first line made all the goals and were awarded all the assist points, but they came far from doing all the good playing. Everybody else, with special emphasis on Goalie Max Karakas, were mighty slick gents throughout.

Romnes Leads Attack.

Doc Romnes led in the blistering of the greatly perturbed champs. He made the first goal of the evening on an assist from Paul Thompson. Thompson, on assists from Romnes and Mush March, made the second goal and that No. 3, which was produced 14 seconds after No. 2, was the work of Romnes on an assist from March. After these three noble attainments the Red Wings were permitted to score a sort of booby point in the third period. It was registered by Marty Barry on an assist by Ebbie Goodfellow. Later Goodfellow's left wrist was injured and a fracture was suspected.

The game was rough as attested by the fact that there were ten penalties. Two of the Hawks' goals and the Wings' one were accomplished while minor penalties were being served.

The outcome enabled the Hawks to break the tie for second place in the American division which had existed between the Chicagoans and the New York Rangers at the outset of the night's business. The Wings remained in the cellar.

The start of the game was delayed eight minutes while Managers Stewart and Adams jockied their starting lines. The maneuvering, though a novelty, had no effect on the early minutes, when there was more jockying, this time while the contest was in progress.

Four Penalties in First.

Eight minutes had passed before any one got a real close shot. The first threat was when Goodfellow got through on top of Goalie Karakas, only to be turned back by Mike's agility. The period produced four penalties, more than the season here had seen previously. Bowman was put off for interference after Thompson had given the Wings a scare with a close up bang. The Hawks, their first line augmented by Gottselig, moved up and succeeded in peppering Goalie Smith right merrily, even though hindered by Wing golfing tactics, permissible inasmuch as they were a man short. When the period ended Seibert and Burke of the Hawks and Barry of the Wings were in the penalty box, starting terms which continued into the second period.

It was still nothing-all, when the dial registered the thirteenth minute of the second period. Shortly thereafter the Hawks turned on the heat.

The first goal was scored by Romnes. There was some dueling on the Hawks' left boards from which Thompson shot a diagonal pass back to Romnes, stationed just inside the middle of the Detroit blue line. Doc didn't deliberate a split second. Bang! and in she sailed, while Goalie Smith blushed as scarlet as his sweater and drawers. The time was 13:38, and Thompson drew an assist.

Hawks Carry the Fight.

After the first goal, the game pepped up immeasurably and instead of taking the defensive to protect their lead, the Hawks became the aggressors.

The skating was furious but fruitless until that big minute. At 17:00 Wally Kilrea was locked up for checking into the boards and the Hawks launched that power attack you read so much about during the training season.

At 17:18 Thompson, from a point

MAPLE LEAFS TIE CANADIENS, 6-6; LOSE CONACHER

Star Wing Hits Post; May Have Broken Shoulder.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 18.—(AP)—In a rough hocky game, during which one player went to a hospital and another was carried from the ice unconscious, the Toronto Maple Leafs played a 6-all tie with the Montreal Canadiens before 8,000 tonight.

Busher Jackson's goal with six seconds to go in the third period, after Gordon Drillon had counted at the 15:26 mark, enabled the Leafs to come from behind to earn the tie, remain undefeated for the season, and extend their sectional lead to three points.

The Leafs lost their high scoring veteran wing, Chuck Conacher, when he suffered a possible fractured shoulder in crashing into the goal posts at the end of the second period. He was taken to a hospital for an X-ray examination. Aurel Joliat, Canadiens' veteran, was carried unconscious off the ice after a collision. Two stitches were required to close a head wound when he regained consciousness.

He's Just Unlucky.

Tonight's crash marks another peak in a career which has made Conacher known as one of the unluckiest players in hocky. As a junior with the Toronto Marlboros, his play was interrupted by a constant succession of injuries. In the 1929-'30 season he was forced to undergo a critical kidney operation. The following year he tripped in a game against Boston, breaking a wrist. Two broken hand bones formed the 1931-'32 Conacher casualty. In December, 1933, he suffered a dislocated collar bone at Chicago. Last year an ailing knee kept him out of 28 games.

BOSTON WINS, 2 TO 1

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins beat the New York Americans, 2 to 1, tonight and remained undefeated at the head of the American section of the National Hocky league. A crowd of 9,000 saw the game.

Minus their brilliant defenseman, Eddie Shore, as well as Forwards Ray Getliffe and Charlie Sands, the Bruins were pregame underdogs. But they came from behind with a goal in the last two minutes to break a tie and win.

Eddie Wiseman sent the Americans off in front with a 35 foot shot late in the first period. With Jack Portland in the penalty box, Hollett tied the score for Boston with an unassisted goal midway of the second period. The winning score came from the stick of Porky Dumart, who took a blue line pass from Milt Schmidt with less than two minutes remaining. Lineups:

Illini Fear the Maroons —on the Level

this year's Maroon first team is just as sturdy as the Illini, regardless of its weakness in reserves. Its line is just as heavy and its back field is a faster, more elusive unit than Illinois can present. Sollie Sherman is regarded down here as just about as good as any half back in the conference, and most of this afternoon's work was devoted to devising means of stopping him. Zuppke admits that he won't be able to put a half back on the field who can compare with Sherman in all around ability.

Snow Hampers Pass Drill.

The one big flaw in the Illini defense, its almost total ignorance of how to combat enemy forward passes, could get little attention today because of the weather. At daybreak the temperature started rising and coincidentally the snow began falling. It continued to fall with great fixity of purpose throughout the day and by the time the squad reached the practice field it was a couple of inches deep. It was impossible to do anything in the way of passing to give the Illini an idea of how a football looks in the air.

If the weather clears by Saturday, making it possible for the Maroons to toss the ball around, the Maroons' chances of victory will be more than doubled. Most of the touchdowns scored against Illinois this year have resulted from passes. The Illini secondary, having seen Ohio university, De Paul, Notre Dame, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio State heave passes over its head with considerable efficacy, has come to dread the sight of a soaring football, and goes into a mild panic that more than once has meant the loss of the ball game.

With the onset of winter today it appeared likely that the game would be played in almost complete privacy, marred only by the presence of the band, the substitutes, and a few thousand hardy spectators.

ARMSTRONG WILL MEET BEAUHULD IN RING TONIGHT

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, new featherweight champion, invades the lightweight division again tomorrow night in a ten round bout with Billy Beauhuld, Jersey City youngster, in Madison Square Garden.

Garden fans anticipate a real fight. Armstrong has knocked out twenty-two of his last twenty-three opponents and is rated one of the most dangerous hitters among the little fellows. Fight fans point out, however, that of all the opponents the sensational Los Angeles Negro has faced in recent months only one, Aldo Spoldi, clever Italian, stood out as a dangerous puncher. Spoldi not only went the distance but gave Armstrong a tough evening.

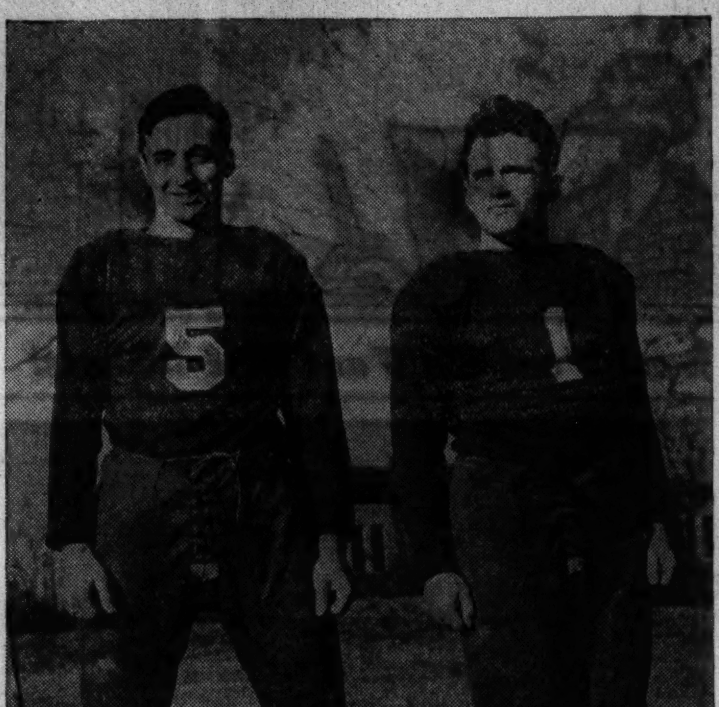
Carnera, in Paris, Given a Booing, Then a Beating

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, making his first ring appearance in a year and a half, was given a round of boos and a beating tonight as he dropped a ten round decision to Tony Dimeglio, Franco-Italian heavyweight from Marseilles. Down to a mere shadow of his former self, at 255¾, the ambling Alp who once held the world heavyweight championship was outclassed by the 199 pounder from the other side of the mountains.

BOOK GLOBE TROTTERS.

The Harlem Globe Trotters, colored basket ball team, will meet the St. Charles City league All-Stars at the St. Charles High school gymnasium on Nov. 30. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Ready for Columbia



These two Chicago boys will be on the St. Viator football squad which will meet Columbia college of Dubuque at the 124th Field artillery tomorrow night. Tony Sacco (left), the regular quarter back, formerly played on the St. Ignatius High school team. With him is Chester Benben, relief quarter back, a former St. Rita athlete.

A 'Homecoming'

Former Chicago prep stars will be given an opportunity to perform again in their home city when Columbia college of Dubuque and St. Viator meet tomorrow night in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

Members of the St. Viator squad who are former Chicago prep players are Ed O'Connor, St. George; Tony Doheny, St. Mel; George Cusack, St. Rita; Pat Bimerle, St. Philips; Tony Sacco and Al Hayworth, St. Ignatius, and Chester Benben of St. Rita.

The Columbia first team includes these players from the Chicago area: Kunsch, left guard; McHugh, center, and Sianta, left half. Kunsch was formerly on the Notre Dame squad and McHugh was a star at Mount Carmel. Sianta played with Morton High from Cicero. Other Chicago boys at Columbia who will play are Frank Huebner, Joe Owen, Joe Polito, and George Genoar.

The Columbia share of the proceeds will be given to the Rev. A. Catalina, national director of the St. Jude league, for the St. Jude shrine and the recreation hall of Our Lady of Guadalupe.

GALENTO STOPS LEROY HAYNES IN THREE ROUNDS

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 18. — (AP) — Tony Galento of Newark, N. J., stopped Leroy Haynes of Philadelphia in 2 minutes 23 seconds of the third round of a ten round boxing bout before 12,000 at Convention hall tonight.

Galento dropped Haynes three times for nine counts, and when the tall Negro dropped to the floor again without being hit, Referee Spud Murphy stopped the bout to give the New Jersey slugger a technical knockout.

From the first punch it was evident Haynes would fold under the terrific pounding. At the opening bell Galento rushed from his corner and threw a left hook to the body that made Haynes wince. He landed at least twenty such punches in the first round with hardly a return. The first knockdown came early in the second round. A sharp left to the jaw sent Haynes to the canvas for a two count. He reeled about the ring and absorbed a beating throughout the round, then staged a brief rally at the bell. The third was a massacre.

Hawks Defeat Detroit, 3 to 1; Take 2d Place

about six feet inside the Wing blue line took a back-handed swipe at a sliding puck and in it went. Goalie Smith was even more sheepish after this second long range success. The scorers hadn't had time to mark down Thompson with a goal, and Romnes and March with assists, when they had to go to work setting down more Hawk scoring credits.

In 17:32 Romnes and March bore down along their right boards. As they neared the curve in the boards, March nudged the rubber to Romnes who slanted one past Smith for tally No. 3, the second one in 14 seconds.

Barry Gets Wing Goal.

Wiebe was put off for holding early in the third period and a Wing goal bloomed from the penalty. The Detroiters moved in and at 4:10 Sorrell got the puck near the blue line and hit Karakas' boots. There was a skirmish off Mike's toes after the rebound which ended when Barry poked in the puck. Goodfellow was given an assist, but a point was denied Sorrell.

For six minutes after the first half of the final period had been played the Wings kept the rubber in the Hawk defense zone. Then Levinsky and Gottselig broke out and when Gottselig got the puck in the cage the red light was turned on. The apparent goal was disallowed on the grounds that Brydson was obstructing the goalie's vision.

HARRIS LEGG TO PERFORM STUNTS AT ICE CARNIVAL

Harris Legg, former amateur speed skating champion of Toronto, Canada, who in the last two years has advanced to the front ranks of professional skating, will perform at the sixth annual international ice carnival to be held at the Stadium for five nights beginning next Wednesday. Legg is considered one of the best trick skaters in the world. One of his greatest feats is a leap over barrels through a flaming hoop.

Another attraction to be included among the fifty international skating stars of Europe and America, will be Lois Dworshak. Miss Dworshak, who is 21 years old and hails from Duluth, is skilful at skating to music.

INDIANA STUDIES WAYS TO CHECK PURDUE'S TRICKS

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The Indiana university foot ball squad applied the finishing touches to its offense this afternoon and then checked over the defense for use against Purdue here Saturday.

The freshmen demonstrated trick plays from punt formations such as Purdue used successfully against Wisconsin last week. Two freshmen backs, throwing passes against the varsity in dummy scrimmage, emulated Cecil Isbell and Lou Brock, Purdue's aerial game directors, who are expected to contribute to a wide open battle over the old oaken bucket.

Veterans to Play.

George [Sparky] Miller, Capt. Jick Kenderdine, and Jim Sirtosky, all linemen, are the only Hoosier lettermen of those who started against Purdue last year, who are expected to be in the Crimson starting lineup Saturday. Other probable starters include Petrick, end; Szabo, guard; McDaniel and Saak, tackles; Filchock, quarter back; Graham and Heistand, half backs, and Corby Davis, who did not play at all last season, at full back.

Indiana students, at a pep meeting tonight, staged their annual mock burial of "Old Jawn Purdue."

Ticket Manager L. L. Fisher announced that the last seats in the stadium were sold today and that none would be offered at the gates. A record crowd of 25,000 will be on hand.

PURDUE DRILLS INDOORS.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A cold wind and a snow storm forced Purdue's football squad into the fieldhouse this afternoon as the coaches continued efforts to patch up a lineup disrupted by injuries to Capt. Martin Schreyer and Andy Grant, linemen, and Tony Ippolito and Frank Winchell, full backs.

Any lingering hope that Schreyer might be able to resume his place in the lineup was dispelled when a plaster cast was placed on the Boilermaker captain's knee.

Indiana Borrows Cover.

At the request of Indiana, the field cover that is used to protect Purdue's gridiron was rushed to Bloomington this afternoon by truck to be spread over the Hoosier field tonight in order to insure as perfect a field as possible for Saturday's game.

Wisconsin Ills Are Cured by Stuhldreher

fields here on the Wisconsin campus on which Coach Stuhldreher could have sent the Badgers through their paces this afternoon. He chose outdoor snow covered Camp Randall.

Can't Call Badgers Softies.

The 35 Badger players who have been picked for the trip were glad of it. They may have to play under similar conditions against the Gophers on Saturday afternoon.

This cured Wisconsin football patient doesn't want to be accused of being a softie.

The following thirty-five players have been named to make the trip:

Ends—Fred Benz, acting captain; James Riordan, Vernon Peak, Robert Weigandt, John Loehrke, and Ralph Moeller.

Tackles—Albert Dorsch, Robert Eckl, Don Merry, Gene Brodhagen, Abe Sorff, and Bert Conley.

Guards—John Doyle, Lynn Hovland, William Davies, Walter Cole, John O'Brien, and Ervin Johnson.

Centers—Jack Murray, Neil Pohl, and Orville Fisher.

Quarter backs—Vincent Gavre, Ed Hartman, and Ken Bellile.

Half backs—William Schmitz, James Mahkmin, Tony Gradisnik, Steve Lewein, Vincent Cibik, Bronko Malesevich, Herb Trankle, and Roy Bellin.

Full backs—Howard Weiss, Herbert Paul, and Roland Nelson.

GOPHERS STRESS PASS DEFENSE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—It snowed for the first time this year as the University of Minnesota football squad ran through its final heavy workout for the season. And that workout was not confined to the field house alone despite the untoward weather.

Perhaps to give the boys a breath of wintry air in preparation for the possibility of similar conditions Saturday, but more likely to prepare them for ball handling conditions which may face them in the Wisconsin final, Coach Bernie Bierman sent his charges outside. The major part of the day's work, however, was done in the confines of the field house.

Study Wisconsin Pass Attack.

Once more it was the Wisconsin passing attack which came in for the major part of the day's attention. The Badger aerial attack is regarded as the most dangerous faced yet, and the Gophers feel they have cause for worry.

The Badgers will leave Madison at 8 a. m. tomorrow, arriving in St. Paul at 2 p. m. They will remain in St. Paul until near game time.

One of the smallest crowds of the season is anticipated for the final. The wintry weather today cut ticket sales. The crowd is not expected to pass 50,000, if it reaches that.

QUARTER-FINALS ARE COMPLETED IN C. Y. O. BOUTS

The last sectional quarter-final matches in the annual C. Y. O. boxing tournament were held last night for south side survivors at the 124th Field Artillery armory before 3,000. Winners advanced to the semi-finals, scheduled for Monday and Tuesday nights at the downtown gym of the Catholic Youth organization, 31 East Congress street. In all, 64 boys have reached the semi-final round. Winners will qualify for the championship bouts Dec. 1 at Chicago Stadium.

In last night's fights two newcomers in the novice division and one veteran tournament contender starred. The two novice titleseekers were Ed Miller, colored lightweight from Corpus Christi parish, and Jesse Garcia, Mexican bantamweight from St. Clara's. Miller displayed the best form on the card in defeating Sam Senjamin, St. Cecila's, in three rounds, while Garcia stopped Joe Kill, St. George's, in two rounds. The open division contestant who stood out was Ed O'Connell, featherweight from St. Nicholas of Tolentine, who advanced by stopping Pierce Cobb, St. Anselm, in one round. Results:

NOVICE DIVISION.

112 pound, George O'Brien, St. Nicholas, beat Louis Daidone, All Saints [3].

118 pound, Jesse Garcia, St. Clara, stopped Joe Kill, St. George [2].

126 pound, Salvator Bias, St. Jude, beat Mike Sanchez, St. Rose of Lima [3].

135 pound, Ed Miller, Corpus Christi, beat Sam Senjamin, St. Cecelia [3].

147 pound, Bob Johnson, St. Ambrose, stopped Robert O'Conner, St. Rita [3].

160 pound, Vincent Tkac, St. Clara, beat Joe Popielak, St. Patrick [3].

175 pound, Ed Palaskis, Holy Cross, stopped Chester Jedlinski, St. Barbara [1].

Heavyweight, Wendell Elli, St. Thomas, beat Joseph Urbek, Immaculate Conception [3].

OPEN DIVISION.

112 pound, William Moon, Corpus Christi, beat Philip Carey, Visitation [3].

126 pound, Ed O'Connell, St. Nicholas of Tolentine, stopped Pierce Cobb, St. Anselm [1].

135 pound, William Goldsmith, Corpus Christi, beat Jimmy Diamico, St. Bride [3].

147 pound, Stanley Murczek, St. Barbara, beat Henry Reformat, St. Michael [3].

160 pound, Chester Pawlisz, St. Peter and Paul, beat Hiner Thomas, Corpus Christi [3].

RECORD DOG SHOW ENTRY INCLUDES 196 DOBERMANNS

1,362 Dogs from 24 Breeds Listed.

BY BOB BECKER.

Dobermann Pinschers, with a total of 196 entries, head the list of twenty-four breeds of dogs which will compete in the Western Specialty Clubs' association show which opens at the Coliseum tomorrow morning. This large entry is partially due to the fact that Paul Seebass, internationally known Dobermann judge, will officiate. Mr. Seebass, whose home is in Gohfeld Bei Loehne, Germany, judged at the last Siegershow in Germany.

Cocker spaniels, most popular breed in America on the basis of registrations with the American Kennel club, are second to Dobermanns in number entered in this year's show. An entry of 165 cockers will be judged by Harold B. Johnson, Westbury, Long Island, N. Y.

List 75 Boston Terriers.

Other competing breeds, with the number of entries for each breed, are as follows:

Boston terriers, 75; Great Danes, 71; fox terriers [wire haired and smooth haired], 69; collies, 69; dachshunds, 67; Irish setters, 63; chow chows, 62; German shepherds, 54; Sealyham terriers, 53; English setters, 53; English springer spaniels, 49; boxers, 48; Irish terriers, 48; Pekingese, 43; Scottish terriers, 43; Airedale terriers, 42; bulldogs, 40; Pomeranians, 36; Schnauzers, 36; bull terriers, 29; Chihuahuas, 24, and Kerry blue terriers, 17.

The total of 1,452 entries represent 1,362 individual dogs, some dogs being entered in more than one class and therefore having separate entries. This is a record total for the annual specialty shows, of which this is the twenty-seventh.

156 Are Champions.

Of the 1,362 dogs, 156 are champions. These champion dogs will be presented in the parade of champions scheduled for Saturday evening.

The judging of the dogs will start at 10 a. m. both Saturday and Sunday and will last until about 10 p. m. both nights.

BOXER DELAYS TRIAL TO EARN LAWYER'S FEE

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Joseph Goldstein, attorney, made clear today why his prizefighter client, Gennaro Moccio, 18, of Brooklyn, could not appear in Kings county court for trial on a robbery charge.

"He's got to train for a fight Saturday night," Goldstein apologized.

"Why is that so important?" asked Judge Peter J. Brancato.

"No fight, no fee for me," Goldstein said.

Brancato adjourned the trial until Monday and advised the lawyer to have his client there that day.

Louisiana State Trio Carries On for Cards in Pro Battles

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

During the days of the late Huey Long's reign in Louisiana, Gaynell Tinsley, Bill May, and Pat Coffee trailed along behind the little dictator, modestly making good his football boasts for Louisiana State. Long would enter the enemy's camp, break out in a bull bellow, and announce, "We will beat you by 100 points!" Tinsley, Coffee, and May then proceeded to triumph by a touchdown or two.

There was a suspicion in distant football strongholds that inferior opposition magnified the trio's ability. The All-Star game, in which Tinsley starred, nearly a season's play in the pro league, and statistics released yesterday dispelled any skepticism, however.

Fourth Among Star Passers.

Coffee is fourth among the league's forward passers, being preceded in the averages only by Bob Monnett and Arnie Herber of Green Bay and the great Sammy Baugh of Washington.

Tinsley, the outstanding first year performer in professional football, is second among pass receivers, having been passed by Don Hutson, the defending champion in this phase of play during the last two weeks, when schedule vagaries forced the Cardinals into idleness. He has caught 28 passes, six short of the all-time record set by Hutson last year. Hutson, catching at least four in each of the Packers' last five games, has 31. Tinsley leads in total yards gained, however, with 500, against Hutson's 466. Hutson set an all-time record of 526 yards last season.

Directs Pair at L. S. U.

May's name does not appear in the statistics. He is the Cardinals' quarter back. He directed Coffee and Tinsley for two years at Louisiana State and came along to the Cardinals last summer. It has been his expert handling of the Cardinals' offense which has led Coffee and Tinsley into the upper bracket of the league's averages. Professional football was strange to May early in the season. Many of the quarter backing principles which stamped him as a star in college were handicaps against the defensive experts in the National league.

But May, like Dutch Clark, his rival in Sunday's game at Wrigley field, where the Cardinals and Detroit launch a last ditch attack on a share of the western division championship, is a scholar. Diligent study of motion pictures, which form a regular part of every week's work for each National league club now, and interviews with more experienced players have set May straight.

May's teammates in the starting back field Sunday will be Coffee, Doug Russell, the former world champion hurdler from Kansas State, and one of the fastest right half backs in football, and Buddy Parker, one time Centenary star, who came to the Cardinals from the Lions. This is the Cardinals' passing combination. It carries the aerial dynamite.

Second Among Ground Gainers.

Grosvenor is second among the league's ground gainers. He has carried the ball 136 times for a net gain of 458 yards, averaging 3.4 yards per play. Cliff Battles, veteran Washington half back and Rhodes scholar, is first with 553 yards in 139 attempts.

Detroit also has its share of leaders among offensive stars. Clark, who probably will be playing his last game before a Chicago crowd, is fifth among ground gainers with 386 yards and third among scorers with 45 points. Jack Manders of the Bears took the lead Sunday by scoring 16 points against Brooklyn, bringing his season total to 58. Clark Hinkle, Green Bay's great full back, is second, a point behind.

MRS. ENGLISH ASKS DIVORCE FROM EX-CUB

Mrs. Helen Alice English of the North Park hotel, 1936 North Clark street, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court from Elwood English, Brooklyn Dodgers' shortstop and former star infielder for the Chicago Cubs.

Mrs. Helen English.

The couple were married Dec. 12, 1930, at Crown Point, Ind. Mrs. English, the former Helen Golan, a model before her marriage, charged that her husband deserted her Oct. 18, 1936. Stating that her husband is a man of able mind and body, Mrs. English's suit asks for suitable alimony.

TILDEN, CRANE MEET TODAY FOR SOCCER CROWN

The Chicago public high school soccer championship will be decided today when Tilden and Crane Tech meet at Ogden park, 65th street and Racine avenue. The opening kickoff will be at 3 p. m.

Crane, defending champion, and Tilden played to a 1 to 1 tie in their previous league meeting.

Iowa Sends 33 Players to Battle Nebraska Tomorrow

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A squad of 33 University of Iowa football players left here early this morning for Lincoln, Neb., where they will meet Nebraska's Cornhuskers in the final game of the season Saturday.

The squad was to arrive in Omaha shortly atfernoon today and to hold a light practice session on the Creighton university field. The team will remain in Omaha until 8:45 a. m. Saturday, when they will complete the remainder of the trip to Lincoln.

Snow Sends Team Indoors.

The squad was robbed of its final home drill by a heavy snow which fell in Iowa City and the squad was sent into the field house by Coach Irl Tubbs for signal drill and passing practice.

Barring bad weather at Lincoln, Coach Tubbs is planning on utilizing a heavy aerial offensive against the Cornhuskers, with a number of new lateral plays thrown in for good measure.

The squad:

Ends—Lannon, Prasse, Evans, Harris, Smith, Klumpar.

Tackles—DeHeer, Irvine, F. Gallagher, Nead, Baker, Conrad.

Guards—Allen, Brady, Herman, Vergamini, Millitich, Farroh.

Centers—Anderson, Lindenmeyer, Poluga.

Backs—Kinnick, Eicherly, Busk, Balazs, McLain, Falk, Lamb, Kelly, W. Gallagher, Beneitone, Olson, Dean.

COLD HALTS HUSKERS.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A bitter cold wind forced the Nebraska football squad indoors after only a brief outdoor session today. The icy blasts kept the Huskers on their toes but there were numerous fumbles.

At the indoor session the squad rehersed plays for use against Iowa's Hawkeyes here Saturday.

ROOSEVELT'S SON TELLS ST. MARY'S OF HARVARD, YALE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—James Roosevelt told 220 rooters of the St. Mary's College football team today that he alone probably would "make as much noise as all of you put together" when he attends the Harvard-Yale game Saturday.

The Oakland, Cal., group, comprising the rooting section, members of the players' families, and school officials, called at the White House on their way to New York where St. Mary's on Saturday will try to make it four out of seven in its intersectional series with Fordham.

Greeting the rooters as they crowded into a reception room, Secretary James Roosevelt said the president was disappointed in being unable to see them, but had just had a tooth out and it was hard for him to talk.

James graduated at Harvard in 1930.

STADIUM MAY BE FORCED TO HALT ARON-DAY PLANS

Is Ready to Substitute 3 Matches Dec. 10.

Apparent inability to get together on weight and terms may force Promoter Mickey Farr to call off negotiations for a ten round bout between Davey Day, Chicago lightweight leader, and Milt Aron, Dubuque, Ia., welterweight challenger, at Chicago Stadium Dec. 10. In that case Farr plans to substitute three matches at ten rounds between Aron and Harold Brown of the west side, Leo Rodak and Ritchie Fontaine, California featherweight, and Day against a suitable opponent. Henry Armstrong, featherweight titleholder, and Lou Ambers, lightweight ruler, both have refused to meet Davey.

Rodak is booked to fight Varias Milling at Marigold Gardens Monday. Brown will face Johnny Barbara at the same club Nov. 29. Nate Bolden, former intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, sparred yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium in preparation for a five round semi-final with Tony Zale on Monday's card. . . . Lou Angelucci, this year's Chicago Golden Gloves welterweight finalist, is paired with Harry Meyers in a five round amateur fight at Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, tonight. Other simon pure contests this evening will be presented at Northwest arena, 3968 Milwaukee avenue, and Union Park temple, Ogden avenue and Washington boulevard. Davey Miller will referee the eight fights at Union Park. Tony Sopko encounters Duke Mercer, south side featherweight, in one of seven bouts at Northwest.

Barney Ross will make his next fight in January, it was revealed yesterday. At the same time the welterweight champion's brother, Ben Rasof, denied reports that Barney would marry his fiancée, Miss Pearl Siegel of New York, before the first of the year. Barney and his brother-in-law, Irving Kaplan, will return Sunday from a brief sojourn at Waukesha, Wis.

Bill Hasselstrom, South Dakota heavyweight, and Art Oliver have been matched in a six round feature on the program topped by a ten rounder involving John Henry Lewis and Salvatore Ruggirello at Minneapolis, Nov. 23. . . . George Kerwin, former holder of the Central A. A. U. featherweight and lightweight championships, who fought professionally with a measure of success, is employed as a trolley stringer by the Chicago Surface lines. . . . Promoter Fred Kohler has arranged an engagement concerning Jack Claybourn and Alex Kaffner, colored heavyweight from Minneapolis, at White City Monday. Bobby Bruns, who held Champion Everett Marshall to a draw Monday and then wrestled a thirty minute draw with Dory Roche at Rainbo Fronton Wednesday, heads the bill. . . . Joey Chizar, South Bend featherweight, today will be released from Mercy hospital after undergoing an operation for a nasal obstruction there Wednesday. . . . Karl Ogren, Golden Gloves alumnus, showed up in the loop yesterday with his heavyweight protégé, Billy Gillespie. Gillespie will compete in the A. A. U. tournament at Milwaukee Monday. F. M.

Stupple's 70 Ties for Lead at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Bob Stupple of the Skokie Country club of Chicago shared the lead with Ben Loving of Rumson, N. J., and Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., today in the first round of the 36 hole midsouth golf championship. Each beat par by two strokes with rounds of 70. Stupple had 34—36—70, Ghezzi 35—35—70, and Loving 33—37—70.

Tommy Armour of Medinah, playing a great round of 36—35—71, was tied with E. J. Harrison of Little Rock and Leon Pettigrew of Philadelphia for fourth place.

Making his professional debut in the tourney was Henry Clay Poe of Durham, N. C., former Duke university golfer. This 21 year old lad was paired with Jimmy Thomson, and not only slugged the ball as far as Jimmy but outscored him, 72 to 74.

Chicagoland scores:

Bob Stupple, Skokie	34	36	70
Tom Armour, Medinah	36	35	71
Dick Metz, Mill Road Farm	35	37	72
Harry Cooper, Chicago	35	37	72
Horton Smith, Oak Park	38	37	75
Johnny Bulla, Woodridge	39	37	76
Frank Walsh, unattached, Chicago	37	41	78
Francis Gallett, Milwaukee	40	37	77

Time, 1:12 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Clingendaal, $4.40 straight, $3.40 place, $2.90 show; Mucho Gusto, $4.90 place, $3.00 show; Sunned, $4.00 show. Winner, b. g., 3, by Phara-Bedwell. Owner, A. C. Compton. Trainer, H. G. Bedwell. Start good. Won easily, place driving. Went to post at 3:08. Off at 3:15.

CLINGENDAAL handled his heavy impost well. He broke in motion, assumed lead in first furlong, displayed good speed and was going away at end. MUCHO GUSTO was hustled along all the way and was forced to a hard drive to stall off SUNNED. Latter was taken wide all the way, finished fast. WISE PRINCE, well up all the way, had no mishap. RAINLAND stopped badly in last sixteenth.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Three year olds. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $180; third, $90; fourth, $30.

CLINGENDAAL'S SPEED CAPTURES SPRINT AT BOWIE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A. C. Compton's Clingendaal was first in the featured race at the Bowie track this afternoon, turning in the fastest six furlongs of the meeting decpite his impost of 125 pounds.

The field represented the keenest sprinters in training at Bowie with the son of Pharamond II. timed in 1:12 4-5 for the distance. He was heavily backed in the betting despite the weight and the speed of the others, returning $4.40 for $2.

Clingendaal had a length and a half the best of the others at the finish.

Mucno Gusto Is Second.

Mucho Gusto, carrying the Araho stable colors was second to the wire, while Walter O'Hara, head of Narragansett Park and owner of the horse, watched from the stands with friends. A length farther back Sunned was third, a head before Wise Prince and Rainland, who finished as named. The five finished closely, and there was little to choose between them at any stage of the going. Clingendaal won on his merits and was ridden by Al Shelhamer.

O'Hara was warmly greeted by many of his friends, who made light of the militia difficulties which recently beset the Narragansett enterprise. Mr. O'Hara appeared hale and hearty and grinned at his Rhode Island troubles. It was his first appearance at a race track since martial law was established at his track.

Polyata Is Victor.

In the Old Point Comfort purse, secondary feature, William Ziegler Jr.'s Polyata scored by a length and a half.

BALTIMORE SAGE VISIONS ALL U. S. TALKING LIKE US

Radio Spreads Midwest Speech, Says Mencken.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Because of radio, English as it is spoken in the midwest may yet prevail across the nation. That opinion was expressed by H. L. Mencken, author of "The American Language," in an interview the other day with Prof. Cabell Greet of Barnard college, CBS consultant on speech, on a School of the Air broadcast.

"My guess is," the sage of Baltimore explained, "that the radio will help midwestern American prevail throughout the country. It is bound to prevail anyhow. It is somehow harsh, but on all other counts it is a really excellent speech. It's only serious rivals, the Boston and southern dialects, are much inferior to it in every way, and so is the southern English that is standard in England."

Mr. Mencken's expression is not altogether prophetic. On the major networks, even when programs originate in the east, few announcers with accents that identify them with the east or south are permitted. Only one we can recall offhand with a Harvard accent as broad as Mr. Roosevelt's is John O'Connor, a Boston lad. Of course there are certain snooty perfume and cosmetic sponsors who insist on a voice with a Park avenue sound to it. But in the main, wherever speech can be controled in broadcasting, a modified midwestern is already the choice.

Fred Allen is one lad who can go to Hollywood without going Hollywood. With Lionel Stander, former associate and now a Hollywood tough guy, as his guest, he did a thorough job of deflating the typical Hollywood love feast type interview. Instead of exchanging lavish and extravagant compliments and indulging in other kylocyclic backscratching as is usually the case when a movie m. c. presents a star, they said what was in their hearts. Stander pushed off with "Your face is just about the worst I have ever galloped my astigmatism over." To this salute Allen retorted, "You'd shrivel a Boy Scout at 20 paces." That, of course, was only the beginning.

Allen has a new feature he calls "People You Never Expected to Meet," which enables him to give his talents in mild insult full play. First person examined was a boy autograph collector, a glib youth, who returned blow for blow.

News notes: Bobbe Arnst, comedienne of "You Can't Take It With You," is to make a guest appearance on W-G-N's On a Sunday Afternoon show at 2 p. m. next Sabbath. . . . Jack Benny will do his own version of "Lost Horizon" on Sunday. . . . Joanna Xenos, 13 year old prodigy in mathematics, who is a freshman at Mundelein college, will be interviewed on the Radio Newsreel program over WMAQ-NBC at 2 p. m. Sunday. . . . Sheila Barrett and Roland Young will give a streamlined version on the Time of Your Life program on Sunday. . . . Lou Adrian, Chicago theater orchestra leader, will provide the musical interludes for the telepathy series when it moves to CBS on Sunday, Dec. 5.

Paul Whiteman opens a return engagement at the Drake hotel and over W-G-N-Mutual tonight. Oddly enough Whiteman, who until at least recently was still associated with NBC Artists' bureau, in addition to playing his sustaining programs exclusively over Mutual, will soon launch a sponsored series on CBS.

DOROTHY OTT, 23, DIES IN TURKEY ON WORLD TOUR

Dorothy Ott.

Miss Dorothy Wilhelmina Ott, 23 years old, granddaughter of the late James B. Forgan, Chicago banker, died yesterday in Istanbul, Turkey, of spinal paralysis, with which she was stricken a week ago while on a world tour.

She was the daughter of Attorney John Nash Ott, 17 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, and the first Mrs. Ott, who was Jessie Forgan, and who died in 1928. A debutante of 1933, Miss Ott was graduated from Smith college in 1936, and continued her studies in 1937 at the University of Freiburg, in Germany. She left last August on the tour, which she was making alone.

She is survived by her father and stepmother, Mrs. Helen Porter Ott, a sister, Mrs. Mary Ott Kemp of Baltimore, and a brother, John Nash Ott Jr., of 40 Woodley road, Winnetka. Her body will be sent to Winnetka from the French hospital in Istanbul.

HAD 4 MILLIONS, NOW $1.20, FACES THEFT CHARGE

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Gus Oliva who had $4,600,000 eight years ago came to town today with $1.20 in his pockets and a patch on his pants. He faces a theft charge in Los Angeles.

One year the former newspaper carrier paid the government a quarter of a million in taxes on a fortune he reaped in the stock market.

He donated thousands to charity. He spent other thousands to furnish his Russian Hill apartment to rival that of Templeton Crocker, multi-millionaire. Some say Oliva bet $100,000 on a California-Stanford football game.

Then bad investments cleaned him and now he faces a Los Angeles charge of putting up a $1,700 ring as security on a loan, but a cheap ring showed up in its place. On Dec. 13 friends of Gus will give a testimonial entertainment to finance his defense. He denies any guilt.

S. A. Rognstad, Partner in Architects' Firm, Dies

Sigurd Anton Rognstad, 46 years old, a partner in the firm of Michaelser and Rognstad, architects for many public buildings, died yesterday in the Presbyterian hospital after a long illness. He lived at 6528 North Richmond street. The architectural firm, located at 3256 Franklin boulevard, built the administration building in Garfield park and other structures in parks and in Chicago's Chinatown. Mr. Rognstad is survived by his widow, Margaret, and an adopted son, Bruce, 9 years old.

Mrs. L. Hufford, Educator, Dies at Indianapolis, Ind.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lois Grosvenor Hufford, 92 years old, an educator and a student of Shakespeare, died here today. She was the widow of George W. Hufford, principal of the first two Indianapolis high schools. She had been head of the English department of the Shortridge High school for sixteen years and an Indiana teacher for fifty-one years. She was the last survivor of the founders of the Indianapolis free kindergarten.

Despondent Over Injuries, Woman Takes Poison

Mrs. Catherine Astor, 44 years old, 756 California terrace, died in the County hospital last night of poison, which she swallowed in her home on Wednesday. Her husband, Joseph Astor, told police that she had been despondent since she was injured in an automobile accident a year ago.

Frank Lake, Grandfather of Ann Sothern, Is Dead

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Frank Lake, 76 years old, a live stock commission dealer here and grandfather of Ann Sothern, screen star, died here today.

COURT REFUSES RATE STUDY IN TVA POWER CASE

Not Material to Charge, Judges Say.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Consideration of electric rates of the Tennessee Valley authority and the 18 power companies challenging constitutionality of the TVA was denied today by a three-judge federal court.

Presiding Judge Florence Allen of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati said the court ruled that rates of utilities and the TVA are not material to the case.

Utility attorneys said previously they would prove rates of the federal agency do not meet the costs of electric energy production and are "discriminatory against private utilities."

The ruling today halted an attempt to introduce a rate history of the West Tennessee Power and Light company. Attorneys for both sides declined to say how the ruling would affect their court plans.

Will Rule on Loan Testimony.

TVA attorneys indirectly sought a court ruling concerning testimony relative to Public Works administration loans for construction of municipal power distribution systems.

William C. Fitts Jr., TVA solicitor, objected to a question directed at John Wisdom, president of the West Tennessee company, as to "where will Jackson, Tenn., obtain money for a proposed municipal distribution system?"

"We object to this line of testimony on the grounds that it is immaterial where such funds come from, whether from the PWA or private sources," said Fitts.

The question was withdrawn. Judge Allen directed counsel on both sides to file contentions on the question so that a ruling may be made.

Power Injunction Dissolved.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Alabama Supreme court dissolved today a temporary injunction restraining the city of Guntersville from building a municipal power system, holding it had "full legislative authority to that end."

The decision was against the Alabama Power company, which attacked sale of $134,000 bonds and the proposed construction as unlawful.

Counsel for the city said in arguments Oct. 28 that the proposed system would use Tennessee Valley authority power.

American Radiator.

Investors' Guide: I should appreciate information such as a prospective investor should know about American Radiator.—H. J. B.

Answer: The American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation manufactures practically every type of modern plumbing, heating, and air conditioning equipment and accessories used in building construction.

It is the leader in its field, with business extending to all principal world markets. It has 41 plants in the United States and Canada, and 16 others operated by European subsidiaries.

Business shrank and profits turned to losses as American building became paralyzed. Net sales dropped from $144,583,000 in 1929 to $49,798,000 in 1932. Profit of $20,012,000 in 1929 contrasted with loss of $5,991,000 in 1932. Greater stability in European building prevented an even worse showing.

Ordinarily depending on new building, particularly residential, for the bulk of its business, the company has concentrated much effort in recent years on sale of new products for rehabilitation and modernization of existing buildings.

Steady improvement in business of the company leveled off last summer, with the downward trend of new construction and renovation. Sales stayed a little above 1936 levels, but net income slipped to $2,808,000 in the third quarter of this year, compared with $3,020,000 in the third quarter of 1936. For the first 9 months of this year sales were $114,380,000 and net income was $6,537,000, or 63 cents a common share, compared with sales of $91,201,000 and net of $4,544,000, or 42 cents in the first 9 months of 1936. The company's recovery record follows:

	Sales.	Net income.	Inc. per com. shr.
1936	$101,139,000	$7,345,000	$0.70
1935	83,398,000	2,799,000	.25
1934	67,480,000	1,455,000	.11
1933	55,819,000	*882,000	*.14

*Loss.

There are 47,864 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred and 10,045,[illegible] shares of no par common stock. Prior obligations consist of $10,000,000 of 4½ per cent debentures, due in 1947, and $5,724,000 of subsidiary preferred stock.

Common stock dividends were omitted from March, 1932, until September, 1936, when the present rate of 15 cents quarterly was established. Preferred dividends have been paid regularly.

The common stock appears to be medium grade. The preferred is high grade. The debentures are sound.

GRAIN MARKETS CANCEL RISE OF PRECEDING DAY

No New Frosts Reported in Argentina.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

Closing prices on the December delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$0.91⅜	$0.95	$1.17
Corn	.53⅜	.55¼	1.06¼
Oats	.30½	.31	.45¼
Rye	.70⅝	.73⅝	.95
Soy beans	.92¾	.94¾	1.34⅜

Grain markets were as weak yesterday as they were strong Wednesday. Failure of additional frost to materialize in Argentina started a selling movement which carried wheat futures off nearly 4 cents a bushel from the close of the previous day. Although there was a moderate recovery from the early low levels, final trades in North American markets showed net losses of 2¾ cents to 3⅜ cents a bushel.

Corn developed considerable weakness due to a shrinkage in export demand and increased country offerings for deferred shipment. Closing prices were 1¼ cents to 1¾ cents a bushel lower, with the July delivery in new low ground for the season. Oats, rye and soy beans declined in sympathy with other grains. Continued weakness in the hog market caused a break of 35 cents to 40 cents per 100 pounds in lard futures.

Argentine Weather Moderates.

Warmer weather in Argentina had a depressing effect on Liverpool wheat futures, which closed as much as 3⅛ cents a bushel lower. The Buenos Aires market was off 3½ cents before American markets closed yesterday.

There was a notable lack of export demand for North American cash wheat and no sales of consequence were reported of either Canadian or domestic grain.

Purchases of 260,000 bushels of cash corn were made for deferred shipment from the country yesterday, which was said to be the largest day's business of this character so far this season, and the resultant hedging pressure was a factor in depressing futures.

Hedging sales by cash interests were a feature in soy bean futures.

Pare Canadian Crop Estimate.

A wheat crop of only 156,198,000 bushels was harvested in the three Canadian northwestern provinces this year, according to an estimate by the Northwestern Grain Dealers' association, Winnipeg. The association's figures compared with the Canadian government's estimate of 159,000,000 bushels. Last year's harvest in the three provinces was 212,000,000 bushels.

The oats crop in the three provinces was placed at 135,000,000 bushels, or 11,000,000 bushels below the official forecast, and comparing with 136,000,000 bushels secured in 1936. Moderate reductions were made in the barley and rye crops as compared with the official estimate as of Oct. 31.

CHARGE FEDERAL STAF TWISTS OIL TRIAL EVIDENCE

Attorneys for Companies Ask Directed Acquittal.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—(AP)—T. W. Brazeau, attorney for the Cities Service company, objected in federal court today to what he called repudiation by government prosecutors of all testimony by their own witnesses which wasn't favorable to their gasoline price fixing case.

Arguing for a directed verdict of acquittal for the Cities Service company, Brazeau assailed the prosecutors' interpretation of documentary evidence and also their characterization of their witnesses.

In meeting arguments of various defendants for dismissal, Special Prosecutor Hammond Chaffetz has made frequent references to "hostile" witnesses and Prosecutor John H. Lewin has dwelt at length upon inferences to be drawn from certain letters and telegrams.

Charges "Evil Interpretation."

Brazeau, referring to one document, said: "Every single word was given some evil interpretation. These things can't be looked upon from a sordid view; that kind of conduct in a lawsuit was ridiculed a hundred years ago in Dickens' trial of Pickwick."

"You can't repudiate every single piece of evidence that you bring out that isn't favorable to you," Brazeau said to the prosecutors.

Brazeau argued that the Cities Service company, as a holding company, could not have participated in the buying program alleged in the indictment.

Glenn Stephens, counsel for the Barnsdall Refining corporation, urged in behalf of his company that all it did in 1935 and 1936, during the period of the alleged conspiracy, was in keeping with "good corporate practice."

Urge Minor Officials Be Cleared.

B. M. Webster, attorney for four of the forty-five individual defendants, argued before Judge Patrick T. Stone that the prosecution should dismiss the charges against minor officials of the oil companies on trial.

Webster is counsel for the Tide Water Associated Oil company, which already has been dropped from the list of defendants. He contended that many of the persons named in the conspiracy indictments were not responsible for the transactions which the government claims were illegal—that they "merely carried out orders."

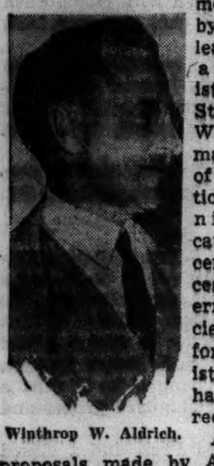
ADRICH URGES REPEAL OF LAWS TO HALT SLUMP

Blames Government for Recession.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Before a state chamber of commerce meeting attended by many of the leading bankers and industrialists of the United States, Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank, tonight laid the causes of the recent business recession to governmental policies and called for repeal of "existing laws which hamper business recovery."



Winthrop W. Aldrich.

Among specific proposals made by Aldrich were a return to the gold standard, a balanced budget, repeal of the undistributed profits tax, modification of the capital gains tax, and the freeing of public utilities from governmental regulation. A balanced budget is the keystone of the whole program, he said.

Predicts Speedy Reaction.

"I believe that if the existing laws which hamper business recovery are promptly repealed or adequately modified, the automatic result would be that industrial production would increase and that the existing business depression would be checked, a result which would benefit every member of the community," he asserted.

Among those who heard Aldrich's demand for a reversal of many Roosevelt policies were John D. Rockefeller and two of his sons, Laurance and Nelson; Charles R. Gay, president of the New York Stock exchange; Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel; Colby M. Chester, chairman of General Foods; Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of Consolidated Edison; Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines and of the International Chamber of Commerce, and many other leaders.

Tells Cause of Recession.

Quoting from President Roosevelt's message to congress in which the President said the fundamental situation today could not be compared with 1929, that the banking system was not overly extended, interest rates were low, the country was not overextended in new construction, capital equipment or large inventories and speculation did not overhang the markets, Aldrich said he agreed with all of that, but——

"What, then is the cause of the business recession?

"I believe," he answered, "that the primary cause is to be found in governmental policies which already bear heavily on business and others which undermine the investing public's and the business world's confidence in the future."

Harms of Money Policy.

One of the uncertainties which, he said, was having a disturbing effect on the international commercial and financial situations was the monetary policy of the government.

"The effect upon the international commercial and financial situation has been disturbing and harmful," he said. "The existence of rumors would be impossible if the gold content of the dollar were fixed by law and the power of the President to alter it repealed.

"It must be remembered that the millions of men and women who constitute that great constructive force which we refer to as 'private enterprise' cannot act in unison under the direction of any individual or group of individuals. Private enterprise goes forward only when the conditions are such that confidence in the possibility of conducting business on a profitable basis.

Reports Needed Changes.

"If the treasury reaches its goal of a balanced budget the cornerstone of the foundation of true business recovery will have been laid. But more is needed. The undistributed profits tax should be repealed. The capital gains tax should be taken out of the income tax category and fixed at a low flat rate so that men will be encouraged to take profits, shift investments, set immobilized funds in motion, and take reasonable risks.

"The public utilities should be freed from governmental competition in order that they may press vigorously foward in making up their vast arrears of construction and reëquipment. And the railroads should be encouraged to do likewise."

Cargill Asks Legal Counsel in Grain Fight

The Cargill Grain company yesterday made a formal request to the Chicago Board of Trade that it be permitted to have legal counsel present Dec. 7 when the directors of the board will hear charges that the company and its officials were guilty of violating rules during the corn market "squeeze" last September.

The demand was made in a letter sent to Kenneth L. Templeton, president of the Board of Trade, by John H. MacMillan Jr., Minneapolis, head of the Cargill interests. MacMillan, two associates, and the Cargill company were named in the board's charges.

Wants Independent Reporter.

MacMillan also asked that an independent court reporter be permitted to make a complete transcript of the proceedings before the exchange directors.

Beyond acknowledging the receipt of the MacMillan letter Board of Trade officials would not discuss the action. It was pointed out, however, that Board of Trade rules do not provide for legal representation or a public stenographer at hearings on charges against members. Some members said it was unlikely that the demand would be met.

MacMillan urged that the board give an early answer to his requests so that the company could "determine our future course of action." Cargill Grain company of Illinois is controled by Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis, which is one of the country's largest grain merchandising organizations.

Says Board Aided Shorts.

The filing of the request yesterday followed the public statement made Wednesday in which MacMillan charged that the Board of Trade aided short sellers in handling the market situation in September. The statement was issued in reply to the report of a board committee citing the Cargill interests for rules violations.

The charges were the outgrowth of the refusal by the Cargill interests to liquidate 1,000,000 bushels of corn when ordered to do so in September by the business conduct committee of the exchange. The market deadlock between the longs and shorts was finally ended when the exchange forced a settlement of all contracts in September corn at a fixed price of $1.10½ a bushel.

Charge Treatment Is Unfair.

As the largest holder of September corn and the principal "long," the Cargill interests charged that they had been treated unfairly and that the exchange had saved the short sellers from big losses.

In his letter to the exchange yesterday MacMillan said in part: "The public interest demands that these issues should be impartially tried. Recent attempts to preclude parties from having their day in court is being condemned from all sides by judicial tribunals and otherwise, and your board of directors cannot, under the guise of interpreting or construing its own rules, deprive us of our property rights."

GIRDLER TO TALK AT MEETING OF MANUFACTURERS

Tom M. Girdler, chairman of the board of the Republic Steel corporation, and president of the American Iron and Steel institute, will be the principal speaker at the fortieth annual dinner meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Stevens hotel on Dec. 14.

Election of officers of the association will be held at the meeting. B. C. Heacock, president of the Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, is unopposed for reëlection as president. Nominees for other positions are J. C. Belden of the Belden Manufacturing company, Chicago, for first vice president; J. E. Otis Jr. of the Stewart-Warner corporation for second vice president; and Paul Schulze of the Paul Schulze Biscuit company for treasurer. All are unopposed.

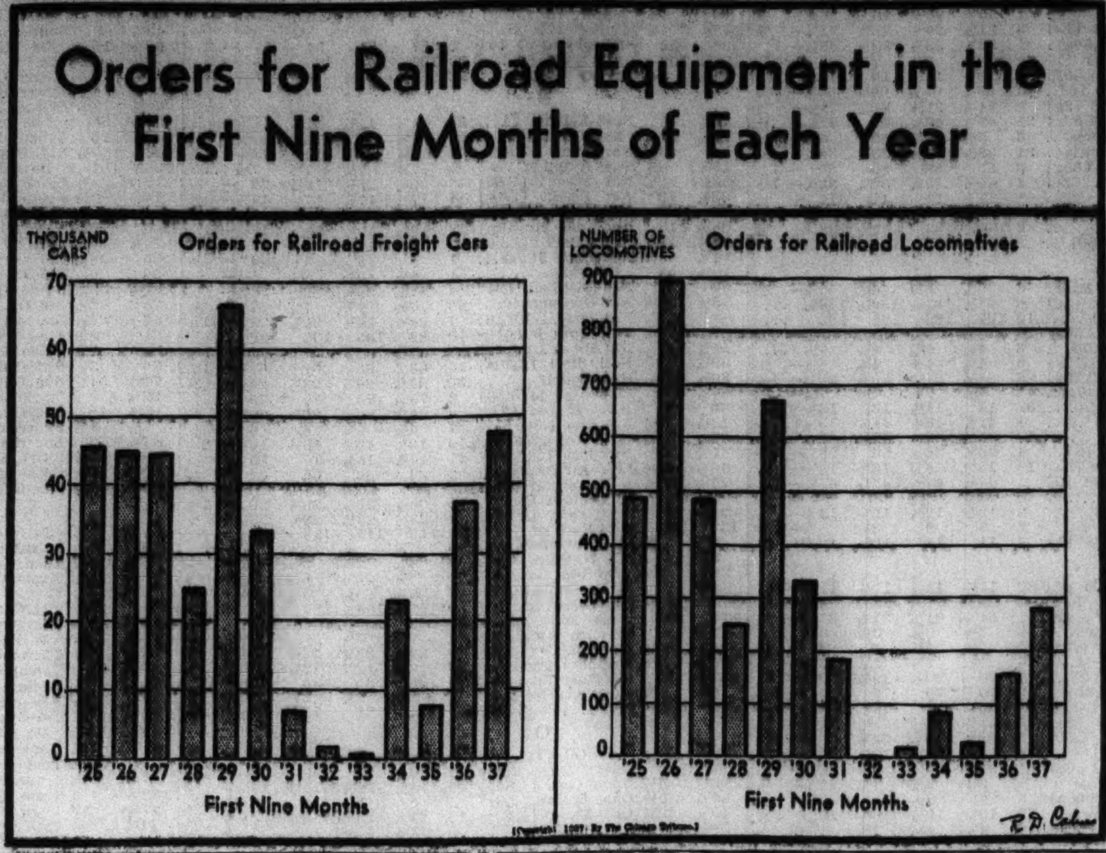
WPA Spends $503,681,761 for Materials, Supplies

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—As of Sept. 30, 1937, the Works Progress administration had spent $503,681,761 for materials, supplies, and equipment for WPA projects, Harry L. Hopkins, administrator, reported today. Lumber led all other products, expenditures aggregating $54,722,881. Cement cost $44,176,623, and paving materials and mixtures $43,672,337.

Talks with Utility Heads Postponed by Roosevelt

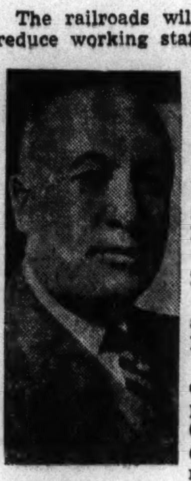
Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The White House today announced that the series of conferences between President Roosevelt and utility executives scheduled for this week had been postponed until next week. Instead of group conferences, as originally indicated, they will be individual meetings, the White House said.

Orders for Railroad Equipment in the First Nine Months of Each Year



Rails May Cut Stafs If Rate Plea Is Denied

The railroads will be required to reduce working stafs sharply in the near future unless granted rate increases, William M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, told members of the National Industrial Traffic league in an address yesterday at the Palmer house.



William M. Jeffers.

Jeffers' audience included approximately 65 railroad presidents, here for a meeting of the Association of American Railroads and nearly 1,000 other persons, including representatives of other carriers, shippers, and business concerns.

A number of roads already have been forced to trim pay rolls, Jeffers asserted, and others soon may be required to follow in view of the current business recession.

Asks Fair Play of Government.

"It now seems a matter of common knowledge that we are in another depression," he said. "Its duration and its seriousness will, in my opinion, be measured by the extent to which we can develop not only team play but fair play on the part of government, on the part of business, and on the part of labor."

He pointed out that large reductions in railroad employment would cause considerable distress throughout the country because so many communities are dependent on railroad pay rolls.

American railroads have become the victim of "a squeeze play," Jeffers said, as a result of inability to adjust rates upward in the face of increased operating costs resulting from wage increases and higher outlays for materials. At the same time, the average revenue per unit of service provided by the railroads has consistently declined and the class of service furnished has been greatly improved in recent years, he asserted.

League Will Hold Aloof.

The league at its afternoon session passed a resolution declining to "participate actively" either in support of or against the campaign of the railroads to win rate increases from the interstate commerce commission. The resolution, however, asserted that "the league is of the opinion that the carriers are seriously in need of increased revenues."

The resolution further urged "that the action of the commission be expedited to the fullest degree consistent with granting of full hearing to all interested parties." It was suggested that the commission allow 30 days from the conclusion of the initial hearing for the presentation of the shippers' case.

At the morning session Charles Braden, New York, was nominated for president. Others nominated were W. Y. Wildman, Chicago, for vice president, and C. F. Hichborn, Chicago, for treasurer.

GLASS COMPANY SHUTS PLANTS; HEAD BUSY ON UNEMPLOYED CENSUS

Toledo, O., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, whose president, John D. Biggers, is conducting the national unemployment census, announced today the shutdown of four plants.

David H. Goodwillie, executive vice president, speaking for the company in Biggers' absence on leave, said slowing orders were responsible. Three of the plants being closed, for periods of a few days to three weeks, are in Toledo. The Ottawa, Ill., plant has been closed for three weeks, Goodwillie said.

Tractor Company Cuts Week.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—The Caterpillar Tractor company, employing 12,000 men, will operate on a four day week starting after the Thanksgiving vacation, officials announced today. Decrease in sales and a surplus of production is given as the reason for the reduction from a five day week.

The Keystone Steel and Wire company, another large local industry, has reduced employment to three and four days a week in its plants.

Auto Production Uncertain.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Production plans of automobile manufacturers for the most part continue on day-to-day basis, although it is generally expected a majority of the producers will be closed down from Thanksgiving day through the end of next week. Present plans call for a full five days' schedule this week. A three day week for a number of producers is expected throughout most of December.

ILLINOIS WARNS AGAIN OF FAKE OIL SCHEMES

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Another warning against "unscrupulous promoters" was issued today by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, who asserted there was a "frenzy of speculation in oil securities throughout the state."

"We find that many unscrupulous promoters, some of whom are fugitives from justice from other states, are engaged in mulcting unsuspecting investors through a wide variety of schemes, all of which are in violation of the Illinois securities law," Hughes said.

He urged that the securities department of his office be consulted on questionable issues.

Expect Another Oil Strike.

Centralia, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—One test northwest and another southeast of Centralia, both by major oil companies, were watched by oil men today as an indication an important field may be developed in this area. Saturated cores were emoved at both tests, it was said.

BANK CLEARINGS FALL SHARPLY IN 22 LEADING CITIES

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Bank clearings in the five day business week ended yesterday showed a decline of 29.4 per cent from the corresponding week a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today. Sharpness of the decline was only partly accounted for by the Armistice day holiday, the agency said.

Clearings in 22 leading cities totaled $5,192,521,000, against $7,358,694,000 the corresponding week a year ago, which had six business days.

Volume at New York City shrank to $3,059,956,000 from $4,710,071,000 a year ago, a loss of 35 per cent. The total at the other cities was $2,132,565,000, against $2,648,623,000 last year, a decrease of 19.5 per cent.

The decline was pronounced at all cities. Chicago clearings fell to $314,400,000, a loss of 20.7 from the $396,500,000 a year ago.

Engineering Construction Contracts Below Year Ago

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Engineering construction awards for the week ended Nov. 16 totaled $34,753,000, a decline of 21 per cent from those for the corresponding week of 1936, the Engineering News-Record reported today. Private construction was 33 per cent down, while public awards declined 15 per cent, the publication said. Details follow:

	Week Nov.16.	Year ago.

MANY CONCERNS PAY EXTRAS TO CUT PROFIT TAX

Total Near Volume of Year Ago.

Extra and special dividends were declared by many more companies yesterday as directors took action to reduce the heavy surtaxes on undistributed corporation earnings. A number of other companies declared dividends of larger amounts than had been paid previously this year.

The flow of special disbursements is rapidly approaching the total of extras paid last December, the first year in which the undistributed earnings surtaxes were in effect.

Underwood-Elliott-Fisher company declared a special dividend of 25 cents and a dividend of $1 for the fourth quarter. This brings dividends for the year to $4.50 a share.

Joslyn to Pay $2 Extra.

Directors of the Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply company declared an extra dividend of $2 on the common stock, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents, and a preferred dividend of $1.50. This brings dividends on the common stock to $4.85 a share this year, compared with $3.80 the previous year. The company earned an estimated $1,013,373 during the ten months ended Oct. 31, equal to $6.25 a share on the common stock, according to M. L. Joslyn, president.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx declared a dividend of 50 cents a share. This will be the company's first payment since 1931.

An extra of 10 cents and the regular quarterly 40 cent dividend on common stock were authorized by Abbott Laboratories. A similar extra was paid last quarter.

National Bond and Share corporation voted a special dividend of $3 a share. On Dec. 15, 1936, a special of the same amount was paid.

Oil Company Pays Extra.

An extra of 20 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents were voted by the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky. In the two preceding quarters extras of 15 cents were paid.

International Harvester company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents on its common stock.

Bon Ami company declared extra dividends on the class A stock of $2 in cash and 2/200ths share of class A stock for each share held, and extras of $1 cash and 1/200ths share of class A stock on the class B stock. The

BANK OF FRANCE GAINS $136,000,000 OF GOLD IN WEEK

Gold reserves of the Bank of France increased $136,000,000 in the week ended Nov. 12, according to the weekly statement issued yesterday. The gain reflects in part sales of American gold to the French stabilization fund which in turn sold the metal to the Bank of France.

The gain in gold is the largest reported by the bank in several weeks. Until the American dollar began to decline recently against the franc gold had been flowing out of France to the United States and other countries.

The French franc eased slightly in terms of the dollar yesterday, closing 0.00125 of a cent lower at 3.395 cents. Commercial demand for British funds lifted the pound sterling ⅛ cent to $5.00¼. The Brazilian milreis continued to decline, closing at 5.90 cents against 6 cents on the preceding day.

TAFT FIGHTS U. S. EFFORT TO AVOID BOND INTEREST

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati, son of former President Taft, challenged before the Supreme court today the treasury's effort to escape paying interest on gold bonds called for redemption in advance of maturity date.

Taft contended that the government could not legally call its gold bonds ahead of time without redeeming them in gold. Since they were not redeemed in gold, he argued that the treasury was required to continue paying interest.

HOLMES CHOSEN NEW PRESIDENT OF SWIFT & CO.

First to Hold Post Outside Family.

John Holmes, vice president of Swift & Co. since 1928, was elected president of the company yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors. He succeeds Gustavus F. Swift Jr., son of the company's founder, who was named vice chairman of the board.

Holmes, who is 46 years old, got his first job with Swift as a messenger in 1906. He is the company's fourth president and the first one not a member of the Swift family.

Both Gustavus F. and Harold H. Swift become vice chairmen of the company in the shift in executive personnel. Charles H. Swift continues as chairman of the board. S. W. Lund was elected a vice president in charge of the pork division.

Swifts Will Remain Active.

As vice chairmen, Gustavus F. and Harold H. Swift will continue to be active in the executive management, representatives of the company said. Harold H., who has heretofore held the title of vice president, will continue to direct activities now under his supervision.

As president, Holmes will be the chief operating officer. He has served in executive capacities in most branches of the company's business, including the engineering, production, export and purchasing divisions. His first executive duties were in the general superintendent's office. He became a vice president in 1928 and a member of the board of directors in 1931.

No Change in Policies.

"There will be no change," Holmes said after his election, "in the policies that have governed our business for more than half a century. The fundamentals of good business management laid down by the founder of Swift & Co. and continued by his sons are as sound today as they were when they were established. I can do no better than continue them."

Holmes' career in the Swift organ-

CAPTAINS OF INDUSTRY, YOUR HAVEN is HERE in MASSACHUSETTS!

Massachusetts is the workshop of America! A 500 mile circle, drawn from the center of Massachusetts, encompasses an industrial, marketing and consuming empire — embracing all or part of 14 states and the District of Columbia. Within this circle the Massachusetts manufacturer finds his opportunity for profitable business. Read these pertinent facts.

Here are:
50.5% of all manufacturing plants in America
53.6% of all industrial workers in America
55% of the total industrial payrolls of America
38.7% of the population of America

And — the manufacturer located in Massachusetts is nearer to the great Canadian markets — nearer to Europe and foreign fields.

Massachusetts industry, founded in the youth of America, has grown to permanence and stability. Your business will find that same haven of security in Massachusetts, where there are no unfair state or local taxes — where ample skilled and honest labor is willing to work — where there is abundant operating power and efficient transportation facilities.

You'll make your product better in Massachusetts. You'll distribute it better from Massachusetts. Excellent manufacturing sites are available at reasonable cost. Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 18.—Fresh weakness developed in the stock market today, leaders closing fractions to two points lower. Trading was dull again, transactions totaling 900,000 shares.

The Dow-Jones industrial stock average declined 2.06 to 125.48, just 1.50 above its year's low mark set on Nov. 8. The rail average closed at 32.01, off .72, and the utility average eased .30 to 22.31. Of 779 issues traded, 573 closed lower, 73 higher, and 133 unchanged.

The fact congress did little more than talk tended to keep many traders on the sidelines. Although Wall street expects tax revision, indications that other taxes may be necessary to fill in the revenue gap acted as a restraining influence. In addition business trends maintained their slipping tendencies. Steels were under the influence of sagging production.

For the first time in five years United States Steel common stock sold ex-dividend. The issues gave way in fairly large supply to close 1¼ point lower. Bethlehem, Republic, and Youngstown also lost material amounts.

Expectation that the car loading report tomorrow would reveal another sharp contraction from the preceding week was reflected in a softer carrier division. Power and light shares were moderately lower. Copper issues showed substantial losses, with Anaconda setting the pace. Aviations, notably Boeing, met better demand and worked fractionally higher.

Chrysler was exceptionally weak in the motors with the industry again beset by labor troubles. That stock closed at 61¼, off 2⅝. General Motors, most active issues of the day, lost ⅞. Merchandising and rubber issues lost up to about 1 point.

Building stocks moved lower, with Johns Manville and U. S. Gypsum losing 3¾ and 1¾ points, respectively.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Railroad liens slumped generally under selling pressure in the bond market today, with losses ranging from fractions to 2 points. Transactions totaled $8,338,450, face value, against $6,504,450 yesterday.

In the railroad group Great Northern, Illinois Central, Baltimore and Ohio, M-K-T, St. Paul and Southern Pacific bonds were the heaviest losers.

Domestic corporate issues were mixed. Anaconda 4½s, Remington Rand 4¼s, and International Paper 5s were slightly ahead. Down a bit were Bethlehem Steel 3¾s, Studebaker 6s, United States Rubber 5s, and Western Union 5s.

Government obligations remained in demand, with gains ranging up to 9-32s.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks again slumped fractions to about 2 points a share in quiet trading yesterday. Of the 81 issues traded 48 declined, only 5 advanced, and 28 held unchanged. Trading totaled 26,000 shares, compared with 20,000 in the preceding session.

Among the favorites Chicago corporation common at 2¼, Cities Service at 2⅛, and Commonwealth Edison at 27½ were each ⅛ lower. Zenith Radio slipped ¼ point to 20. Middle West capital stock finished at 6¾, down ⅜. In the higher priced group Quaker Oats lost 2 points at 93.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were irregular yesterday. First National shares dropped $4, Continental Illinois eased $1, and National Boulevard fell $5 a share. Chicago Title and Trust gained $2. Merchandise National bank shares were quoted unchanged to $10 higher by various dealers.

Commodities

Led by tin, copper and hides, prices of most commodities receded again yesterday. The Associated Press index of 35 cash staples again finished in new low ground for the year or longer and the Dow-Jones commodity futures index showed one of its sharpest declines in the current downward movement.

Copper futures slumped 0.20 to 0.25 cent a pound and export copper dipped 0.30 cent to 10 cents a pound. Tin for immediate delivery dipped 1.12½ cents to 41.62½ cents a pound, and nominal quotations on tin futures were 1.40 cents a pound lower.

Hide futures closed at new 1937 lows by falling 0.74 to 0.80 cent a pound in heavy trading. December contracts were quoted at 8.67 to 8.71 cents a pound at the close and March contracts at 9.05 cents. The Chicago cash hide market was inactive.

Silk futures lost 2 to 5 cents a pound.

Rubber, up 0.05 to 0.10 cent a pound in the futures market, was one of the few staples to finish with gains. Cash rubber closed 0.08 cent higher at 14.56 cents a pound.

Santos coffee futures slipped 0.09 to 0.14 cent, but Rio futures closed unchanged to 0.08 cent higher. Sugar futures were unchanged to a bit higher.

Cocoa futures finished at new lows for the year by declining 0.10 to 0.15 cent a pound.

At the Chicago Mercantile exchange egg futures advanced ⅛ to ⅜ cents a dozen, but cash eggs slumped 1 to 1½ cents a dozen. Butter futures were unchanged to ⅛ cent a pound higher. In the cash butter market, prices were unchanged to ½ cent a pound lower for standard grades and undergrades.

The Associated Press index closed 0.48 lower at 77.36, and the Dow Jones index 1.16 lower at 52.76.

COTTON

Cotton markets showed an easy undertone, due mainly to selling influenced by the decline in stocks. Prices, however, held within relatively narrow limits and recovered part of the early decline on short covering and trade buying. Closing trades on futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of .04 to .08 cent a pound. Other American markets declined .02 to .06 cent.

Reports from New York and New Orleans indicated cotton traders were inclined to go slow on either side of the market pending further developments in regard to proposed legislation at Washington. Owing to a slow demand some domestic cotton mills were reported as having shut down or curtailed their output.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .05 cent lower with New Orleans, 7.90 cents; New York, 7.85 cents; Houston, 7.60 cents and Galveston at 7.50 cents a pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

A. O. SMITH CORP. REPORTS SHARP RISE IN PROFITS

12 Months' Income Double Preceding Period.

The A. O. Smith corporation, Milwaukee, yesterday reported net income of $877,048, equal to $1.76 a share for the 12 months ended Oct. 31, which was double the preceding year's profit of $438,145, or 88 cents.

D. F. Kelly—says high wages and taxes cause loss.

Activities of the company range from manufacture of automobile frames and other fabricated steel products to gold mining. The company entered the latter field in 1936, acquiring several properties and obtaining options on others which it plans to exploit with new mining machinery, which is said to permit extraction of ore at cheaper costs than is now possible.

Reports Cover Twelve Months.

The company reports earnings results for 12 months' periods in lieu of quarterly statements. In its last fiscal year, which ended July 31, net income was $16,555, after provision had been made for expenditures of more than $900,000 in developing its gold mining properties.

Consolidated net profit of $227,733 for the quarter ended Oct. 31 was reported by the Symington-Gould corporation, manufacturer of railroad supplies. The profit is before provision for federal profits surtax and equaled 28 cents a share on the common stock. Net profit was $392,449, or 49 cents ashare, in the preceding quarter. Comparative figures for 1936 are not available.

Chicago Store Reports Loss.

The Fair, Chicago department store, reported net loss of $21,527 for the first nine months of 1937, compared with a profit of $109,175 in the corresponding 1936 period. D. F. Kelly, president, said the loss this year resulted from an increase of approximately 7 per cent in uncontrollable expenses, chiefly wages and taxes.

Sales of the Fair for the nine months' period totaled $12,838,844, an increase of $230,466 over the corresponding 1936 period.

The Chesapeake corporation, which controls the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, reported net income of $5,454,196 for the first nine months of this year, against $5,388,649 last year. The company reported $2,755,000 was added to earned surplus account in the first three quarters of this year after paying dividends of 75 cents quarterly.

Alleghany Corporation Reports.

The Alleghany corporation reported net loss of $92,764 for the first nine months of 1937 against loss of $99,957 in the same 1936 period. The company, a former holding company of the Van Sweringen interests, was acquired several months ago by the Young-Kolbe-Kirby group, New York. Alleghany holds an 80 per cent interest in the undistributed profits of the Chesapeake corporation, which, if included, would give it a surplus for the first nine months of this year.

Net loss of $289,147 for the nine months ended Sept. 30 was reported by the New York Shipbuilding corporation. The company had a profit of $446,340, before federal surtax, in the corresponding 1936 period, most of which represented profit on the sale of its holdings of Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company stock.

Coastwise Shipping Lines Ask 15% Increase in Rates

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—A petition by thirteen water carriers operating between Atlantic and Gulf ports and Chesapeake bay asking for a 15 per cent rate increase similar to that sought by the class one railroads on November 5, and upon similar grounds, was filed this afternoon with the interstate commerce commission.

Decline in Pork Drives Hog Prices to Three Year Low

Another severe decline swept the markets for pork and hogs to new 1937 lows yesterday, with live costs at the lowest levels since December, 1934. Receipts continued heavy, as snow and rain together with the downward swing of the markets accelerated the movement from farms.

Prices of hogs were cut 10 to 20 cents early in the session by the deluge of numbers and closed 25 to 35 cents lower, with spots down as much as 40 cents. A few buyers paid up to $8.40 for occasional lots of 150 to 210 pound averages, but the bulk of good to choice 175 to 250 pound young stock sold from $8.10 to $8.30. The closing top for choice light butchers was $8.15.

Pork May Be Stored.

Buyers are loaded with pork and hogs and may be forced to put some pork into the freezer to relieve pressure on prices late this week. This will be done only as an emergency, packers said, in order to keep the pork and hog markets from becoming demoralized.

There is a broad consumer demand for fresh pork at the current low price levels, but consumption has not increased sufficiently to take care of the considerably larger production of the last few days. The poultry season also has handicapped the sale of pork.

Butcher shops yesterday bought top grades of fresh pork loins at $17.50 per hundred pounds, which was $15.50 under the high time of the summer, a decline of 46 per cent. Further declines are anticipated during the rest of the week due to the accumulation in packing plants.

Lambs Lower; Cattle Steady.

Influenced by the break in hogs and the unsatisfactory trade for wool, lambs dipped yesterday to the lowest levels in eleven months. Declines of 25 to 50 cents were registered. The top fell to $9.10, compared with $10.25 on Monday and a high for the year of $13.35. Shippers paid the top and packers bought downwards from $8.50.

Light receipts enabled commission men to move more of the accumulated supply of cattle out on the market yesterday at fully steady rates. Some strength was evident in a few cases. The best load of steers on the market sold at $14, with the bulk from $8 to $11.50. Steady prices prevailed for beef cows, hefers, calves, stockers and feeders. Bulls declined 25 cents.

HOLMES CHOSEN NEW PRESIDENT OF SWIFT & CO.

First to Hold Post Outside Family.

ization runs true to the pattern that has been followed by many of the company's top executives. From messenger to clerical work, then to minor executive jobs and finally to vice president, his experience encompasses the range of the company's business. He was 15 years old when he entered the employ of the company 31 years ago.

The policy of bringing men up from the ranks to the major executive positions has been a consistent one with the company. It originated with the elder Gustavus F. Swift, who is credited with the observation: "I can raise better men than I can hire."

Holmes lives with his wife and two daughters at 8845 South Pleasant avenue, in Beverly Hills.

Another Veteran Promoted.

As newly elected vice president, S. W. Lund takes charge of the pork division of the company in which he has worked for the last 30 years.

"We are building for the future from strength," Chairman Charles H. Swift said in connection with the changes. "We will have the benefit of Mr. Holmes' executive ability at the head of the business and we shall be retaining all the other ability we now have."

A statement issued by the company said Holmes' election "is an accomplishment of progress on merit, which illustrates the opportunity in American business today for men who are industrious and capable."

Swift directors at their meeting yesterday authorized a dividend of 30 cents a share, the same amount as paid in recent quarters.

BRITISH REDUCE WAR RISK RATES IN TWO ZONES

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—British marine insurance underwriters made sharp reductions today in war risk rates on shipping both to the orient and to the western Mediterranean.

The reductions were believed due to the movement of Chinese-Japanese hostilities away from the Shanghai area and the virtual end of "piracy" in the Mediterranean accompanied by an easier political situation in Europe.

Argentina Repeals Ban on Wheat, Flour Exports

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Argentine government decreed tonight that wheat and flour may be exported as this year's harvest well exceeded the nation's internal needs. The decree repealed that of Oct. 29 prohibiting such exports when it was believed there might be a shortage.

Business Bits

Formation of a division of engineering and research by the Crane company, with L. W. Wallace, head of engineering research for the Association of American Railroads, as director, effective Dec. 1, was announced yesterday by Charles B. Nolte, president of Crane company. The new division will include the existing division of research and development and the product engineering department of the company. Wallace will direct the originating of new lines of products, development of inventions and patents, and possible improvements on Crane products now being manufactured. He has been director of engineering research for the Association of American Railroads for the last three years.

L. W. Wallace.

George A. Blackmore, president of the Westinghouse Air Brake company, John S. Craig, and Leon E. Hickman have been elected directors of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt corporation, filling two vacancies and increasing the board from nine to ten members.

Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight boxing champion, has been elected a director of the Morris Plan Industrial bank, New York.

The firm of Ericson, Nichols & Robbins, Inc., has been changed to Nichols, Garrett & Co. Henry H. Garrett, formerly with the Central Republic company, has become associated with Donald E. Nichols and Charles C. Robbins to continue the investment business of the firm.

Woodward Babcock, partner of Winthrop, Mitchell company, was elected a director of United Paperboard company at the annual meeting yesterday. He succeeds James Todd, resigned.

Rail Executives to Hold Annual Fall Meeting Today

Representatives of all important railroads will meet at the Blackstone hotel today for the annual fall session of the Association of American Railroads. Directors of the association held a preliminary meeting yesterday.

J. J. Pelley, president, will preside. Mostly routine business will be transacted, it was said.

Total Approaching Last Year's Disbursements.

stock distributions will be made out of treasury holdings. Directors also authorized payment at Christmas of a bonus to employés ranging from 7½ to 15 per cent of their annual wages.

Texas Gulf Sulphur company declared an extra dividend of 50 cents and an interim payment of the same amount.

An extra of 10 cents and a quarterly payment of 40 cents were authorized on common stock by directors of the Scott Paper company.

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company declared a dividend of 60 cents on its common stock. The declaration is in accordance with its plan announced in October to supplement four interim dividends each year with a final dividend at the year-end. The company paid four interim dividends of 75 cents each this year on the common and common B shares.

Will Pay in Stock.

McCord Radiator and Manufacturing company declared a stock dividend of one share of funding stock, created recently by a special stockholders' meeting, for each share of class A stock held. This dividend is in lieu of accumulations of $19.50 a share on the class A stock and is final settlement of the arrearages.

An extra dividend of 25 cents and the usual quarterly disbursement of the same amount were ordered by Detroit Steel corporation. A similar extra was paid Sept. 29.

Chesbrough corporation voted an extra of $1.50 and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.

Burgess Battery company authorized payment of a year-end dividend of $3 on its common stock. The company paid $3 on Nov. 1, making the total this year $6 a share.

Anchor Cap Declares Special.

A special dividend of 30 cents and a quarterly payment of 15 cents were declared on the common stock by Anchor Cap corporation.

American Stores company announced that directors had "deemed it wise to omit the dividend at this time because of increased taxes and labor costs." This is its first dividend omission since April, 1920.

Chesapeake corporation declared an extra dividend of one-fifth of a share of Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company common stock on each share of corporation stock. Holders of stock entitled to a fractional share of C. & O. common will receive in lieu of each one-fifth share $7.97—one-fifth of the indicated market value of C. & O. common. It also declared a regular dividend of 75 cents.

Securities Regulation.

Federal regulation of securities was inaugurated by the securities act of 1933. It was known as the "truth in securities law" and sought to make public the fullest information concerning new securities sold in interstate commerce.

The act provided for filing with the federal trade commission sworn statements including such information as commissions or discounts paid or to be paid by the issuer to the underwriter, a complete description of all facts concerning the physical issuance of the securities, the names of officers and directors of the issuing company, names of persons holding more than 10 per cent of prior securities issued by the concern, a detailed statement of the business and financial condition of the company, and the salaries of its officers.

The act provided that a period of at least 20 days must elapse between the filing of the statement and the date on which sale of the securities could be sold or promoted. Penalties were provided for violation of the act.

Tomorrow: The securities exchange act.

RESERVE POURS MORE CASH INTO BANKING SYSTEM

Endeavors to Stimulate Business Activity.

The federal reserve board poured more money into the banking system in the week ended Wednesday by directing the purchase of an additional 18 million dollars of government securities by the central banks of the reserve system. The effect of the purchases was to counteract the normal contraction in the supply of lendable bank funds which occurs with the expansion in currency demand at this time of year. Surplus bank reserves expanded 30 million dollars during the week.

The purchases of government securities were disclosed in the weekly statement of the federal reserve system issued yesterday. It was the second week that the reserve board had pursued a policy of bond purchasing.

Would Stimulate Business.

The extent of the buying indicated that the board is not only trying to offset seasonal banking influences but is endeavoring to stimulate business by piling up more lendable money in the banks. This method of credit manipulation has been employed by the board before, not always with success.

Excess bank reserves reached a peak of more than 3 billion dollars last spring compared with the 1 billion 100 millions at which they now stand. Because many economists and bankers warned that the huge reserves might result in credit inflation, the reserve board backed down on its policy, ordering an increase in bank reserve requirements which automatically cut down the supply of idle money.

The government securities purchased by the central reserve banks consisted of 10 millions of government notes and 8 millions of treasury bills.

Commercial Loans Lower.

The statements of banks in New York and Chicago issued yesterday disclosed a contraction in commercial loans in both centers. Loans to commercial borrowers in New York dropped 28 million dollars, marking a resumption of the decline which began after the stock market encountered its severest break a few weeks ago. Loans to brokers and dealers in New York continued to decline, falling 9 millions from the preceding week's total. Commercial loans of Chicago banks dipped 4 millions from the preceding week.

Monetary gold holdings in the United States reported in the reserve statement were unchanged from the preceding week at 12 billion 789 million dollars.

Inter-Fraternity Club Rents Quarters in Hotel La Salle

The Inter Fraternity club has leased the north half of the eighteenth floor of the Hotel La Salle and will move from its present quarters in the Hamilton Club building tonight. Eventually, according to H. W. Peterson, manager of the club, the entire floor will be used.

Poultry Yard Busy.

November 18, 1937.

THE poultry yard on the experimental farm is busy and well populated now that practically all the guinea hens and turkeys have joined the rest of the birds. There is just one turkey hen that won't come in and be sociable. The flockmaster can account for every other turkey on the farm when he calls the roll in the poultry yard. All the others have come home to roost and eat the free food.

When Rawlings was riding through the woods the other day, swinging past the Half Moon pond to look at the Muscovy ducks and inspecting the box traps along the fences, he noticed this lone turkey. She came up for a handout of corn. He started to drive her toward the barnyard. Pieface, the horse, was guided around the trees so that he always had the turkey out in front and headed for the farm.

Heads Back Into Woods.

When Rawlings had herded it about half way to the poultry yard the turkey took off, circled around, then flew back into the woods. Rawlings rode back and again tried to persuade the runaway to head for the poultry yard. She allowed herself to be "shooed" just so far, then again flew back into the woods. Rawlings said the other day that he is going to try to round her up again this week, but he feels that the first good snow will bring her home on the run.

There is a mystery bird on Half Moon pond which has had the flockmaster and others on the farm somewhat puzzled. The first thing about the bird that baffled everybody was its identity. It proved to be a bluegoose. Now that its specific name is known the boys wonder where it came from.

When we visited the farm the other day the flockmaster immediately told us about finding this unusual bird on the pond. The two of us hustled out at once and found it on the upper end of the pond contentedly feeding with the Muscovies. We crawled on our hands and knees through the grass to get a close look at it. When we saw that it was a bluegoose we were as much surprised as Rawlings.

Appears a Pet Goose.

This handsome member of the goose family, with its white neck and head and brownish gray body, obviously doesn't seem to be a wild migrating goose. The boys are wondering if it escaped from some nearby estate pond. [It is much too tame for a wild goose.] The goose is able to fly, but it didn't fly away the other afternoon when we got within seventy-five feet of it. On the contrary, it stood its ground, waited until we had walked back in the woods, and then came up to the Muscovy feeding place to join in a meal of corn.

It looked like November and corn husking time on the farm the other day. The big field of yellowed stalks was rustling in a cold, biting wind out of the north. The sky was dark and sullen. Back of the field we could see mallard ducks in the sky circling the big pond where the geese and domesticated mallards are acting as decoys. Except for these birds and a few bluejays in the woods nearby, there wasn't a sign of bird life on the landscape.

RAILWAYS OFFER NEW REASONS FOR M. & ST. L. SPLITUP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Associated Railways company asked the interstate commerce commission today for permission to file new evidence in the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad dismemberment case. The new evidence, the company said, would have material bearing on the financial status of the Minneapolis and St. Louis, now in receivership.

The Associated Railways company is a combination of seven major carriers serving the Chicago area which banded together for the purpose of purchasing the Minneapolis and St. Louis. The roads then planned to allot various portions to each participating member, and to abandon more than 400 miles of track.

The dismemberment proposal was rejected recently in a recommendation to the commission by C. E. Boles, head of the commission's finance division. Boles said the proposal would throw many employés out of work and deprive more than forty towns of rail service.

The Associated Railways company now plans to present latest revenue and expense reports of the carrier, as well as a statement as to whether the road was a party to wage increase agreements with employés.

NOTED SPEAKERS ON LUMBERMEN'S MUTUALPROGRAM

Silas H. Strawn, Chicago attorney and vice president of the International Chamber of Commerce; Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business; and Ernest J. Palmer, Illinois director of insurance, will speak tonight at a dinner in the Casino club, 195 E. Delaware place, commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Company.

The dinner will be the highlight of a program which started yesterday and will continue through Saturday. A dinner was given last night at the Edgewater Beach hotel in honor of forty of the company's leading agents, winners in a twenty-fifth anniversary sales contest held during July, August and September, this year.

MARINELLO

NOVEMBER 19, 1937.

AN OPEN LETTER TO AMBITIOUS GIRLS.

If you were starting out on an automobile trip, you would plan your route, and consult a good map to aid you. You would see to it that your car was in good mechanical condition. Then after all preparations were made, you would start your trip.

Have you planned your trip through life as carefully? Do you know what route you intend taking? Are you taking steps to see that your training will take you the full length of the road you intend following? Too many people pull up at the first comfortable stop along the way, and spend the rest of their lives futilely wishing they were farther along the road.

Don't make the mistake of realizing five, ten or fifteen years from now that you are not as far along the road to success as you might have been simply because you neglected to make the necessary preparations which would have taken you there. Plan your life now, and begin your training today. Marinello's modern and scientific course offers unequaled opportunities for ambitious girls and women. It is the best preparation for a successful career.

If you are interested in a career in Beauty Culture, it will be to your advantage to have a personal talk with me at Marinello [National School of Cosmeticians, Inc.], 108 N. State-street, Chicago, the foremost school of Beauty Culture in the world. Day and evening classes at Marinello must necessarily be limited, therefore it will pay you to visit our school today. If you cannot do this, write or phone State 5057 for National Descriptive Manual. A limited number of Students Enrolling for our Class of November 29th will receive an extra dividend.

LOUIS A. PERAUD, DEAN.

Famous Hairdressers Indorse and Welcome Wilfred System of Beauty Culture

Among Chicago's leading hairdressers who have welcomed the union of Wilfred Academy and the Chicago Hairdressing Academy—under the Wilfred banner and under John Mueller's guidance is—

A. F. KRIETER, outstanding Permanent Wave Specialist, who writes: "Inasmuch as I am so well acquainted with Wilfred Academy and the superior type of operators whom it trains, it is indeed a pleasure to know that you have opened a school in Chicago. Best wishes for your continued success under John Mueller's brilliant leadership."

WE'VE GOT SOMETHING!

That is what hundreds of automobile dealers, factory officials, and engineers have told us when they saw the

NEW PROCESS

we have developed for reconditioning used cars.

Before you buy any used car you should know about this new process, which gives you an entirely different type of used car than you have seen heretofore.

To introduce these cars to Chicago buyers we are listing below a few typical examples of the

that we have at each one of our stores.

AT 4949 W. MADISON-ST.

1936 Chevrolet 5 pass. trunk sedan. Hot water heater. Other extras. Tires, finish, upholstery, and mechanical condition like new. A real bargain at $425.

1934 Graham Sport Coupe, 6 wheels. White side tires. Rumble seat. Custom equipment. Low mileage. Original green duco. Only $285.

At 7718 Stony Island-av.

1937 Pontiac Sedan, 4 door, 6 cyl. De luxe model. Radio, heater. Like new. A week-end special........$675
1936 Plymouth Trunk Sedan, de luxe model. Heater. Other extras. Real value $475

AT 2519 MICHIGAN-AV.

1935 Packard 120 Trk. Sedan. Radio. Heater. Beautiful Packard Blue finish. Like new. Very low mileage. Price reduced from $625 to $495.

1933 Plymouth De luxe 4 Door. Exceptionally clean. Perfect motor. Excellent tires. A real value at $295.

AT 3250 MILWAUKEE-AV.

1935 Pontiac 5 Passenger sedan. Beautiful maroon finish. Thoroughly renewed throughout. Worth at least $50 more than our price of $245.

AT 2625 MILWAUKEE-AV.

1935 Oldsmobile 6 4 Dr. Trunk Sedan. Heater. Black finish like new. Knee action. Turret top. Only $395.

1936 Hupmobile 6. $395. De luxe 4 Dr. sedan. Luggage compt., heater, many extras. Beautiful metallic finish and cord upholstery. Tires practically brand new.

Before you buy any used car, be sure to see a "Community Re-Newed" Good-Will Used Car.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS.

Sealed Proposals will be received by the Board of Education of Riverside-Brookfield Township High School, District No. 208, Cook County, Illinois, for the construction of Additions and Alterations to the Riverside-Brookfield Township High School, Riverside, Ill., according to plans and specifications prepared by John Leonard Hamilton, Architect, 814 Tower Court, Chicago, Illinois.

Blueprint copies of plans and specifications may be examined at the office of the Principal, High School Bldg., Riverside. Copies of same may be obtained by application to the Architect, accompanied by a deposit of fifteen dollars [$15.00], five of which will be retained by the Architect to cover the cost of printing, the remaining ten dollars to be returned to the applicant upon the return to the Architect's office of the plans and specifications. After bids have been received the Architect will refund said five dollars to each contractor who has made such payment, and has submitted a bona fide proposal in proper order.

Proposals for General Construction shall include all items under: Masonry, Carpentry, Structural and Architectural Steel, Steel Windows, Hollow Metal Doors and Trim, Lathing and Plastering, Painting and Wood Fnishing, Glazing, Sheet Metal and Roofing, Marble and Slate Work, Terrazzo Floors, Asphalt Tile Floors, and Steel Lockers. Separate Proposals will be received for: [a] Steam Heating, Ventilating and Temperature Control; [b] Plumbing and Sewers; and [c] Electrical Work.

Each Proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check to the order of A. C. Roos, Township Treasurer, drawn on a state or national bank in active operation, or a bidder's bond executed by a responsible surety company, in the amount of 5% of bid price, which check or bid bond the author of the proposal tenders to the Owner as a guarantee of good faith. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a satisfactory performance bond.

In the event that the bidder withdraws his bid or fails to execute a satisfactory contract, or to furnish a satisfactory performance bond after a contract has been awarded to him by the Owner, then the Owner may declare such certified check or bid bond forfeited to the Riverside-Brookfield Township High School District No. 208, Cook County, Illinois, as liquidated damages. All checks and bid bonds thus received, except those of the three lowest bidders for each branch of the work, will be returned by the Board of Education to the respective bidders within five days after the date of opening. The other checks and bid bonds may be retained by the Board of Education for a period not exceeding 40 days after date of opening at the expiration of which time all checks and bid bonds not forfeited for cause as above provided shall be returned by the Board of Education to the respective bidders.

All proposals must be received at the Principal's office of the Riverside-Brookfield Township High School, at or before 8 p. m. December 7, 1937, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud. Any proposal received after that time will be returned to the author unopened.

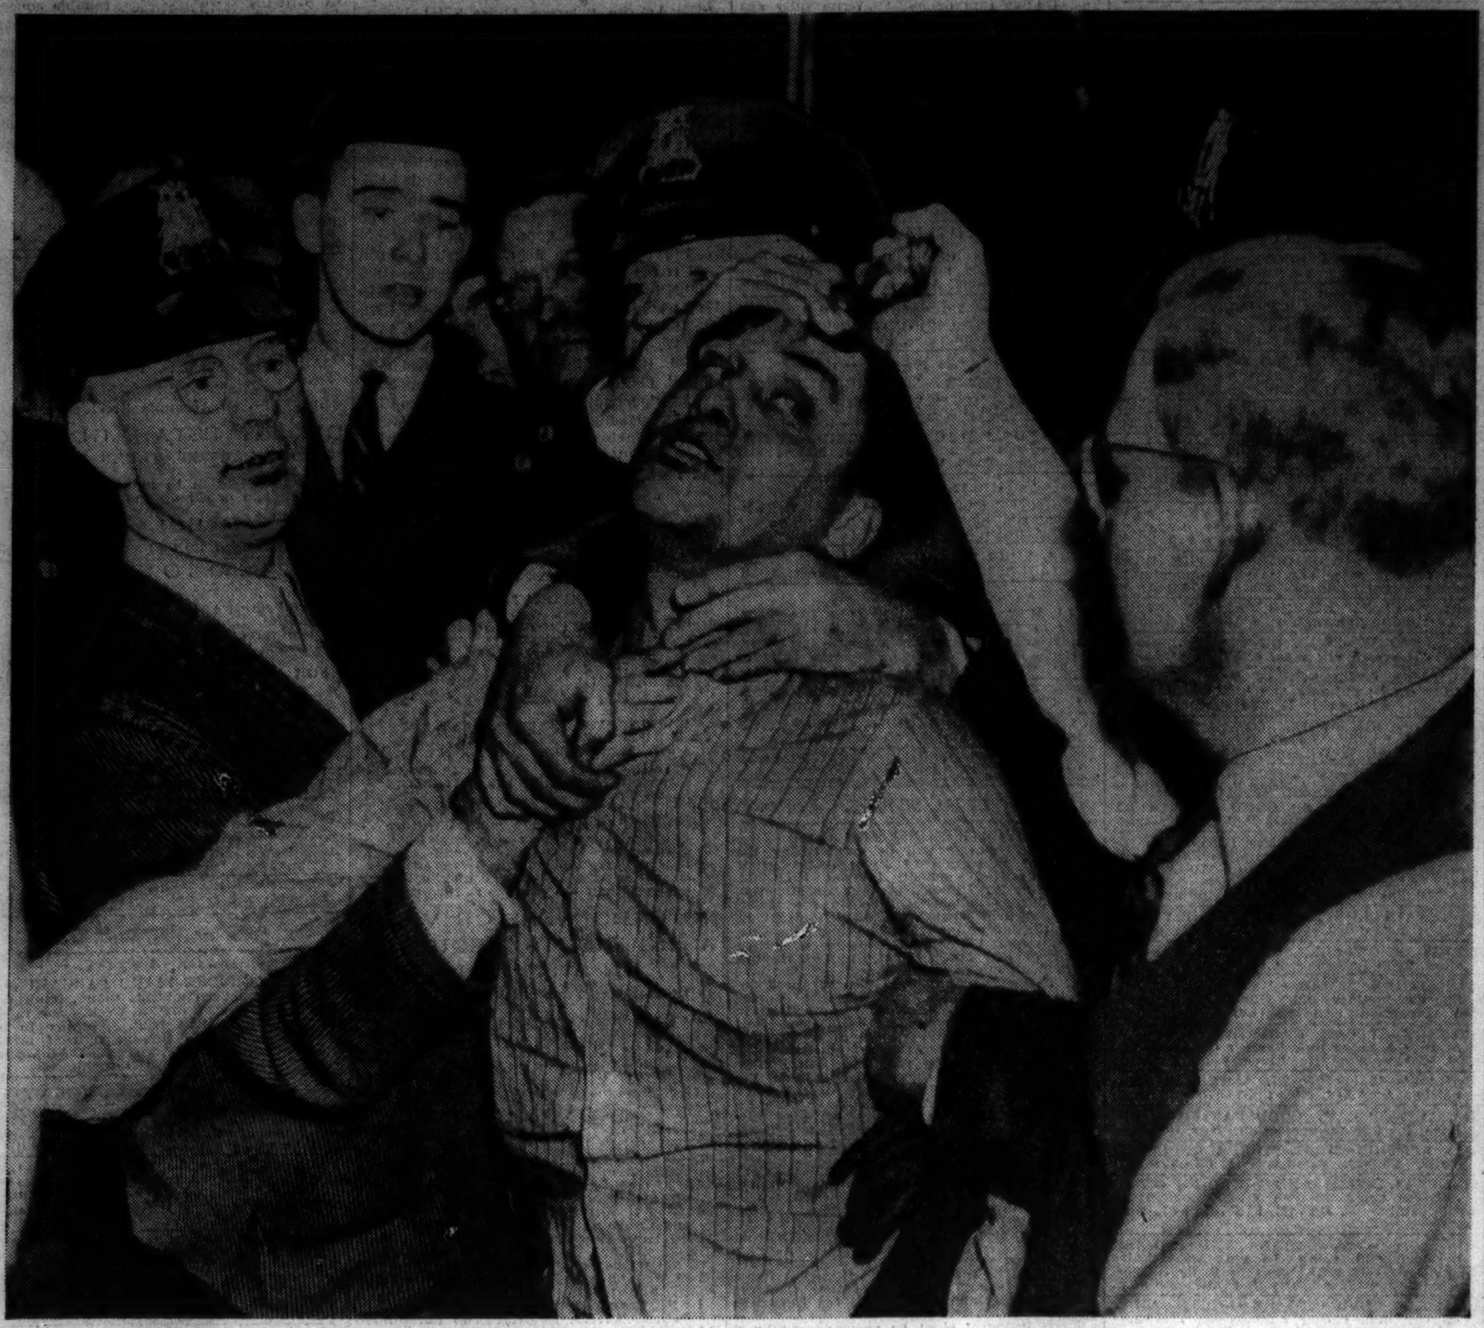
Police Recapture Third New York Kidnaper Who Fled Jail—Aldermen Visit Trailer Camps to Plan Ordinance



[Copyright: 1937: By New York Daily News: From Associated Press Wirephoto.]

THIRD KIDNAPER WHO ESCAPED FROM NEW YORK PRISON IS RECAPTURED—Percy (Angel Face) Geary was camera shy after he was found in warehouse at Syracuse, N. Y., yesterday, but he was "persuaded" to pose by the hair pulling police. At left is Turnkey Frank P. Dowling and at right is Policeman Thomas Lewis. Geary escaped from prison at Jamesville, N. Y., with Harold Crowley and John Oley, both of whom were trapped on Wednesday. All three are kidnapers of John O'Connell Jr. All had been sentenced to Alcatraz. (Story on page 14.)

MENACED IN ATTEMPTED AUTO THEFT—Miss Esther Wimmer, 20, daughter of a high school teacher, who was struck by colored man when he attempted to steal her auto at 57th street and Stony Island avenue.
